Auto-Truck Crash Kills 2 at New London

Another Victim In Hospital

Patrol Frees Truck Driver

Two Vermonters were killed and an Ohioan hospitalized with minor body injuries following a truck-auto collision at the intersection of State Routes 224 and 250 five miles southwest of New London last night.

Mrs. Ruby Shippee, 60, of Rutland, Vt., died en route to New London hospital of a broken neck and fractured skull while Clark Baird, 48, also of Rutland and the driver of the auto, was killed instantly. He suffered a broken neck.

F. D. Kaufman, 57, Shreve, O., was hospitalized with minor body hurts received while riding with the Vermonters.

State highway patrolmen from the Bellevue barracks said Baird failed to make a stop upon entering Route 224 and the collision resulted. The Baird car was struck by a Motor Cargo semi-trailer driven by William Helpbringer of Akron. The trucker was exonerated and not held by state police.

The bodies were taken to the Fitch funeral home in New London.

OTHER OHIO CRASHES

In other Ohio accidents last night the Associated Press reported two men were killed and three other persons injured in a two-car collision near Ravenna and two men injured seriously near Fremont when a bus and truck-trailer collided headon.

Robert Riddle, 27, of Ravenna, and Gaylord F. Clark, 37, of Windham were killed four miles northeast of Ravenna when another car struck Riddle's auto broadside on a hill. Occupants of the other car are being taken to Robinson Memorial hospital in Ravenna, were William Page of Brecksville and a newly-married Pittsburgh couple, Richard Kerting, 22, and his bride, Lois, 25.

An Ohio Rapid Transit Lines bus from Cleveland to Toledo and a truck-trailer crashed six miles east of Fremont on U. S. Route 20. Two men in the truck were injured seriously, but none of the 42 bus passengers was hurt.

James Hicks, 25, and Herbert Hughes, 32, both of Angola, Ind., were hurt and trapped inside the cab of the truck which overturned. The bus spun completely around.

Coast Strike Demands Cut

NEW YORK — (AP) — Progress "in general terms" toward settling the 11-day-old east coast dockworkers' strike was reported last night, but talks were recessed for the week end.

The hopeful statement by Federal Mediator William N. Margolis came after four hours of separate and joint meetings on a new union proposal. The new union proposal cut wage increase demands from 50¢ to 25 cents an hour.

Margolis said he would meet with union negotiators Monday morning and it also was reported that employers and union officials had agreed to a joint meeting later Monday.

Another optimistic note came late yesterday when Secretary of L[illegible] Maurice J. Tobin telegr[illegible] a promise to ask Congr[illegible] new laws on overtime questions that have been a major problem in the strike.

Heart Disease Ignores Aleuts

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. —(AP)— Inhabitants of the Aleutian Islands enjoy "almost complete freedom" from heart diseases, a Harvard expedition to the North Pacific islands disclosed yesterday.

The expedition, under the direction of Harvard's Peabody Museum, spent last summer in the sub-Arctic area studying the habits, history and health of the Aleuts, Mongoloid inhabitants of the barren islands stretching between North America and Asia.

Children's Home Given OK

The Ohio Department of Public Welfare has approved, with recommendations, the Richland County Children's home, John F. Finefrock, chairman of the Child Welfare board, said yesterday.

The certificate of approval is for the year ending Sept. 30, 1949, and is issued for the "care of not more than 60 dependent and neglected children during the first six months and for the care of not more than 50 children of school age during the last six months of the certification period."

The letter, signed by John R. Ferguson, administrative assistant of children's services of the board, contained the hope that "the board, during the course of this period, will be able to solve some of the problems relating to staff and program of the home and will also be able to establish definite long range plans for improvement."

FOLLOWS UP SURVEY

These plans were contained in the recent survey made by Mrs. Virginia Ferguson and Miss Mary Jane Paumier, who came here from the state welfare department to go over county welfare problems.

The state recommended that additional drinking fountains be installed, that approved type bublers be used, submerged water inlets to tubs be eliminated, handwashing facilities in the upstairs boys' toilet rooms be provided and that water supply piping be improved.

The report also suggests that garbage disposal methods be improved and that preparation and handling of food comply with provisions of the United States Public Health Service code.

The recommendations included in Ferguson's letter were made by D. P. Griffin, district sanitary engineer.

City Rates High In Jobs

Among Ohio cities of similar size Mansfield is one of the top spots for job seekers.

Only Lorain reported a larger number of job placements during October. A total of 523 jobs were filled here last month. The number represents a 16 per cent increase over September's total of 451.

Placements in unskilled jobs totaled 306, while 85 semi-skilled workers were employed. Sixty-eight clerical and sales workers were placed, 38 persons in service jobs found placements, and 16 skilled workers were hired. Nine agricultural workers and one professional person found employment.

Employment figures show no change in the trend to maintain employment at an all-time high. In the first 10 months of the year 4,000 jobs were filled here, representing a 20.8 per cent jump over the 3,300 jobs filled during the same period last year.

Britain Loses Oldest Citizen

ST. ASAPH, Wales — (AP) — Britain's oldest inhabitant, Miss Isabella Shepherd, who claimed to remember the coronation of Queen Victoria in 1836, died yesterday. Her official age was 115, but she may have been even older.

Her exact age was not known since she was born in London before birth registration became compulsory 112 years ago. In 1908 a government pension commission ordered records to show she then was over 75.

Miss Shepherd was employed for most of her life as a household servant. She attributed her age to "hard work and no boy friends."

THE BIG PILE—The post office is being swamped with parcel post packages. It is not the result of Christmas mailing, but has been going on all this year because the city has outgrown its post office. Here Acting Postmaster Curtis L. Ford ponders a portion of a 7,440 cubic feet pile of packages.

CIO Ousts 'Red' Group

NYC Council Loses Charter

PORTLAND, Ore. — (AP) — The CIO executive board Saturday revoked the charter of the New York City CIO council on the ground that this body has given "slavish adherence" to the Communist party line.

The decision, which CIO President Philip Murray said was by a vote of 33 to 5, ends the case.

In a joint statement James Durkin, president of the New York City council, and Saul Mills, executive secretary, said they will not appeal the verdict to the CIO convention next week.

They denied the charges of Communist party dictation, but said they would accept the decision in the interests of CIO unity.

The executive board appointed Louis Hollander, president of the New York State CIO Council, to take over all property and funds of the city group and wind up all its affairs.

Then, later, CIO officers will determine when to issue a charter to a new council and will set a time for election of officers.

Cairo Girl Shuns Altar

THOMASVILLE, Ga. — (AP) — Pretty Efthalie Kyriakides, 25, who came from Cairo, Egypt, to South Georgia to marry Herschel Reagan, called off her wedding yesterday.

"Herschel just isn't a one-girl man," the dark-eyed Egyptian said. "I found out he didn't love me enough to marry me."

Their romance bloomed beneath an Egyptian moon when Reagan was soldiering in Cairo in 1945. It weathered a three-year separation.

Parcel Post Flood Swamps Post Office

By SHELDON BINN

Acting Postmaster Curtis L. Ford has a 7,440 cubic foot headache—and it's getting worse every day.

The tremendous volume of incoming parcel post is threatening to crowd everyone out of the post office building. For instance, at noon yesterday, a space 25 by 25 feet was piled 10 to 14 feet high with packages. Other sections of the building also had piles of incoming packagees.

"It's more than a month before Christmas," Ford said, "and already we're getting crowded out. And this is not a seasonal fluctuation. This sort of thing has been going on ever since the beginning of the year."

The cause of the "big pile" is multi-sided. For one thing, Ford explained, in the last year and a half express rates have risen to such a degree that manufacturers have found it is cheaper to ship by parcel post.

"It's reached the point that some concerns are breaking down machinery and mailing the machines, piece by piece, rather than pay the more expensive freight and railway express charges," Ford explained.

Things are a little worse now because many retail merchants are receiving their Christmas goods by mail, Ford pointed out. Some early Christmas gift mailing has started, too.

HANDLED TWICE

"And just to complicate matters, half of the stuff will come right back as persons buy the articles and send them out as Christmas presents all over the nation," the postmaster said.

To find another source of the problem, you have to go back to 1914. In that year the Mansfield post office was completed. It was built on plans drawn up a year before and just prior to the passage of the parcel post law.

The post office was built to serve a population of 30,000 persons.

Fall Winds Blowing Out

Blizzard Area Being Cleared

KANSAS CITY, —(AP)—A late fall blizzard which paralyzed a large strip of the great plains area from eastern Colorado to Minnesota blew itself out yesterday.

Despite the storm's paralyzing fury, only five deaths had been attributed to the blizzard as relief workers reported that of the hundreds of persons marooned only one definitely was known to be still missing.

In South Dakota the town of Delmont still was blocked by drifts, some as high as 15 feet. A northwestern passenger train was stalled yesterday at Adrain, Minn., but railroad workers expected to free it.

McPherson, Kas., hotels were hard pressed to care for 450 extra guests—stranded travelers who could not get out of town.

Power lines and telephone and telegraph lines were being restored slowly in Kansas and Nebraska, but communications still were uncertain and the exact extent of the damage could not be ascertained.

U. S. Hits Arab Grab In Negev

Stand Backs Israel Claim

By The Associated Press

The United States took a formal stand yesterday against any United Nations action to take the Negev desert from Israel and give it to the Arabs.

U. S. Delegate Philip C. Jessup told the 58-member political committee of the U. N. assembly no reduction in Israel's territory should be made without full consent of the Jews.

It was the first formal U. S. statement before the U. N., however, on the recommendations of Count Folke Bernadotte, slain U. N. mediator.

As far as the question of the Negev goes, the Jessup statement lined the United States up behind Israel and against Britain. The Israeli government has announced it will not give up the Negev. The British are sponsoring the Bernadotte plan.

Elsewhere in the United Nations:

Security Council President Juan Atilio Bramuglia received a long Russian reply to a questionnaire on the Berlin currency dispute.

The general assembly's second political committee voted 44 to 6 to extend the life of the little assembly for another year.

In London, the western European alliance continued to work on a rough draft of a North Atlantic defense pact for presentation to Washington before President Truman's state of the union address.

In Athens, Greece's new coalition government laid a new program before parliament outlining plans for economic and military measures to crush communist guerrilla forces. The cabinet asked parliament to give it a vote of confidence and then suspend meetings until Feb. 1 while the new program is launched.

Spain Holds City Voting

MADRID —(AP)— Spain's first municipal elections since the civil war a decade ago, will be held today. They come at a time when this question is being asked: Is the power of the totalitarian Falange Party increasing or on the wane?

About 6,000,000 heads of families are eligible to vote in 9,223 cities, towns and villages for one-third of the members of municipal councils.

Another third will be chosen Nov. 28 by government-controlled syndicates, the labor-employer associations which pass for labor unions in the Franco regime. The final third will be picked Dec 12 by the city councillors elected in the two previous votes. This third is chosen from lists submitted by the civil governors of the provinces.

The official press has referred to reports the secretly active communist movement is urging voters to boycott the elections. Voting is secret—and compulsory except for those over 70, the infirm, clerics, judges and notaries.

Lippizzanders Put On Block

FORT RENO, Okla —(AP)— Seven Lippizzaner horses, once owned by the Hungarian royalty and seized during the latter days of World War II as booty, will be sold here next week.

Two royal coaches, eight single sets of harness and ornaments and one coachman's livery will be sold with the prized horses Tuesday as a unit under sealed bids.

The nimals and equipment were part of the royal stables until sized by the Third army in Germany. They had been moved from the Kestor and Babolna stud farms in Hungary so they couldn't be grabbed by the advancing Russian army.

Civil War Jobs Still Have Takers

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Civil war veterans carrying messages for congressmen? That's what an old law says. And the jobs are kept filled, even today.

Of course, there are no Civil war veterans applying these days for the 14 soldier-messenger jobs in the House of Rpresentatives, even though the appointments are for life. But it's patronage and there's no shortage of applicants.

To get around the life tenure provision, the appointees are required to file their resignations in advance. Then, whenever control of Congress changes from one party to another, the resignations are accepted and 14 more messengers are appointed "for life".

President Starts Back To Capital

Parleys Loom After Flight

KEY WEST, Fla. — (AP) — President Truman put away his slacks and open-neck sports shirts last night to fly back to Washington for important peace talks.

A "wonderful" two weeks vacation ended, he boards the "Independence" at 11 a. m. (EST) today for the four-hour flight to the White House.

There, at 12:30 p. m. Monday he will sit down with Secretary of State Marshall around the desk in his oval room office for the first of a series of conferences to review the nation's foreign policy in all trouble areas of an uneasy world.

A meeting with his cabinet, the first since the election, is probable on Friday.

The President also will talk with W. Averell Harriman, "roving" ECA ambassador, but Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said the time of Harriman's appointment had not been fixed.

The President is known to hope he can pursuade Secretary Marshall to delay his retirement.

The White House clamped tight the lid of secrecy surrounding its consideration of Chiang Kai-shek's personal appeal for a new American policy statement of support.

Quarantine Keeps Nine In Trailer

AKRON—(AP)—Life is a little complicated in the Conrad trailer. Nine persons are quarantined there.

The trailer-type habitation, about 15x20 feet, in a war-time housing project is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Conrad and their four children.

The first event leading up to the present situation was Mrs. Conrad's departure for the hospital to have a baby.

She asked a friend, Mrs. Alberta Muncy, to come in and care for David, 7, Tommy, 5, Patty, 4, and Diane, 16 months. Mrs. Muncy brought along her two children, David, 5, and John, 20 months.

Not knowing the Conrad's wouldn't be "at home," along came a pair of visitors, Private and Mrs. William Riley. Private Riley was on furlough from San Antonio, Tex.

Just then it was discovered David Muncy had scarlet fever. Mrs. Conrad and the new baby hadn't returned from the hospital, and Conrad was away, but everyone else was quarantined — the four Conrad children, Mrs. Muncy and her two children, and the Rileys. David wasn't seriously ill, so he wasn't taken to a hospital.

Riley is allowed outside at intervals, for water and medicine.

The two women say "We're going crazy. It's bedlam around here."

RED OFFER REFUSED

COLOMBO, Ceylon — (AP) — An authoritative source said yesterday Ceylon bad rejected an offer from the Soviet Union to purchase the dominion's entire rubber output.

Bid Seeks New Unity For Labor

Similar Nod Given to CIO

CINCINNATI — (AP) — The AFL took another step toward the elusive goal of labor unity Saturday. It invited John L. Lewis and his 600,000 miners to come back to the fold.

Earlier in the AFL convention, the delegates had approved a resolution inviting the CIO to return. They declared the door was not only open to the rival labor group, which meets in Portland, Ore., next week, but said they were extending a hand of welcome to the CIO.

The Lewis resolution said it was a "deep shock" to the AFL to learn of the miners' disaffiliation last Dec. 12—after the bitter convention fight in San Francisco. Lewis had fought almost single-handed to get the AFL to refuse to sign non-communist affidavits.

Although not a communist, he wanted to take that provision, which is the basis of eligibility to use the National Labor Relations board, as the signal for an all-out fight against the Taft-Hartley act.

LOST FIGHT

Lewis lost at the San Francisco convention, called the other AFL leaders "intellectually fat and stately asses," and said the federation "has no head; its neck just grew and haired over."

But yesterday the AFL seemed willing to forgive. The resolution said "we do not here attempt to explain or interpret the paradoxes involved in this disaffiliation."

Whatever may have motivated the action, "the march of events since then has not shown a justification for disaffiliation of the UMW from the AFL and we hope that the union, mindful of the loss resulting from disaffiliation, will reconsider its decision and rejoin their parent body, the AFL."

"We hope that they will return home to function in the family of which, by their very nature, they are a functional part."

While these open maneuvers were used to attract the CIO and Lewis back into the Federation, quieter negotiations were under way with the International Association of Machinists, claiming 650,000 members. The machinists left the AFL two years in a jurisdictional battle with the carpenters.

GREEN OPTIMISTIC

Hope was expressed this week by AFL President William Green and some other members of the executive council that the reaffiliation of the machinists was "not too far off."

The 650 convention delegates earlier heard Vice President-Elect Alben W. Barkley advise them not to allow the 81st Congress, assembling Jan. 3, to forget the pledges of President Truman and the Democratic party.

"What was said in the campaign is just as valid now as it was before the election," Barkley told the cheering delegates.

The major objectives, he said, were repeal of the Taft-Hartley act, strengthening of the labor department and boosting of the minimum wage from 40 cents an hour to 75 cents. The rate was fixed by the fair labor standards act of 1938.

Reach Accord On Hirohito

TOKYO —(AP)— Emperor Hirohito was granted immunity from war crimes charges by the unanimous decision of the Allied governments, Joseph B. Keenan, chief prosecutor in the Tojo trial, said yesterday.

Sir William Webb, president of the international tribunal, said in handing down the sentences of Hideki Tojo and his 24 co-defendants, that while Hirohito was immune he could not escape responsibility.

Keenan insisted the emperor was, only a constitutional monarch who "merely rubber-stamped the policies of his ministers."

Storm Scenes Beautiful From Air

Snow Less Picturesque to Groundlings

SYRACUSE, KAS. — (AP) — Winter looks different from the air.

It's an old story to the airline and military pilots. But to the groundling, the geometric pattern drawn by snow and wind in the western Kansas blizzard has amazing beauty.

Today the checkerboarded mile squares of flat Kansas wheatland were overlaid by drifted snow—long feathery fingers streaking across fields from the northwest. Brown furrows of earth and occasionally the bright green carpet of young wheat showed through.

It was a beautiful snow scene from above, but at ground level it wasn't so picturesque.

Drifts piled up as high as 20 feet from snow that totaled at the most perhaps seven inches on the level.

Stalled cars and trucks lined highway ditches. Cattle grouped shivering in fence corners. Isolated farm buildings huddled, with no tracks showing—the occupants holed up by the storm.

Highway traffic snailed its way behind snow plows on still-drifted highways, or barreled along those already cleared.

Wire companies were beginning to catch up on the communications backlog, piled up by snarled and broken lines throughout the area.

Section hands, bundled heavily against the chill wind, worked at trouble points along the rail lines —but the trains were going through again.

At Syracuse, along the southwest rim of the worst Kansas storm area, Editor and Publisher Albert James of the Weekly Journal commented:

"There's not much water in it for the wheat crop—it blew off the fields and piled up on roads and in gullies. We had no distress reports here.

"Some people's cars stalled, but they found shelter. Some sheep were buried in the drifts. You expect that. The storm scattered livestock from hell to breakfast."

U. S. Ponders Western European Bid for Military Pact

Plan Would Link Nations Against Foes

New Congress Faces Problem

WASHINGTON, —(AP)—Early in the new Congress members will be asked to decide whether this nation should go to war for a friend the instant that friend is attacked

Debate promises to be historic Never before has this nation been willing to say to another nation "your safety is mine'

But now, faced with the march of communism through middle Europe and the far east, top American leaders in both political parties, in the state department and in the national defense agency have decided to ask Congress to pledge aid to five European nations

The five are Britain, France, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourgh — the so-called "western union" nations. Those nations have already pledged a "one-for-all" military protection of each other.

The Europeans want Americans and Canadians to say "when any of us is attacked in the future all of us will gang up immediately" Months ago both Washington and Ottawa began to explore the idea American and Canadian military men are sitting in on planning sessions of the five European nations

Both state department men and military men have told this reporter that noghing is clear in Washington at this point except that they believe such a pledge would be good for this reason We could make war so hard to wage as to either delay a potential enemy for a long time or stop another world war in its tracks

Some months ago state department advisers told the western union nations to do two things (1) Work out what they could do among themselves to put up a strong defense and (2) figure out what help they would need from us and Canada

ACTION TAKEN

The five nations' military leaders have (1) decided to give uniform training to their troops, air and navy men, (2) named a single commander, British Field Marshall Bernard L Montgomery, (3) began to plan a joint defense policy, (4) listed the supplies they can make themselves and what they would need from us.

That shopping list will be presented to the new Congress

Washington experts are uncertain now the exact shape any new American move should take on the law books Senator Arthur H Vandenberg (R-Mich), the Republican leader on foreign policy, has already said the pledge should be made in a treaty, which the Senate would have to ratify

State department men think there should also be an "enabling law" giving the government the "go-ahead" and an appropriation bill voting money to cover the cost of supplies to the "five western European armies

There are many stumbling blocks on the road Here are some

1 The top American military man on the negotiations says some Europeans still think we could land an air force in Europe the day any of them is attacked

He points out that would take previous permission to use their airports great gasoline and parts dumps and trained repair crews He says he will oppose putting American supply dumps on the continent until he thinks Europeans are able and willing to fight long enough to keep the supplies out of enemy hands

He says the Europeans are now working out means for using each others airports They are also figuring out how to share military surpluses, such as guns bullets shoes and the like

2 American experts now think that any armaments plant in the five nations should be left to turn out materials for the alliances armies and not be converted

FAVOR SELF-AID

The Americans want Europeans to turn out all the military supplies they can for themselves —as for example British turning out planes Belgians small arms and several of them electrical equipment

American army men expect trouble putting the best designs into production They fear national pride may stop one nation from using the top designs of others, such as the American jet plane

Americans think such an attitude would waste both manpower and materials in nations that were occupied early by the British and Canadian researchers remained free to improve designs

3 The top U S military negotiator spoke a further warning Washingtons top planners will have to convince the American people that it is better to get ready ahead of time to fight beside friends than to wait for the bombs to fall on all separately He says all the European governments will have to sell the same lesson to their own people

He adds

'Nothing is free Americans will have to learn that again if we build up western European armies Take steel It is now short in the peace-time programs both here and in the nations we're helping It will be shorter if we build up western union armies'

State department men told this reporter that they have insisted to Europeans they must get together to increase their collective strength, that they must be ready to share what they have before they ask us for help.

State department men think the virtues of the plan are

1 It will show the Russians the western world is determined to 'throw the book at them if they start anything'

2 It would buck Europeans up enough to put their full efforts on rebuilding

This past summer both the Senate and the House foreign committees unanimously passed a Vandenberg resolution which says in effect

Congress wants the government to feel free to join whatever collective arrangement will make the United States more secure against war

Charleston Drops Gentility To Make Bid For New Trade

CHARLESTON, S C —(AP)—The grand old lady by the sea, the one-time queen of the Atlantic, is courting again

For years she languished with a genteel case of economic vapors and counted her past conquests

The old girl began to get restless right after World War II

She saw the hustle and bustle of the war years dying away again as it did after the first world war

And she was no longer content to return to the quiet that settled over the port after the Civil war which ruined her commerce an made her a strictly second rate competitor.

So in 1945 the Charleston Development board was formed by 16 business men, each of whom put up $10 000

The money was there how to use it?

The government put up the Starke hospital and its grounds for sale and what happened since sent the old girl's blood pressure chart climbing at a 45 degree angle

Using the years 1910-45 as a norm the line on the chart is straight across but beginning in 1945 it started climbing on the boosts provided by the convergence of 68 new industries making 37 new products

The South Carolina state ports authority also want to work improving harbor facilities, rail and truck connections and generally making it easier to do business in Charleston than any other port on the south Atlantic

Charleston's population climbed from 98 711 in 1940 to an estimated 145 000 in 1948

But back to the starke hospital

The 16 business men called in Arthur M Field, native of Seattle and engineer graduate of Cornell university He came to Charleston from Memphis where he had made a reputation converting war industries to peace time uses

Field cut the hospital up into small plant areas, he hunted up skilled men and $500,000 in risk capital, and then set about hunting business to start or move to Charleston.

After a concern moved in, or set up shop from scratch, Field and the development board acted as silent partners until the business was able to go it alone

But Field did insist on one thing diversification of industry

Now the one time hospital is an industrial park in which 1 500 men work

Charleston offered no special inducements of tax reductions Field simply advertised Charleston as a good place to do business

'Get Smart,' Doctor Tells Girls

'Beautiful But Dumb' Act Out of Favor

NEW YORK, —(AP)—You are away behind the times if you think men want wives who are beautiful but dumb, says Dr Frances Scott

Dr Scott is president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women (140,000 members) She is also associate professor of hygiene at Smith college In both jobs she meets lots of girls and men

"I see silly girls who still think they have to do the 'oh you great big strong man' act," she says "They don't get second dates

"College surveys show a man doesn't want a beautiful but dumb wife. He may like such companionship for an evening. But he wants a life partner with a few brains and ability to use them Times have changed Partner and partnership are words frequently used by both men and women to express what they want in marriage today."

Dr. Scott - a physician of 30 years standing - sees that change as typical of times in which the world is juggling more problems than ever before and women have extended their rights and activities to outstrip by far what they did in the past.

"Another thing to consider is the greatly improved health of women" She says

"In 1900 we had such a fixed idea that women couldn't do physical activity that mothers didn't even want their daughters to take gym Now women in industries and nurses and WACS who worked at the front have shown us that, given good health today's woman can stand as much physical strain as men of comparable strength"

CREED IS BALANCE

Dr Scott is a smartly coiffed softly tailored woman with intelligent eyes and a friendly grin Her creed is balance She helps keep it in her life by frequent sessions with her carpentry kit (Her father gave her one when she was five) In her Northampton, Mass house she refinished floors, reset doors, changed locks and sawed and put up shelves

Dr Scott believes the time has come for women to stop talking about women's rights and work harder on their responsibilities, to vote, to hold office and to be at least as interested as men in civic and government affairs

'We have won most of the legal and civic rights and now we should get ou in our communities and show what we can do with them" she says

"In the next few years it is extremely important that two things be done First, we must see that more qualified women are elected to office and appointed on boards of policy Second, we must qualify more women for those jobs I cannot see that our communities are well served by government that is about 99 per cent men

'Men and women look at life differently. A man is a very impersonal sort of being in his business and community. He thinks in terms of money and material Women think of the world in terms of people - of human relationships.

"Take a school board Men are primarily concerned with the school plant, cost, budget, salaries appearance and the way the school reflects the pride of the community Women look at the teacher that is dealing with their children, the safety of transportation, the food served and so on

If you have all of one sex on the school board - or any other policy-making body - one set of these factors will be overemphasized at the expense of the other What we need is balance created by the linking of both women and men"

Court Asked to Review Beach Murder Conviction

COLUMBUS — (AP) — The Ohio Supreme court was asked Saturday to review the first degree murder conviction of a youth called a psychopathic personality

Counsel filed an appeal on behalf of Harold A Beach jr, 23, sentenced to die in the electric chair at Ohio penitentiary Feb 2 for the knife murder of eight-year-old Sheila Ann Tuley in Cleveland They asserted that Beach a psychopath—emotionally unstable — had not received a fair trial

The appeal set aside the execution date pending the supreme court's decision

Beach's attorneys asked the supreme court to 'keep constantly in mind the mental and emotional make-up of the defendant" in deciding whether he had a fair trial

Beach pleaded not guilty to the murder charge by reason of insanity His conviction by a jury in Cleveland was sustained by the court of appeals

Sheila Ann was found dead of knife wounds on the porch of a neighbor's house in Cleveland last Jan 1 Twelve days later Beach was arrested in Baltimore Md and returned to Cleveland for trial

Attorneys for Beach told the supreme court his constitutional rights had been violated They declared Baltimore police showed indifference to his rights by not advising him he could keep silent when a purported confession was obtained from him.

Baltimore police knew attorneys said, that Beach had been in an institution for male defective delinquents at Napanock N Y, as a mentally defective person

United States Supreme court decision in an Ohio murder case was cited by Beach's counsel in support of the claim that a confession was obtained from Beach illegally The attorneys said the U S Supreme court last January set aside the conviction of John Harvey Hale, 17 at Canton O, on the ground of police indifference to his rights

Haley had been given a life sentence for a 1945 holdup slaying

Peace Draft Progresses

LONDON — (AP) — The western European alliance is plugging away on a rough draft of a north Atlantic defense pact for presentation to Washington before President Truman's state of the union address.

Reports without official confirmation circulated in diplomatic quarters that the representatives of the five countries — Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxemburg—have accepted a French proposal the defensive partnership with Canada and the United States should last for 50 years

Responsible diplomatic officials reported the state department, in informal exchanges with representatives of the alliance countries, tentatively has set May 1 as a target for the document's final acceptance by congress.

The meetings of the alliance countries' representative here have been conducted in secrecy — so much so, in fact, that the British foreign office has refused answers to the simple question of whether they are in session

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Monday, November 22

Monday's astrological forecast encourages the honest and forthright approach to all ambitious projects and desires, where stakes are high and of major long-range significance. Honest efforts, practical techniques by a proper show of diplomacy, tact and consideration of undercover values and contacts. A legitimate "pulling of strings" in the right places could beget most potent reassuring and subtle satisfactions, Ideals and dreams might bring practical and enduring reality into business as well as personal affiliations.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are in line for recognition, advancement and preference from those in high places, providing such be based on honest effort, forthright and practical attempts to secure important position or honors. Tact, finesse, diplomacy, backed by sound purpose and high aspiration, could give exceptional pleasure and gratification of a subtle and possibly mystical quality. Ideals and romantic dreams could "come true" under astute manipulation of high principles.

A child born on this day possesses a sensitive, refined and idealistic nature, in which finer forces and faculties may bring exceptional rewards and emoluments. Intuitions and deep insights may be safe guides even in workable dreams or aspirations.

Wall Street Stocks Show Rising Trend

Market Gaining As Week Ends

NEW YORK — (AP) — The stock market finished the week on a rising note Saturday.

Gains in the short session ranged from fractions to more than a point, with some issues hitting new highs for the year.

Business was skimpy. The tickr tape joggered along at the usual slow week-end rate. Transfers were at the rate of only $00,000 shares or so.

Professional traders accounted for most of the days operations, which has been the case most of the week. A small amount of investment buying orders trickled into the market, offset by the normal year-end tax sales. Bargain hunters were on the watch for what they considered good buys.

Among the gainers were American & Foreign Power $7 and $6 preferreds, Kansas City Southern, Plymouth Oil, Standard Steel Spring, Joy Mfg., Inland Steel, J. I. Case, Douglas Aircraft, American Smelting, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, Owen-Illinois, Katy preferred, Denver & Rio Grande Western, Nickel Plate, and Standard Oil (NJ).

General Portland Cement moved up a point to a new top for the year, influenced by an extra and increased quarterly dividend. Motorola also reached a new 1948 peak.

Pepsi-Cola slipped a trifle and skated close to the year's low. Other sticky issues included Allied Stores, Atlantic Gulf & West Indies, Colorado Fuel & Iron, National Distillers and Kennecott Copper.

Selling Wipes Out Advances On Board of Trade Saturday

CHICAGO—(AP)—Selling toward the close either reduced or completely wiped out early advances in grains on the board of trade Saturday.

Some of the selling in wheat came from the southwest, and may have represented hedging, but for the most part the late slump was attributed to profit-taking after a week of firm markets.

The selling did not get underway until December wheat had pushed to a new high since last April while both July and September sold at peak prices since trading in these contracts started. Buying was based on continued small receipts of cash grain at terminals

Wheat closed ¾ lower to ⅞ higher, December $2.40⅜-½, corn was ⅛ lower to ⅜ higher, December $1.44-$1.44¼, oats were ⅜-¾ higher, December 85⅛, rye was 1 to 1½ lower, December $1.30, soybeans were 1 cent lower to 1¾ higher, November $2.77½-¼, and lard was 30 cents lower to 63 cents a hundred pounds higher, November $19.20 to $18.25.

Blind Mother's Baby Will See

ATLANTA — (AP) — A four-pound- eight-ounce girl was born yesterday to Mrs. W. L Cash, whose first question was, "can she see?" The doctor replied that the baby was normal in every respect Mrs. Cash smiled happily and the tensions of past months dropped away.

She and her husband, a piano tuner, have been blind since birth. The mother, who does her own housekeeping, said a physician told her it would be dangerous for her to have a child.

"I had faith, and I just couldn't believe the doctor was right," she said.

U. S. Philanthropy Increasing Sharply

NEW YORK—(AP)—There is an ancient Moslem maxim which says "prayer carries us half way to God, fasting brings us to the door of his palace, and alms gain us admission."

It may be this kind of faith, or it may be the newer element of high taxes, but whatever the cause, American philanthropy in the form of private trusts and foundations is increasing markedly.

The treasury department estimates there are more than 10,000 organizations throughout the country which can be called philanthropic, but most of these are small and semi-anonymous. A survey by the Russell Sage foundation reported 505 foundations with capital assets in excess of $50,000 each. Their combined financial strength is more than $1,800,000,000.

The federal income tax became law in 1914. Before that, in 1900, there were only four or five foundations. In 1915, the Sage people found 23; in 1924, 77; in 1938, 156 foundations and 31 community trusts.

After the second world war the figure had jumped to 505. Thus, while it may be true that man's social conscience is expanding, it is also true that the sharpest increase in foundations had coincided with the sharpest increase in income tax rates.

The trend now in this type of philanthropy, reports F. Emerson Anderews of the Sage foundation, is away from organizations based on large single gifts from huge fortunes like Rockefeller's and Carnegie's. People with smaller amounts are getting into it, too.

This somewhat democratized trend in giving has led to community trusts, in which various philanthropies are merged into one organization to cut down administrative costs. The New York community trust, for example, handles the income from 67 separate trust funds with a total value of $17,000,000.

TREND CONTINUES

But some big American fortunes are still coming into the field. Last January, the four children of the late Joseph N. Pew of Philadelphia set up the Pew Memorial foundation for religious, charitable, scientific, literary and educational purposes. The money will come from oil stock valued at approximately $50,000,000.

In the spring of 1947, Hugh Roy Cullen of Houston, Tex., announced plans to create an educational, health and charity foundation out of oil holdings worth $160,000,000. Cullen said he and his wife were "selfish" because they wanted to see the money spent in their lifetime and derive pleasure from their gift.

In the old days, a foundation's work has largely the "market basket" type of direct, individual relief. But with public welfare becoming more and more a responsibility of government, private capital has become freer to go into research, into prevention and cure, instead of mere alleviation.

In recent years, 85 per cent of the money coming from the nation's foundations has gone into education, health and social welfare. The remainder was spread over economics, religion, race relations, recreation and problems of international relations.

It is difficult to get specific figures on many of the foundations but the sage survey, based largely on 1944 figures, found that the 505 largest foundations spend about $72,000,000 a year.

Citizenship Goal Urged

DAYTON — (AP) — American women were told last night it was no longer enough for them to be good mothers.

Miss Margaret Hickey of St. Louis, public affairs editor of the Ladies Home Journal, said they must also fight "in the front line of citizenship.

In an address prepared for the convention of the Ohio Association of Deans of Women, Miss Hickey said:

"Whether the American woman likes it or not, she must give expression to one democratic fundamental—no nation is greater than its women. We need the leadership, the statescraft, the special skills in human relationships and the plain common sense of women.

...In all the blueprints of a good and secure world, the greatest need is for age-old services with which women have always been concerned, services that still cluster around the home, school, hospital, or community center.

"We need a much wider understanding of the skills and abilities needed to build happy and successful homes."

Heads CROP Drive

ROBBER ESCAPES

DAYTON — (AP) — A robber escaped with $3,059 and two diamond rings after beating Howard Belt, 65, in his home early Saturday.

THANKSGIVING AIM—That certain day is approaching, so Clancy Rae of Albany, N. Y., gets out his trusty blunderbuss and aims to have himself a traditional Thanksgiving dinner as he sights a turkey fit for the occasion. Demure Natalia Mann is thinking of how the gobbler will look in the roasting pan. The costumes are in keeping with the holiday.—(International)

Congressmen Plan Checkup On Waiting Lists for Cars

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Congressmen intend to find out whether it is worth your while to get on a dealer's waiting list for a new car.

Also, how long you'll have to wait for delivery if you sign up.

And maybe, whether "hydrotone" is dealerese for a wash job.

The task will be undertaken by the same House subcommittee which heard testimony last week about automobile buyers paying $300 to $500 tips, agreeing to take accessories they didn't want, and accepting skinny prices for the cars they traded in.

The hearings are to resume the week of Nov. 28.

The subcommittee also may take a look at the practice of requiring deposits on cars even though there is no prospect of their delivery for a year or more.

John Reddan, committee council, told reporters:

"One thing we'll probably bring out is the futility of getting yourself on a list. We are going to find out how these lists operate.

"We are going to show just why you've been waiting 18 to 24 months for a car. We hope to come up with an estimate of how long the average wait should be."

The committee, headed by Rep. Macy (R-NY), has received complaints that some dealers get up fake waiting lists and sell places on them for $200 or $300.

Once again, the subcommittee is going to dig into the business of automobile dealers in Washington, on the assumption that it is representative of what goes on in the rest of the country.

The subcommitee estimates that in the first seven months of this year new car customers throughout the nation lost $200,000,000 on under-valued trade-ins and paid more than $250,000,000 for unwanted accessories.

Balloon Mark Set By Army

FORT MONMOUTH, N. J.—(AP) —A balloon altitude record of 140,000 feet—27,200 feet higher than any balloon had ever gone and almost 13 miles higher than human beings have managed to climb—was claimed yesterday by the U.S. Army Signal Corps.

The Army announced the new record was set Sept. 28.

To reach the 140,000 foot mark —about 26½ miles—the balloon spent two and a half hours rising from the earth.

All Constitutional Guarantees Suspended In Venezuela

Hint Cabinet Shakeup By Army Heads

No Fighting Follows Decree

CARACAS, Venezuela—(AP)—The government suspended constitutional guarantees of freedom of press, speech and political meetings yesterday amid rumors that some army officers are demanding a cabinet shakeup.

The decree, issued by President Romulo Gallegos after a meeting of the cabinet, said it was made necessary by "circimstances that have created a state of alarm which affects the economic and social life of the nation."

The suspension will continue until normal conditions are restored it was announced. The decree will be submitted within 10 days to the permanent commission of the national congress which functions between regular sessions.

Government spokesmen declared there was no fighting anywhere in the country. In recent days, however, precautions have been taken to guard Miraflores palace, home of the president.

The Communist Party issued a handbill charging that conspirators within and outside the army were plotting a "cold coup against the constitution and the republic."

The pro-government ultimas noticias published an announcement obviously intended for the armed forces. It warned that "it should not be forgotten that to govern in Venezuela it is necessary to take into account 300,000 union workers." It quoted Defense Minister Delgado Chalbaud as saying a delegation of high army officers last night assured President Gallegos they would continue to support constitutional government.

Opposition newspaper have been accusing the government of failing to combat inflation and of yielding to labor demands.

Army men who formerly were influential have been complaining that the government was growing dictatorial and that the Democratic Action Party was monopolizing positions of power.

Since President Gallegos took office early this year it has been obvious that the party was building up a militant strength which minimized the role of the army.

Gallegos is Venezuela's first president elected directly by the people. He succeeded Romulo Betancourt who headed the junta which overthrew President Isaias Medina Angarita in October, 1945.

EXPLAIN DANGER—

Police have been pretty busy these days keeping people informed on the proper use of firearms. A few days ago they gave four small boys, caught playing with a loaded rifle, a lecture on the danger of guns. Yesterday afternoon, in response to a call from a local eatery, they relieved a homeward-bound hunter of his .22 caliber rifle, after explaining the danger of a loaded rifle in the hands of a loaded hunter. The man had done some drinking along with his hunting and had gotten into an argument with another patron of the eating establishment. Careless handling of the weapon during the argument had prompted a spectator to call police. The law-and-order boys said the man could get his gun back when he had sobered up.

Folk Dance Held At 'Y'

The gay rhythms of polkas, schottisches, and western folksongs set the pace for 50 couples last night at the first "double Y" folk-dance. The dance was held in the YMCA gymnasium and was the first of a series to be jointly sponsored by the YMCA and the YWCA.

Music was furnished on records played on a console loaned by the Nerby Piano House. Miss Mildred Moxley, the instructor for the dances, exhibited considerable know-how regarding folk-dance steps. She showed the new dancers the fundamental and the more complicated steps involved.

Among the western dances attempted were "Put Your Little Foot Out," "Little Brown Jug," and "Cotton-Eyed Joe."

The hall was decorated with the emplem of the double Y, a symbol of the cooperation that is being attempted by both Y's. Leaders of both organizations plan to achieve a greater degree of harmony between the groups by jointly-sponsored events.

The next dance will be held Dec. 4.

Packages Pile Up At Post Office

Limited Space Hampers Operations

vice mail and periodicals, but with no thought of parcel post.

The final complicating feature, Ford pointed out, is the fact that the building was constructed when approximately 26,000 persons were served by the office. Now the number has more than doubled, he said.

"Not only that, our receipts (postage stamps sold for mail and packages) have gone up from $90,000 in 1914 to $600,000. Furthermore, we've tripled our staff, from 40 to 120, yet we are still working in the same space," the postmaster explained.

"Our incoming parcel post totals about 4,000 to 5,000 cubic feet. We've got to move it to the city's business establishments and residences in six trucks with an average capacity of 100 cubic feet. As our trucks can make, on the average, only two aand one-half deliveries a day, we've got to work 10 hours a day, including Sundays."

DELIVERIES SLOWED

It's not too difficult to service the business areas, but the C. O. D. packages and the delivery of first class mail to storage boxes slows up residential deliveries, Ford said.

Of course, part of the burden is shouldered by the rural and mounted route trucks, but the problem is still immense, he added.

And what's the answer?

Ford said the city needs a new post office.

Meanwhile, Ford said, he hopes that the problem will be lessened to some degree by improvements due to be constructed in the near future. A contract has already been let to enlarge the loading dock at the south side of the building to speed up the loading and unloading of some 18 vehicles.

A chute will be constructed to the basement and a freight elevator from the basement to the loading platform which also will speed up operations. An additional 900 feet of parcel post servicing space in the basement will help matters.

Ford said his problem is going to grow worse as Christmas approaches.

Even though the Armory has been rented for 18 days in December, 125 additional men will be hired and six trucks added to the equipment, For said it's going to be difficult handling the "big push" that is sure to come.

Chimney Causes Blaze In Attic

Called to the home of Charles Lewis on South Diamond street road at 5:15 yesterday afternoon, firemen from Central station extinguished an attic fire, caused by a defective chimney.

The blaze burned a hole in the roof but firemen brought it under control before flames could spread to other parts of the house. Damage was confined to the roof and one room.

Lands Blow On Officer

A Mansfield policeman was injured late yesterday afternoon as the result of a fracas that developed when he tried to break up a fight between a man and a woman in a North Main street cafe.

Elmer Treadwell, 41 Harmon avenue, was arrested and held for investigation, after he struck Patrolman Glenn Adams. Police said Adams intervened when Treadwell and an unidentified woman were fighting.

Treadwell turned upon the policeman and struck him with his fist, then grabbed Adam's nightstick and landed one blow on the officer's head. Other officers appeared on the scene and subdued Treadwell.

Adams was treated at Mansfield General hospital for contusions of the ear and lip, and lacerations of the head. Police said Treadwell would not be released until the exact extent of the policeman's injuries were determined.

Work Starts On School At Bellville

Work on the new eight-room addition to the Bellville school has been started by W. H. Howard and Associates, Columbus contracting firm.

The Howard company won the general contract on a bid of $139,467. It was the only general contract bid received by the Bellville Board of Education.

The successful bidder on the electrical work was the Belville Electric company, with a bid of $5,800. There was one other electric bid.

Board members deferred awarding of the plumbing and heating contract because the only bid received, that of the Malone Plumbing and Heating company, of Mansfield, was $13,000 over the $33,000 estimate.

Originally, the board had plans to build a three-story 12-room addition. However, the bids came too high and members decided to go ahead, instead, with an eight-room building.

It will be built on the front of the present structure. E. H. Rider, superintendent of Belville schools, said the new building will have a cafeteria and kitchen, two sciene rooms, a superintendent's office, and four classrooms.

Rider said that the contractor plans to put in the foundation now and then stock-pile materials, to be able to go ahead with the balance of construction in the spring. Although there is no completion date, plans are to have the addition finished by the fall opening of school.

The board has $166,196 available for the construction project. That sum was raised through two bond issues — one voted three years ago and the other in November of last year.

The architect is Charles Marr, of New Philadelphia.

Peas are a good addition to a number of other vegetables. Here are some of the possible combinations: with carrots; with cauliflower; with new potatoes; with corn.

Pledge of Allegiance to Flag

"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Advise On Care of Dependent Children

REAL DEMOCRACY in action is evidenced by the work of the Richland County Child Welfare Council. Formed in August, the group has just completed and submitted to the board of county commissioners three pages of specific recommendations for improving the child welfare program in the county.

The recommendations were made only after a careful study of a survey made recently by the State Welfare Department and after especial study of the dependent child problem in the county, by members of the council itself.

What the council proposes is forthright and clear:

It suggests that a "family life" concept of the welfare program be adopted. This means, simply, putting children in foster homes instead of in an institution. Its advantages are obvious. Its problems are obvious, too. Indeed the council asks that great emphasis be put on making the public conscious of the need for foster homes.

At present, Cuyahoga and Summit county welfare departments are sending their children to foster homes in THIS county! The council feels that Richland countians can certainly be convinced it is more important to take care of our own children first.

To carry out the "family life" program the council declares it will be necessary to hire, and hire soon, an executive secretary for the welfare board who is trained, capable, and efficient. It is also stressed that members of the board (one is named each year) should be persons who are vitally interested in child problems and are willing to study modern child care methods.

The value of these recommendations seems self evident. The county commissioners will do well to study them carefully and act upon them judiciously. Indeed, the council felt, in making its suggestions, that the co-operation of the commissioners could definitely be counted upon.

Expectation of this co-operation was one of the things which caused the busy citizens, who form the council and the study committee, to give up many evenings and Sundays to prepare the report.

The council is to be congratulated on the job it has done and expects to continue doing. The community can be proud it has such public-spirited members. And the people as a whole should now lend their support to seeing that an improved child welfare program is put into effect.

'Retirement Age' Being Set Ahead

NOW THAT more "oldsters" are showing up in population figures, with many of them physically and mentally able to do some kind of necessary work, inclination is being noticed to advance the so-called "retirement age" beyond 60 or 65 years, except for those who prefer leisure to work.

According to a recent survey industry is looking with more favor toward employment of elderly persons in some line of work to which they are fitted by experience, with marked inclination to liberalize compulsory retirement where the individual is in good physical and mental condition.

It is also being noted that in a number of instances older men prove valuable as consultants after retirement from manual work. Seventy, rather than 60 or 65, is now regarded as a reasonable retirement age, although many examples are cited of active business careers extending to the age of 80, or even higher.

Also of interest is the revelation that some companies have been organizing hobby clubs among older employes, and that some have instituted "easing off" periods, beginning in the early 60s, when the individual is gradually absolved of major responsibilities in order to accustom him to less activity.

Methods of Dictatorship Revealed

HOW are things managed under a totalitarian dictatorship?

An answer is supplied by Max Ascoli, a refugee from fascism who has been living in the United States and who has now published a book, "The Fall of Mussolini."

When everything is contained in the state, says Ascoli, "the relationships between the various things become secret, at the mercy of the supreme manipulator. The gap between highly proclaimed standards and actual performances left large room to the private initiative of alert operators. Grafting and fixing were tolerated."

This is probably a good description of what is going on in Russia behind the wall of secrecy. There is pulling and hauling between various higher-ups, and continual talebearing to the supreme autocrat, Stalin. And, as in Hitlerite Germany, powerful leaders ensure their own safety by building up secret files of documents which may be useful, and have their private bodyguards, just like our own gangsters whom they so closely resemble.

Negro Policemen In Southern Cities

THE SOUTH is allowing the Negro to advance. Fifty-four southern cities now have 279 Negro policemen, according to the Southern Regional Council. This has reduced crime in Negro areas, and made for better race relations. Eleven Florida cities have adopted this policy.

Texas leads in the number of Negro policemen employed, with sixty. Only Mississippi and Louisiana have none, though Alabama and South Carolina have not adopted the policy in their larger cities. Between 1945 and 1948 the percentage of Negroes hired as policemen has increased, with over twice as many employed as in any previous period of years. In Atlanta the grand jury praised the work of Negro policemen as having brought a greater respect for law and order.

The comparatively low southern vote for the Thurmond-Wright Dixiecrat ticket indicates that the South as a whole is in favor of gradual betterment of Negro conditions.

The theory that increasing weight of the Antarctic ice cap may "presently" overturn the earth possibly impresses some as being preferable to the present chaotic condition.

One thing that must be taken into account is that however much Congress may wish to do something, a filibuster by a few senators can defeat majority wishes.

There's To Be Company, It Appears.

By LOUIS BROMFIELD

THIS is a column about the results rather than the causes of the Great Surprise. Mr. Truman is firmly in office by the will of the people and the reasons have already been analyzed to death without anyone arriving at any sensible answer. I think this is so because there were so many reasons. Chiefly I think the people had a hunch and slowly I am beginning to think that the people, as usual, were right.

BROMFIELD

This is the first time that Mr. Truman has been elected on his own to the office of the presidency. He stands on his own now and can show us the stuff he is made of and whether he means what he said during his campaign speeches.

For a second time, as when he succeeded Mr. Roosevelt, he has the good will of the people with him, the writer among them.

He has an opportunity now to rid himself of the little clique of defunct New Dealers and Missouri politicians which in the past gave him so much bad advice.

He can no longer complain that he cannot get good men to accept important posts because they might shortly be out of office.

In brief, he has an opportunity that few presidents have had. The writer has always believed that Mr. Truman had in him the inherent simplicity and directness which could make a fine president but that he has been hampered by bad advice, by an entourage of second-rate politicians and by a certain excessive modesty over the circumstances by which he arrived in office.

Whatever the writer and some others said about Mr. Truman in the past still holds good up to date. He has been in the past a very mediocre and unpredictable president and at times actually dangerous to the welfare of the nation and the world. If he is going to be a great president, now that he is on his own, the whole country will rejoice.

If he is going to be an erratic and demagogic president there still remains Congress and the Supreme Court to hold him in check.

But the interesting results are not confined to Mr. Truman alone. One of the most refreshing results has been the fashion in which the American people have taken the election, both those who voted for and against him.

Except for the blackest of reactionaries, both northern Republicans and southern Democrats, the surprising results of the election have been received with good humor and even a certain gaiety. The returns were no sooner definite than whole crops of jokes, witticisms and just plain wise cracks sprang up spontaneously over the whole of the country.

* * *

Evidence of Faith.

IT SEEMS to me that this fact implies two things, both of them important. (1)—That the American people have a rich sense of humor and that even the Dewey voters found a certain excitement in the upset; (2)—that the American people (even the anti-Truman element) showed that their faith in their government and its form was greater than its alarm over any one man.

Mr. Truman, of course, aroused none of the bitterness which Roosevelt raised after his second election and I think it unlikely that he will do so. Much less than Mr. Roosevelt, he believes in the division of American citizenry into classes and with all his howling against Wall Street, he never approached the demagoguery of Roosevelt in setting class against class.

That fact arises undoubtedly from Truman's background since he comes from a world and a part of the country where there is no class, and honest work and good behavior are the criterion of on's position in society.

Mr. Roosevelt came from a world which was utterly a class world and one based almost wholely upon privilege and inherited wealth—the only world in which class in the European sense has ever existed in America.

And regarding Mr. Truman's howling against Wall Street he is probably right. I would differ with him on many things but not on that one.

Perhaps one of the best results of great surprise was the complete and final shattering of the legend that a candidate must carry New York state and Pennsylvania to win a presidential election.

One of the greatest mistakes of Mr. Dewey, both in 1944 and 1948, was his policy of surrounding himself entirely by a staff of New Yorkers who never understood the rest of the country at all, and never for a moment understood that the great majority of the people outside greater New York, which in some respects might be regarded as a foreign country, still like to meet their candidate and talk to him and hear him speak up and out on all subjects.

* * *

Victims of Delusion.

MR. DEWEY'S New York advisors still labored under the delusion, long since exploded, that New York City has an overweening importance in the affairs of the nation.

Because they were able to pull a fast one at the Philadelphia convention, they concluded they could use the same tactics on the nation as a whole. They forgot utterly that it is the vast Mississippi Basin which can make or break a man or an issue.

It has been a long time since the Wall Street boys have had uncontrolled domination over the rest of the nation.

The results of the election should have settled this once and for all along with the fate of other big banking and financial interests.

Mr. Dewey not only had around him a clique of New Yorkers but he had close to him and partly undercover, a lot of other fellows beginning with John Foster Dulles who had in the past been associated with some queer international goings on. Mr. Truman did not take full advantage of this fact but the people, I think, smelled a rat.

In one sense the election was a defeat of the "city slickers." In any case it was an exciting night and added to the gaiety of the nation and I, for one, do not think that the United States is going to Sheol in a handbasket because Mr. Truman was elected.

The course now seems to me to give Mr. Truman a big hand when he acts and leads wisely and well, and a big something else when he doesn't. Fortunately that, like the secret ballot, is still our great American privilege.

Looking Back

Twenty Years Ago Today

Wednesday, Nov. 21, 1928

Three yeggs who had sawed their way into the Sheets store on South Main street were captured by police before they could get away with about $10,000 in merchandise they had selected.

Proposed zoning ordinance was discussed at meeting of Lions club held at Southern hotel. Same subject was discussed by real estate board, with explanation of the ordinance by Attorney L. H. Beam.

C. K. Smaltz was one of the speakers at the annual meeting of the Ohio Manufacturers' association, held in Cleveland. T. R. Barnes was re-elected vice president.

Samuel F. Kuhn, 69, died at his home in Jackson township.

New Walter building on West Fourth street, east of post office, was nearing completion.

Charles Woods moved from Ontario to 711 Johns avenue.

Miss Helen Fox, librarian, announced that board had arranged for two lectures to be given at public library by outstanding speakers.

On November 21, 1877, Thomas A. Edison announced the invention of a practical phonograph. Although this device was crude, and its performance indistinct, it paved the way to modern recording as we know it today.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Blame Being Placed on Chiang Kai-Shek

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Here is an inside glimpse of certain things that are happening in China. It's not a pretty picture, but before pouring more U. S. dollars into China, Americans should take a long, hard look at the facts. Chiang Kai-shek is finished — even though he refuses to face the facts. He's lost the support of the vast majority of the Chinese people. His generals, and even his own government, are anxious to oust him. Against such an imposing lineup Chiang will be fortunate to hold onto his job for the next 60 days.

PEARSON

Faced with the collapse of his house of cards, Chiang is losing his emotional balance, just as Hitler did during the last days of Berlin. Intimates report that the generalissimo is starting to fly into Hitler-type rages without provocation.

Only last week Chiang was in his headquarters, studying reports from his defeated armies, when he said to an old and trusted friend: "I should have resigned at the end of the war. That way I could have avoided these terrible defeats and would have been an honored citizen for the rest of my life."

The friend, anxious to avoid argument, said: "Yes, Excellency, that would have been the wise move."

Whereupon Chiang flew into an uncontrolled rage, shouting at the top of his voice: "So now you too have turned against me!"

The Chinese people lay much of the blame for their wretched conditions directly on Chiang's doorstep. They point to his feeble attempts to wipe out army graft. They deeply resent his emperor-like manner and great wealth in the midst of hunger and want.

But most of all, the average Chinese citizen feels that the generalissimo is personally responsible for the inflation which has wiped out the savings of middle- and low-income groups.

Just a little over a month ago Chiang announced he was going to stabilize currency and urged all Chinese to place their savings in the new gold yuan. He promised to peg the new money at the equivalent of 25 cents. The people followed his advance and placed their meager savings in the new yuan.

Today—a little more than a month later—the official yuan is worth five cents, though its real value, as reflected on the black market, is about one-half cent. The Chinese people have lost their savings—and their respect for Chiang.

When Chiang is either ousted or flees (or both) it's likely that a coalition government will be established by Vice-President Li Tsung Jen and Fu Tso Yi, the latter one of the few successful Nationalist army commanders. Even this coalition is not likely to last. Its base will be too narrow—too much similar to the present setup.

* * *

Will Russia Step In?

Students of China feel that the time left for us to act is fast running out. China is rapidly becoming a political vacuum—all set for the Kremlin to take over. Thus far, the Russians haven't had to do much more than donate captured Japanese equipment to the communist armies. Their political offensive to take over China hasn't started yet, but will soon.

Some observers think that if we discard our present game of "footsie" with the Chinese reactionaries, we may be able to save the situation—but if so, it will be a miracle.

China is too vast, too overpopulated, too graft-ridden, and most of her leaders too intent on personal gain for any outside nation to bring about reforms. Reform has got to come from inside China, not outside, and even the Russians may get into trouble when they try renovating a nation where the people of North China have to speak pidgin English to understand the people of South China.

* * *

Big Moneyed Democrats.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN didn't get many "big" campaign contributions prior to the elections, compared to the Republicans. Nevertheless, he did have a few big donations, and here is a partial list of the faithful:

Floyd B. Odlum, head of the world's biggest investment trust—The Atlas Corporation—$3,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Field—$4,500.

Mrs. August A. Busch of the St. Louis beer fortune—$1,500.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bruce (he's ambassador to Argentina)—$7,000.

Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney—Assistant Secretary for Air—"loaned" the Democrats $5,000.

W. Averell Harriman—ECA ambassador—$10,000. But his brother and business partner, E. Roland Harriman, gave the Republicans $11,000.

Former U. S. Attorney General Homer S. Cummings—$500. (Cummings' law firm gets $60,000 yearly retainer from the Standard Oil Co. of N. J. The Standard Oil group was backing Dewey to the limit.)

Former U. S. Attorney General Francis Biddle—$200.

Note—Truman's good friend, George E. Allen, vice-president in charge of lobbying for a big insurance group, gave $800 to keep his pal in the White House.

Assignment: America

Pioneer-Style Defense

By KENNETH L. DIXON

WASHINGTON—Once the newly-proposed peacetime civilian defense program is placed into operation, this country will have returned, in a sense, to its pioneer days.

Outlined by the Office of Civil Defense Planning and urged by Defense Secretary Forrestal, the program itself is based on concepts which actually amount to bringing American civilization around to the first full cycle.

Perhaps it was unwitting, but the "cold war" preparedness planners seem to have turned almost directly to early American history for the key points of the mammoth civilian defense program.

Decentralization of authority and control, except in ultimate and extreme cases, is its keynote. Once again, the pioneering principles of individual self-help, mutual aid and community self-sufficiency will reign as the saving factors if this nation develops an adequate civilian defense against potential enemy attack — atomic or otherwise.

In the lengthy, three-year study which preceded issuance of the final recommendations last week, at least three separate probing groups studied almost every feasible form of civilian defense, carefully evaluating the accomplishments of each.

When they were finished, each group in progressive steps found itself turning at last to a modernized version of the early American theory of civilian survival. None other proved adequately workable.

Of the probing groups, perhaps the most articulate in explaining the reasons for its conclusions was the former war department Civil Defense Board — the immediate predecessor of the Office of Civil Defense Planning.

After picking and choosing among various foreign wartime civilian defense programs, and discarding most of what was discovered for obvious reasons of failure, the military board eventually came forth with some hard-bitten recommendations. It explained the basis of those recommendations in the following words:

"The fundamental principle of civil defense is self-help. In the event of another war, widespread destruction may be anticipated in industrial areas and centers of population. Such destruction may be expected simultaneously in many localities; therefore it is incumbent upon each individual to protect himself, his home and family to the maximum before calling for aid.

"To implement the self-help principle, the populace should be organized into small groups under leaders and trained in fire-fighting, rescue and first aid. The same principle of self-help applies to the groups.

"Calls for aid should not be made until the situation is beyond the control of the group. Similarly, passive defense measures in plants, industries, public utilities, transportation systems, and other enterprises, are a primary responsibility of such installations."

* * *

Only As Last Resort.

THE BOARD'S report did not absolve the government—whether it be local, state or national—from responsibility in such a program. Rather, it stressed that such general government duty must be manifested in two specific phases.

The first government phase involved a preliminary, and basic, responsibility — the organization, training and equipping of individuals, families and communities for such self-sufficient operation under attack.

The second phase skipped all the intervening steps and consisted of rushing in emergency support to those extremely-pressed areas where the situation either was out of control or about to reach that stage.

Under all other conditions—and this theory is implicit in the newly-proposed defense program — the responsibility remains that of the individual, the family, the village, the city and so on.

In short, to be effectual even in these modern times, it must return to an individual and a community proposition.

The ghosts of a good many guys wearing coonskin caps and carrying muzzle-loading rifles must be smiling paternally these days at the spectacle of their descendants finally re-learning the only safe way to defend themselves — in atomic, as well as Indian times!

Dave Boone Says:

WELL, the federal mediation board chiefs have taken up the disastrous dock strike again, after having thought they settled it two weeks ago. One more settlement and it has an outside chance of winning the series.

* * *

Church World Service says that 500,000 Christmas packets of clothes for suffering children in Europe and Asia may not reach the kids in time because of the shipping tieup. Even Santa Claus gets the works in this strike.

* * *

With countless children deprived of food and clothing, war victims all over the world hard hit, our own commerce strangled, thousands of workers being laid off daily and the general public caught behind the eight ball, as usual, this waterfront tieup cries out for speedy settlement.

* * *

Brutal heartlessness and indifference to suffering stand out in every phase of it and Uncle Sam acts as calmly and unruffled as if it were just another round of pinochle.

I Believe In Prayer

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I BELIEVE in prayer. Perhaps that is a strange statement to read in a newspaper, column but I suspect that it's just as important as any cooking or fashion or political discussion that ever was printed:

I believe in prayer. I believe that prayer does definite and helpful things to you.

I do not know to whom I pray. That is a mystery beyond by comprehension. Nor do I any longer pray as I did when I was a child, running to my mother to be kissed when I was hurt . . . asking help in purely private affairs which I should have settled with my own brain and backbone.

I have found long since that very few such prayers are ever answered or are answered in the way which we desire. We may get an answer but it's the last thing we would have asked for and it's well to remember that before you start praying.

Why do I believe in prayer? I believe in it because I believe in clean rooms with air and sunshine in them and with the clutter all cleared away.

That's what prayer does to you. It cleans the room. It opens the windows to far vistas and great winds and deep valleys of peace. It cleans out the clutter. Prayer lifts you out of yourself. It takes you out into all other lives, into all other human experience.

* * *

I DO NOT follow any special ritual when I pray. Sometimes I repeat the Twenty-third Psalm because I think it is as lovely a thing as one could put in words. But mostly I just kneel and open my heart and let all the accumulation of the day tumble out. All the silliness and all the malice and all the hurt and fear, out they come.

I don't expect any miracle to happen. I don't expect any immediate answer. I'm just opening the little narrow room of my spirit and letting the Lord come in.

Who is the Lord? I do not know but I am sure He is. I've seen Him walking on the troubled waters too often to ever doubt His existence. I've seen Him lifting men anad women from the gutter too ofte n to ever think. He does not patrol our streets. I've felt His hand at times — I could not tell you how, but there was something there.

And so I pray. I never start one of these articles nor have I in 30 years without praying first. I'm not saying that as a promotion stunt. It's the simple truth. These articles frighten me. The tremendous power of the printed word for good or evil frightens me. I feel so weak, so inefficient, to help the appalling grief and misery that I must meet that I do not think I could go on alone.

And so I pray. I pray to the mystery from which I came and to which I will return. What will that mystery be like? I don't know. I know it's here and now as much as it is beyond some gilded cloud.

I know that the powers I invoke when I pray are not supernatural. They are simple powers which we all could use if we would. Gentle powers. Powers of faith and friendliness. There's no miracle about them but they, too, are a sort of prayer.

And so all through my days and nights I pray. I don't make a religious act of it. I'm not sure that anyone hears. But I'm very sure that I'm the better for it. I'm very sure that the room that is my spirit is cleaner and less cluttered and open to the stars.

Keep sound wisdom and discretion.—Pr. 3:21.

It Says Here:

—By KEN WOODMAN

NOBODY seemed very much surprised last week when the Nobel Prize committee announced in Oslo, Norway, that no Nobel Peace prize will be awarded this year. The committee probably felt it would be the height of something or other to pick one a peacemaker in this year of almost total discord throughout the world.

* * *

Even in this quasi-placid United States, there has reportedly been some disagreement in the past 11 months. About the only thing everyone agreed on was that this has been about the most unpeaceful year they have ever seen.

The best we can do now is wish the Nobel committee better luck next year. If they don't have better luck, they may have to change the award to the Nobel Piece prize, for the individual who contributes most to keeping any part of the globe together.

Birds Flying

—By ANNE CAMPBELL

The birds fly without sound,
Going forth.
Leaving familiar ground
In the North.

Longing for sunny skies,
Scarcely knowing
Why on strong wings they rise,
They keep going.

Dark as my troubled heart
Is the cloud
Cleaving the sun apart,
As they crowd.

Seeking the sky, they soar
As Heaven taught;
Higher above earth's floor
Than flies my thought.

GI's Back In England Find It's Just as If They Had Never Left

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

U. S. AIRFORCE BASE, Burtonwood, England — (AP) — Like an old clock that suddenly resumes ticking, this big wartime base has burst into activity again with the return of GI's to keep Uncle Sam's expanding European airforce in top shape.

More than 2,000 United States troops, most of them veterans of World War II, have been poured in here in order to set up the 59th air depot to service and maintain American aircraft in England and on the continent.

For the GI's who sailed into Liverpool aboard uncrowded troopships after a serene and sunny crossing, it was a far different deal than the makeshift arrangements encountered by the arrivals in the early 40's.

The newcomers just moved into the colonies of rounded Nissen huts beside the long air strips, near the big hangars and squat workshops which spiral over 47 square miles of drab Lincolnshire countryside.

In some ways, it was like returning to a deserted village, one suddenly evacuated with the doors slammed shut, just as they were closed when the airforce personnel pulled out for the states when the war ended.

An advance guard had done the dirty work. Dusting. Stoking up the coal bins. Seeing that the little round stoves are still functioning. Fixing the plumbing. Dealing out blankets and a hundred and one other essential chores. For some, it was really a homecoming. Sgt. Michael W. McKenna of Carthage, N. Y., was stationed here during the war.

GI'S HAVE GRIPE

The GI's have one gripe—and a big one. They want their wives over here. It's the favorite topic among the troops.

Nearly half of them are married. And, almost to a man, they think the government ought to do something about keeping their families united.

Typical is the case of First Sgt. John W. Davidson, San Antonio, Tex., who served with the 2nd Infantry division in France and Germany.

He reenlisted because he likes the army life. But he doesn't like separation from his wife and daughter, Linda Kaye.

"It looks like we're going to be here for a long time," Davidson said. "I'd like to get them over here with me—and they would like to come. I know there's a lot of difficulties but they could be worked out."

The depot's commanders won't guess on the chances of the GI's wish coming true. They say it's up to the War Department.

The Defense Department was worried, really worried, over how the British people would react to another "invasion" by American troops, even on a small scale, into their pubs and privacy.

So it issued a few tips on behavior, in booklets written in plain American language the kind understood in the Bronx, in Dixie, in the Rocky Mountains.

They are sound tips—rules a lot of the troops now here learned the hard way in the war while waiting here for D-Day.

This outfit is a curious mixture of seasoned veterans and 'teen-age rookies. The youngsters, brought up on stories of their older brothers' exploits abroad, have the greater inclination to cut-up away from home.

Club Meets At Pavilion

Members of the Pine Hill Boat club held their first winter meeting at the Liberty park shelter house last night, club officials announced.

According to club Secretary Glenn Tarr, the meetings will be continued monthly during the winter and will feature movies and other types of entertainment.

A desire to retain interest in boating during the off-season was given as the primary factor in scheduling the new series.

Past meetings had been confined to summer months at Pleasant Hill lake.

Volunteers Meet Tuesday

Volunteer workers of the Richland county chapter of the Red Cross will go to Mt. Vernon Tuesday for an all-day meeting on the proposed blood donor program which opens Dec. 7 under the auspices of the national organization.

In the group will be committee chairmen and workers from the nurses aid, motor corps, staff assistant and canteen workers groups. All these, according to Mrs. Bess Augsburger, executive secretary, will be used each time the mobile unit comes to Richland county.

The session will be at the Mt. Vernon Red Cross chapter house and an official from the Columbus regional blood donor center will be there to explain the program and procedure.

Well the smoke and initial hysteria of the 1948 hunting season are beginning to clear away and Richland county gunners seem to have done well for themselves.

Furry and feathery residents of the county undoubtedly have a different outlook on life after ducking number six chilled shot for the past week. Most hunters reported full or near-full bags with but two notable exceptions—the past and present N-J outdoor writers!

The white pheasant shot by Carl Maul is attracting a lot of attention among local nimrods, and rightfully so. Most of us have trouble finding the common variety, let alone a rarity like that!

Not being an expert on rare pheasants I can't swear to the exact rate of occurrence of this type bird but imagine it would rank with an unusual deer shot down South last year.

The deer had a beautiful set of antlers, weighed in near the 200 pound mark—and was a doe!

★

The usual number of queer accidents have been reported so far this season with a fox jumping at a Canadian hunter and wounding him by stepping on the shotgun; a deer getting tired of it all and "working over" another hunter in Canada, breaking his gun, trampling him and butting him with its antlers; and three deer getting hit by an automobile near Elyria.

This last accident wasn't so unusual except for one line in a wire dispatch telling of it. According to their version, "the car broke one of the deer's hind legs and had to be shot."

All we can say is: Modern cars are darned vulnerable!

For those of you who may have private lakes or ponds which were created by damming a flowing stream, better observe the state fish and game laws. A ruling handed down this past week by the state attorney general held that such was the law.

Some good news came from the state capital this past week for Richland county fishermen. All lakes in the Muskingum watershed conservancy district are to be wide open for fishing.

No size limit, no closed season on any fish, and no bag limit. The new law affecting 24 lakes and one creek (14 of these lakes are in the local area) is an experimental action and must be passed on at the December meeting of the State Conservation and Natural Resources commission to become final.

Other recommended changes which will probably receive the final OK at that time are one increasing the possession of wild minnows from 50 to any number desired (Lake Erie district) and increasing the number of trotlines permissible from one to three.

However, the number of hooks will remain the same and if more than one line is used the hooks will have to be divided among the extra lines. Not more than 50 hooks may be used.

Naturalists tell us that only the male crickets, katydids, and cicadas sing. The females remain silent.

Just think of that. Mother Nature has done what the human male has been trying to do for years—keep the women quiet!

Strange as it may seem, the one animal most persons go out of their way to avoid is rapidly disappearing from the American scene. To the untiated, this refers to the pretty little black-and-white animal called a skunk, woods pussy, polecat, and (censored) by those who fail to recognize his danger signal.

This marks the second year the season has been closed on the aromatic little creatures in Ohio. Many reasons have been advanced for their disappearance but the most logical seems to be that they are highly susceptible to tularemia, or rabbit fever, as it is commonly known.

Whether they return in strength or not, and we hope they do, they have certainly left behind a lot of memories!

Rider Aims Blast at 'Hooligan' Hunters

Farm Areas Send Flood Of Protests

Season Opening Brings Troubles

COLUMBU — (AP) — A few hooligans are spoiling hunting for thousands of "ethical sportsmen," says Buck Rider, and there isn't much his state conservation division can do about it.

Rider is state conservation commissioner and he says he's seriously worried about the record flood of complaints from farmers since the rabbit, pheasant, and grouse season opened Nov. 15.

His 94 game wardens are on the go all the time, he said, and farmers are even calling him at home demanding some action against people hunting without permission, hunting off hours, or shooting carelessly toward buildings or livestock.

"About all we can do is arrest those we can catch and try to educate the rest," Rider said.

He suggested that a farmer unable to handle a law violator might note down the number of the man's hunting license. The license agents don't send in their lists of sales to the division until the end of the season, but the lists are available for checking at the agents' places of business.

CAN BE TRACED

Rider said that if the offending hunter bought his license at a nearby agency, he could be traced quickly. Otherwise, the farmer might have to wait until all lists were in and could be checked.

Then the farmer can make out an affidavit and the warden can make an arrest. Otherwise a warden can not act unless he actually sees a violation. Incidentally, signing an application for a hunting license is the same as making an oath, Rider said, and giving a false name is perjury.

TIME'S NEAR—Deer hunting time is near in Pennsylvania, where the animals have increased in number to such an extent that they have become a problem to the state. End of a successful hunt in previous season is depicted in the photograph above.

Hunters Toe Mark Awaiting Pennsylvania Deer Season

Pennsylvania, the hunter's paradise, is awaiting the nimrods, expected to be greater in number than ever before.

Quail, rabbits, ringneck, pheasants, deer and bear await the sharpshooters, who come to this state from far and near each year.

The Pennsylvania game commission has increased the state's wildlife by stocking and is planning to increase the license fee.

The small game season opened Nov. 1 and on Nov. 25 the hunters will try their luck at the state's black bear.

Deer season will open Nov. 29 and will continue to Dec. 11.

Few people recall that back in 1905, there was virtually no deer in Pennsylvania. As a nucleus for a herd the game commission imported 1,000 deer from other states, by a state appropriation of $40,000.

Later the buck law was passed, and the deer herd in the state has steadily increased ever since.

Pennsylvania is now facing a problem—and has been—that many other states find to be very similar.

It seems the deer in Pennsylvania, having developed into more than a million animals within the past 30 years, are destroying their chief means of life—food.

From the original 30 counties, the deer in the state have spread to the entire 67 counties, even to the populated urban areas of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

In some counties the deer herd has increased so considerably that many die during the winter from starvation. They eat the food faster than it can be planted during the summer and fall. Therefore, the seedlings hardly get a chance to get much above ground.

Last year in Pennsylvania there were 95,043 deer killed.

Of these, there were 63,568 does killed. The buck season was open for two weeks, while nimrods killed over 63,000 does in only one day, showing in itself the unbalanced deer population in Pennsylvania.

It is estimated that the state of Pennsylvania has 676,000 deer and over 3,500 black bear.

Avoid Rabbit Fever Risk, Health Official Warns

"Don't take a chance with rabbit fever."

This was the advice given Saturday by Dr. Harry Wain, city health commissioner. He cautioned area hunters to avoid any risk of contacting tularemia, more commonly known as rabbit fever.

The disease, he warned, is fatal in about seven per cent of the cases. Chills and fever, weakness, headache, intestinal upset and enlarged glands are symptoms, he explained.

Dr. Wain advised hunters against shooting slow, sluggish game, and cautioned that rabbits found dead should not be handled.

Rabbits are not the only animals that carry the disease. The health commissioner suggested that hunters would keep on the safe side by wearing rubber gloves while dressing any game. All wild game, he added, should be thoroughly cooked.

Dr. Wain listed the following precautions which he declared every hunter should observe:

1. Never put your unprotected hands inside a wild rabbit.
2. Always wear rubber gloves when handling or dressing wild rabbits.
3. Rabbit must be thoroughly cooked, this meaning it should be cooked until there is no red meat or any red juice near the bone.
4. A hunter should not take home a wild rabbit he shoots that seemed sickly or listless.
5. To minimize the danger of infection, rabbits which seem slow or sickly should be killed and, preferably, buried.

Bevin Takes Ride Following Illness

EASTBOURNE, Eng.— (AP) — Physicians disclosed yesterday that Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin who came here two weeks ago for a rest, spent the first 11 days in bed.

Bevin's health has troubled him repeatedly during the past two years. He took an automobile ride yesterday, the first time he had left his hotel. He is expected to return to work in London in about a week.

Ohio Patrol Ordered Off Roadblocks

COLUMBUS — State highway patrolmen have been ordered off all roadblocks set up to catch hunters violating bag limits on game.

The order was issued by Fritz Moritz, assistant superintendent of the highway patrol. He admitted a highway patrolman took part in a road block in Hardin county in which nine hunters were fined for game violations.

The patrolman apparently had been authorized to take part in the check by a lieutenant in charge of the Findlay division, he said.

"It is not the business of the highway patrol to enforce hunting regulations and I have ordered that our men refuse to help in stopping automobiles to check on the amount of game hunters have shot," the highway patrol official said.

Meanwhile, Conservation Commissioner H. A. (Buck) Rider, came to the defense of the road blocks. "I wish every sheriff in the state would set up road blocks to catch game law violators," he said.

Lester J. Bailey, chief of the law enforcement for the Conservation division, is investigating to find out what part his men played in setting up the road block near Kenton.

Nine hunters were nabbed after the first day of the hunting season by Game Protector Frank Ramge. They were fined from $100 to $400 each by Mayor Loucks Brown of Kenton.

Cabbie Kills 2, Takes Own Life

KOKOMO, Ind. —(AP)—A Kokomo taxicab driver shot and killed his wife and his mother in a hotel room yesterday and then took his own life, police reported. Capt. Francis Fisher of the Kokomo Police department said the bodies of Harold E. Fouse, 32; his wife, Mary, 26, and Fouse's mother, Mrs. Nellie Jackson, about 57, were found in the room shortly after 11 a. m. (CST).

Capt. Fisher said police were summoned by hotel employees when they heard shots in the room. The officer said it was a case of double murder and suicide. A .38 caliber revolver from which five shots had been fired was lying beside Fouse's body.

Escapers Charged

NEW LEXINGTON— (INS) — Four prisoners who escaped the New Lexington county jail Monday faced charges today of grand larceny, kidnaping and armed robbery. The charges were filed by Sheriff Clair Butts who was rabbit hunting at the time his prisoners made the break that touched off a three-day manhunt through east central Ohio.

Lessee Stands Pat

BELLEFONTAINE — (AP) — French Wilgus is still waiting for the state to try and evict him from an 80-room hotel, on state-owned land at nearby Indian lake. The deadline for him to get out passed seven days ago. The conservation division had given Wilgus until Nov. 13 to move his $400,000 resort property off land leased from the state.

Pheasant Tail Contest Draws Many Entrants

According to the number of long pheasant tails entered at the Yuncker Brothers sporting goods store, North Main street, Richland county nimrods have been finding plenty of the colorful birds in the fields.

More than 100 entries have been received to date by the store in its contest designed to find the longest pheasant tails.

Four prizes will be awarded to the top winners. They are: (1) hunting coat; (2) hunting pants; (3) a pair of hip boots; and (4) a pair of knee boots.

None of the tails have been measured as yet since contest rules call for a board of three impartial judges to do the tape work. Winners are to be announced Dec. 2, according to store officials

Horsewhipped Man, Actress

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — A complaint charging Mrs Isobel Lennon with horsewhipping her former husband and Actress Doris Link was on file.

Jimmy Lennon, a sports announcer, and the actress charged that the 34-year-old Mrs. Lennon attacked them with a riding crop last Saturday. They told deputy City Attorney Donald Redwine the attack took place as they were returning the two Lennon children to their mother's home after a visit with the father Lennon said he and his wife were divorced last December and that he planned to marry Miss Link when the decree becomes final next month.

Deer's Winner

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Of all principals in the accident, the deer was the only one able to walk away. Margaret Pelwalis, 30, and A. J. Pasternack, 30, went to St. Luke's hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises, and Miss Pelwalis' car was wrecked. She tried to swerve to miss the deer when it crossed the road in Beachwood village, sideswiped it, then hit a pole.

Hunting and Fishing In Dixie

Bayou Technique Makes Suckers of Bass

Fishing attracts perhaps more ardent supporters than any other form of sport, and where you find so many persons following the same hobby you'll find as many different means of accomplishing the desired end.

In the South this may pop up as "jugging" for catfish; grappling for alligators; "snaring" gars; or "doodle-sockin' " for bass.

The latter operation, also known as "skittering" and "jigging," produces some of the largest bass taken from any waters of the United States in any given year. To the purist it smacks somewhat of the unethical, but to the bayou natives of the South, long accustomed to a plentiful supply of fish and game, it's merely an easy way to get what they want. And they have fun doing it!

The idea is sound, consisting of getting the lurking bass mad enough to smash anything, and the equipment is simple.

A long, light cane pole, six inches of line, a large casting plug, and a narrow boat are all the items of equipment needed. Then you're in business as a "doodle-socker."

Since southern waters are filled with brush, logs, willows and cypress trees, there is plenty of cover even for the most particular bass. And that's where the "doodle-socker" gets in his telling blows, sneaking through that heavy cover and probing every nook and cranny with that heavy plug on the end of a six-inch line.

THRASHING WATER

Perhaps probing isn't just the right word The first time I ever saw anyone "doodle-socking" I thought he was playing a big fish He wasn't. He was thrashing water into a foam with that long treble-hooked plug at the time and I thought he was crazy. It took just about five minutes to make me change my mind. The fellow lifted his stringer and showed me three bass topping the seven-pound mark. And I was unhappy I had a top limit of three-pounders.

I saw this same fellow throw back a pair that would top the five-pound mark, claiming they were too small!

This mode of fishing clears the water of the largest bass, making room for others to grow—and the waters of the South are loaded with fish For that reason, more and more sportsmen are falling in line and "doodle-socking."

Ethical? That's open for question but anyone who has ever seen a six-or seven-pounder flailing around on a six-inch line knows the fish has a good chance of getting free.

About one point, however, there can be no argument. This method of fishing is deadly to bass. Few of the lunkers can resist the noisy splash of the "socker."

For several reasons which can be seen at a glance, fishermen confine this method to lakes and quiet bayous. For one thing the boat must be silent. In a fast-running current it would run into snags, creating a scary disturbance; the current would carry a boat along too fast. A "doodle-sockers" has to fish each tiny crevice. And last, the rivers of the South don't have the amount of cover largemouth bass like.

(NEXT WEEK: "A Typical Float Trip.")

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of articles on hunting and fishing in the southern states, written by Don Miller, N-J outdoor editor. These are presented in the belief that most outdoorsmen are interested in fish and game practices followed in other areas.)

Bargain Day!

Most hunters consider themselves lucky to get an average of one pheasant to a shot, but not Carl Hartz.

Hartz, a Shelby farmer, has hit on the ideal method for saving ammunition.

He recently dropped two cock birds with a single shot while hunting on his farm.

Argument Leads To Man's Death

CINCINNATI — (AP) — A man identified as Walter Harrison, 31, of Hutchinson, W. Va., was shot and killed Saturday during an argument in a shack along the Norfolk and Western railroad tracks, Hamilton county police reported

Dan Miles, 68, occupant of the shack, was taken into custody for questioning but no charges were filed immediately, police said

Plans Set For Holiday

The Salvation Army will hold annual Thanksgiving services Wednesday night, Maj. William Jones, post commander, said yesterday.

Services will be held at 7:30 p. m., in the headquarters auditorium and the Thanksgiving talk will be given by Maj. Jones.

At least half a dozen Mansfield groups have requested the names of families to whom they might give Thanksgiving dinners.

"The trouble is most people want families of not more than five and our families usually number about 10 or 12 persons."

Most of the basket-giving, however, is done around Christmas time, Mrs. Jones said. Plans are being made to care for the needy during the Christmas season.

Chip Off Old Block Is Pete Price, 10

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK—(AP)—Chip-off-the-old-block item: Peter Price, 10-year-old son of Georgie Price of stage, screen and radio note, has joined the cast of "Magdalena," the Heitor Villalobos musical at the Ziegfeld. . . . Alan Jay Lerner and Kurt Weill, with their "Love Life" established as a hit at the 46th Street theater, are off for a vacation and possibly a little work on a new script, the idea for which they've been kicking about in their minds for some time. . . . Cheryl Crawford has put it on her schedule for next season. . . . It will not interfere, says Miss Crawford, with Kurt Weill's announced collaboration with Maxwell Anderson on a musical version of "Cry the Beloved Country," to be presented by the Playwright's company.

"Summer and Smoke" already is paying back its investors. . . . Clifford Odets' "The Big Knife" will be produced by Odets, Dwight Deere Wiman and Lee Strasberg. . . . While contracts haven't been signed, the press agent of the show says it is "Quite probable John Garfield and Margaret Sullavan will co-star." . . . New Stages, Inc., the sprightly new producing firm, will open a Thornton Wilder adaptation of Jean-Paul Sartre's "The Victors" on Dec. 26. . . . Mary Hunter will direct. . . . The New Stages won praise and cash for its production of Sartre's "The Respectful Prostitute," still bouncing along solvently with Ann Dvorak starred. . . . "Annie Get Your Gun" has been on Broadway two and a half years.

The usually modestly aimed Equity Library theater is spreading out a bit to produce a musical, a revival of "Good News." . . . "Summer and Smoke" is being published by New Directions, which firm has printed Tennessee Williams' previous plays . . . In its first month at the St. James theater, "Where's Charley" has busted all of that house's records for cash income, $164,415 for the month ending Nov. 10.

Adrienne Allen will succeed Peggy Ashcroft to one of the toughest roles on Broadway, opposite Robert Morley in "Edward, My Son." . . . Meg Munday, most recently of "The Respectful Prostitute," originally was supposed to have the role but she's waiting for a brand new part.

RECORD BOX

Popular Recordings: Perry Como (RCA-Victor) has a dandy for Como fans, "For You" and "By the Way," and they are recommended as one of Perry's smoothest vocals ever . . . Indeed Slow is Eddy Howard's "On a Slow Boat to China" (Mercury) but it's okay nevertheless; "I'd Love to Live in Loveland" backs it up . . Again Eddy Howard (and again Mercury), "When the Red Red Robin" and "Just Because," more sprightly than the predecessor . . Connie Haines (Signature) and Ray Blochs orchestra do their dandy darndest with "Stormy Weather" and "My Man" . . . And a big surprise, Peter Lind Hayes of the fancy saloons turns crooner, and a good one, (Decca) with four sides: "My Darling," "Dainty Brenda Lee," "That Certain Party" and "Life Gets Teejus," all surprisingly cheerful and tuneful . . . Margaret Whiting (Capitol) has a new side which should make the jukes and hit parade instanter, "Faraway Places," the other side being a pert tune and smart lyric, "My Own True Love."

Georgia Pay Irks Teacher

ATLANTA — (AP) — The state board of education Saturday reported receipt of the following letter from a teacher in a one-room school earning $67.50 a month:

"Dear sir:

"When I since (signed) up Wednesday I was to since up for four check and I just to since up for two check and that made four time for me too. If this don't go to the write place send it on to the one to—and since you up. Ever two week. I don't you to sence me my other checks to me because the money is hard to make for me not get them so sence them out to me at once."

After considerable study, the board figured the teacher, the only source of learning for a score of children, meant she had received only two checks for four months work.

The department observed that replacements for the 3,531 teachers lost by Georgia in 1948 included only 166 college graduates.

SPEBSQSA Takes Root In Mansfield

Away back in pre-war days a man named Owen C. Cash came forth with a proposal that harmonious notes of barbershop quartets should not be allowed to die of neglect. On April 11, 1938 he called together a group of kindred souls in his home city of Tulsa, Okla., to form the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America, Inc.

The next day Ralph A. Hughes, Richland county common pleas court bailiff and probation officer, read a brief news item in the News-Journal about Cash's fledgling organization.

"The man's got something!" exclaimed Hughes to no one in particular.

The Mansfield chapter of SPEBSQSA wasn't born at that moment, but the idea had begun to germinate in Hughe's mind. In the early 1940s he opened correspondence with officials of the organization. Then war held activity in check, but finally in 1945 a few meetings of barbarshop harmony fans were held here.

Nothing developed at the time, but the move was started anew in 1947, and this time it clicked. The Mansfield chapter was formed, and received its charter on June 28, 1947 as the 375th chapter of SPEBSQSA. The organization now has well over 500 chapters.

Officers and members of the board of directors of the local chapter at its formation were Hughes, president; Max Williams, vice president; Maurice Stretch, secretary; John Whitcomb, treasurer; Wm. C. Hegnauer (deceased), Herman Clingan, R. A. Sterratt, Russell Moore and Bob Richards.

A group of men who had been associated for years in putting on home talent entertainment and minstrels formed the nucleus of the organization. This simplified the chapter's problem when a decision was reached early this year to produce a minstrel show. The result was the highly successful production, Alabamy Bound.

Officers of the chapter this year are Clingan, president; Sterratt, vice president; Hughes, secretary; John Seifert, treasurer. Other members of the board of directors are Stretch, Moore, Max Williams and John Whitcomb.

The chapter is now embarked on another enterprise more ambitious than the original minstrel show. This is the presentation, scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 4, of a Harvest of Harmony. This type of program consists of the presentation of outstanding quartets of the nation. Similar Parades of quartets have been held in the major cities of the U. S.

The SPEBSQSA is a nonprofit organization tied together by the members' liking for barbershop harmony.

About the only prerequisites for membership, says Hughes, are ability to produce sweet notes and horror for sour ones.

The Mansfield chapter meets on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month at North Lake park pavilion. Business sessions are short, usually lasting only 10 or 15 minutes. Afterwards there is chorus rehearsal, followed by quartet singing. The meetings are adjourned at 10 o'clock, but those who feel like singing stay on—sometimes until the wee hours of the morning.

Men to Meet

Men of the Park Avenue Baptist church will meet Sunday at 6 p. m. for a supper and fellowship hour. Joseph Ritter will act as chairman for the program.

Happenings In Hollywood

Mid-West Holds Lead In Dainty Dandies

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — So you think Hollywood boys are effete? Milton F. Kreis has some contrary evidence:

Men in the middle west are the best customers for male perfumes and cosmetics, says Kreis, who owns a chain of drugstores in hotels throughout the nation.

"The Chicago store leads every other," he declared after a ledger-checking tour. "Chicago men account for 37 per cent of cosmetic counter sales. And they go in for the most exotic aromas."

Buffalo males lean toward hand and skin lotion, his survey showed. He credits this to the breeze off Lake Erie, but he adds that he has no explanation for their preference for flower fragrances.

His stores in Cleveland and Dayton have such a heavy male trade that the cosmetics clerks have made a special study of the most suitable scents for tweeds and tails, Kreis declared.

The Kreis store in the movie colony numbers among its customers Gregory Peck, Jack Benny, William Eythe and Red Skelton. Yet, Kreis avers, cologne and cosmetic sales among film actors are far below the national average.

"It's a matter of climate," he explained. "Eastern and middle western summers are humid. In California, sun oil sales make up for our unspectacular cologne profits."

Jane Russell's Going To Stay 'Home' Now

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—Jane Russel's current assignment in "Montana Belle" at Republic studios will be her last loan-out. That's the word around Republic, at least. Howard Hughes, who holds her contract, reportedly turned down an offer of $150,000 from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, where she was wanted for "On the Town," with Frank Sinatra and Gene Kelley. From now on Miss Russell supposedly will confine her film activities to RKO studios, controlled by Hughes.

Screenplay Written By Errol For Flynn

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Errol Flynn has now written a screenplay for himself, he disclosed on the set of "Montana." The title is "Last of the Buccaneers" and the era is 1860.

"The story takes place at a time when the bottom had just about fallen out of the piracy racket," said Flynn. "The pirates in my story are pretty down-at-heel, for the Spanish main had ceased to be regarded as the Spanish main."

Errol said that he planned to produce the story himself, in about a year. He is the author of two published novels, "Showdown" and "Beam End."

Van Johnson Plans Spring Circus Tour

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—Van Johnson says he has arranged to tour with a circus next spring—and not just for the ride.

On the "Mother is a Freshman" set, Johnson announced he will do a trapeze act, fulfilling a life-long ambition. He practiced daily as a youth, and hoped to become a circus performer until he got sidetracked on the New York stage, as a song and dance man.

Johnson said John Ringling North invited him to join the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey show next season.

Hollywood Trip Won By Navajo Indian

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Grey eyes, a Navajo Indian who worked on location in New Mexico and Colorado on the picture "Colorado Territory," has been brought to Hollywood to complete his role.

He doesn't speak English. But his wife does, and she came along as interpreter for the 66-year-old Indian. They brought their 11-year-old son, Earl Lee, too. The wife is Irene Stewart, graduate (1926) of Haskell Institute in Lawrence, Kas. Earl goes to school on the Warner lot, but finds time to attend a movie every day.

Grey Eyes, when he isn't in a scene, sits in a far-off corner of the sound stage and works placidly on a pair of rawhide-soled moccasins.

Ballet Brings Fairyland to Life

City Schools Book Strawbridge Troupe

The gates of fairyland will open for Mansfield school children next Tuesday and Wednesday when Edwin Strawbridge presents another in his famed repertoire of Childhood tales brought to life on the stage.

This year it is to be the beloved, familiar old story, "Little Red Riding Hood," and Lisa Parnova, one of the outstanding ballet dancers in America, will play the part of the child heroine.

There will be four showings for Mansfield's school children. The cast will appear at Appleseed on Tuesday, with two performances scheduled for 9:30 a. m. and 1:45 p. m. Players will be at John Simpson auditorium on Wednesday at the same hours. There will be no evening performance. Parents who wish to see the production must get their tickets at the schools. The number of adult tickets is limited.

This particular performance by Strawbridge takes place in a Czecho-slovakian village, with the characters wearing typical native costumes. It is in the autumn during the harvest festival and the dances which carry forward the story are created from the dance heritage of middle Europe.

There are two scenes. One depicts a village square and the second the grandmother's cottage.

In preparation for the "Red Riding Hood" production, an educational kit will be sent to each school in the city. Included in this kit is material which will prepare the children for the music, dances and plot as contained in Strawbridge's reproduction.

Thank Talk Given Before Tiro Grange

Galion Pastor Addresses Group

TIRO—Rev. Paul Walter, pastor of the Galion Evangelical United Brethren church, delivered a Thanksgicing message Friday night at the meeting of the Edgewood Grange of Tiro. His subject was, "Let's Be Thankful."

The speaker declared we have learned we ought to be thankful regardless of the day and always sincere in thanks. He said we need to take time from our busy lives to be thankful.

Rev. Walter said that while all can be grateful, only Christians can really be thankful in the true sense. He listed as things we should be thankful for: our country and our freedom, the strength of our faith, our sense of humor, our harvest and our peace of mind and soul. All of these bring us responsibilities, Rev. Walter said.

The speaker was introduced by Carl Baker, lecturer of Edgewood Grange after the business session.

Mrs. Willis Cole provided special music. All present responded with "something I am thankful for." Refreshments were served.

Their Ages Total 256 Years

Ontario Family Circle Unbroken

By CATHERINE RORICK
(N-J State Correspondent)

GALION — An original family of three children all of whom were born on a farm, northeast of Ontario, and whose aggregate ages now total 256 years, has the distinction of not having the family circle broken, and also that all three still are living with the same mates to whom they were married more than 55 years ago.

The family is composed of Jesse J. Patterson, 76, who lives on the homestead farm near Ontario. Mrs. Charles E. Molder, 81, of Galion, and Mrs. Robert Jesson, 79, of Springfield. They recently held their first reunion in seven years at the Molder home in Galion, with their wife and husbands present for the occasion. Mrs. Molder is the former Minnie Patterson, and Mrs. Jesson was Hattie Patterson before her marriage.

Mr. Jesson, who is 81, and his wife have been married for 59 years. Mrs. Molder's husband is 84 years old, and they have been married for 57 years. The Pattersons have been married 55 years, and Mrs. Patterson who is the former Alpha Cotter of near Ontario, is now 77 years of age.

The Patterson family attribute their longevity partly to inheritance on their father's side. He was W. G. Patterson, Civil War captain, who migrated to Ohio from Vermont at the age of 18. He married Sarah Hershey whose parents had come across the mountains of Pennsylvania in a covered wagon to clear the farm northeast of Ontario, and build a log cabin on it. Here he settled to farm and raise his family after serving for 25 years on the Pennsylvania railroad after his Civil War experience. He died at the age of 81.

Mr. and Mrs. Molder had two children, one dying in infancy, and another, Dale, a former Galion high school teacher, who was killed accidentally several years ago. The Jessons have three children, and the Jesse J. Pattersons have one son.

Future Farming Training Credited For Rise of Ashland Countian, 23

ASHLAND — Training he received as a Future Farmer under the tutelage of George Krill vocational agriculture teacher in the local high school, is credited by Gerald Harpster, 23, of near Jeromesville, for the farming success which resulted in an article in the November issue of the Country Gentleman.

Gerald, known to the community as 'Mose,' married Beulah Rowland this summer. The couple is remodeling a house on their 113 acre farm and Beulah is employed in the sales office of the Ohio Public Service here. Gerald also farms another 160 acres on share.

Mose keeps all his records and farm and herd accounts as he was taught to keep them in FFA under Krill. He almost made American Farmer before he went to war and thinks he still may make it, since time in the service is counted out.

When Mose started in the high school here at 13 he enrolled under Krill, who has taught that subject for 27 years. In his junior scholastic year he became a State Farmer in the FFA. Graduating at 17, Mose went to Ohio State university for a year, where he took dairy husbandry and agricultural engineering.

He started farming on the place where he now lives and was inducted into the Army in June, 1944. At that time he had two cows and four heifer calves of his own. His father farms 600 acres and has a herd of fine Holstein cattle.

The father cared for Mose's stock while the son was in service. Mose has farmed the place for two years now and is buying it from his mother, who acquired title to it after the death of his maternal grandmother. The grandmother died after contracting to sell the farm to Mose.

He milks with a milking machine twice a day and sells the milk wholesale to the Cleveland market. He uses artificial insemination and sells all male calves at three days old for breeding stock.

Beulah's father, Clarence Rowland, and her brother, work at the Westinghouse plant in Mansfield. Mose's brother, Donald, is his partner in purchasing a forage chopper and a hay baler. Mose has a tractor and combine. Mose built a $900 concrete silo.

"There is nothing like pasture for dairy cows," Mose says. "Silage is as near as we can come to it for winter feed."

The world looks bright to the Harpsters although Beulah got homesick upon returning from a honeymoon in Niagara Falls—yet her mother was but four miles away in Nankin!

They attend the Lutheran church in Rowsburg, the village where he played on its softball team before called to service. Mose didn't date Beulah during their scholastic days here — having his first date after serving in the Army in Germany.

His service record in Germany was from the Battle of the Bulge to the Elbe and a year in the Army of Occupation after hostilities ceased.

This Ashland county farmer, who has received national rural magazine recognition, sums his work up thusly:

"It's for us. I'm my own boss. It's the work itself, things I want to get done, that drives me, not some other man or some other force. I like the feeling of doing for myself, and doing things because they're part of a plan. I like to get records with my cows and see them thrive, because it's a swell way to live and do."

LOUDONVILLE—For the first time in the 35 years the Flxible's 1949 funeral cars and ambulances will be built with one-piece, die-formed tops and tools and dies are under construction to supply them with a die-formed rear quarter panel.

These tops are produced on one of the largest presses in the United States, and is probably the largest auto top ever made. They are made by the Gerstenslager's of Wooster.

Advantages of this type of top are that they are more rigid and the amount of welding, soldering and finishing necessary is reduced.

Shelby Lists Talk By Missionary

Medic To Speak There Tomorrow

SHELBY—Dr. G. G. Crozier, M.D., will speak at the missionary services sponsored by the Richland County Christian Endeavor Union at 7:30 p. m. Monday at the Evangelical United Brethren church here.

Dr. Crozier, a medical missionary for 50 years among the lepers in Assam, India, will speak at the county-wide service to be presided over by Mrs. John Gray of Shelby, Christian Endeavor missionary superintendent, assisted by Rev. V. I. Sullivan, pastor of the host church, and Rev. Harlan Miller, president of the Shelby Ministerial Association.

A graduate of the University of Michigan, Dr. Crozier spent his first 15 years as a medical missionary among animistic tribes in Assam.

In addition to other work, a survey of leprosy in the Garo hills resulted in a leper colony being started by the government. Three leper colonies were established with a net result of approximately 150 lepers being restored to normal life.

Dr. Crozier's last mission was in a large district of Hindus and Moslems. The station, Alipur, now is prepared to give temporary residence for a large group of missionaries approved for Assam.

Iberia Plans New 4H Unit

IBERIA—Boys who are 4H club members and their parents may look forward to the formation of a third 4H club in Iberia for 1949 to be known as the Iberia Villager's 4H club according to M. Doyle Rusk, who heads the boys' advisory staff.

Three new leaders have been added to the staff: Russell Kidwell, John Thew and George Sautter. Other leaders include Robert Maidens, Dwight McClarren, Albert Sautter and Aaron Smith.

The township will be divided at St. James road. The southern club will be known as the Iberia Thoughtful Farmers and the northern club will continue as the Iberia Olentangys. A series of three Christmas parties will be held to present the 4H members with their pins and certificates. Thirty-six boys will receive awards.

2 Drivers Fined For Violations

GALION—Two motorists were fined here Friday on traffic violation charge hearings before Richard E. Riblet, justice of the peace.

William B. Ferguson, Mansfield, was fined $20 and costs on a reckless operation charge. Carry G. Martin, 52, Cardington, R. D. 3, was fined $75 and costs and sentenced to 15 days in jail on a drunk driving charge.

Martin's car collided with one driven by James Klehm, 28, of Galion and resulfed in damage to both cars, officers reported.

International Show At Chicago

Area Entries To Seek Honors

By BILL HERRING
(News-Journal State Editor)

The International Livestock Exposition anad Horse Show, which opens in the Chicago stock yards on Saturday, will have several Mansfield area entries.

Polled shorthorn cattle top the area entries while L. C. Hay & Son, of Loudonville, will enter two head of Percherons in the draft horse classes.

The youngest area exhibitor will be Clair R. Touby jr., 10, Mansfield, R. D. 4, a Forest Hall 4-H club member. This Richland county youngster will enter 'Nosey,' a year-old polled shorthorn calf in the junior livestock feeding contest.

'Nosey' took first place in the Richland County Fair's beef cattle class this fall and now weighs approximately 1,000 pounds. This is young Touby's first year as a 4-H club member as a 10-year club age limit barred him earlier.

The junior livestock feeding contest, for farm boys and girls who yearly feed and fit nearly 1,500 head of steers, lambs and barrows for exhibition at the International, will be held Saturday, opening day of the show.

Top winners of the junior contest they may go an and compete in the open classes with adult livestock feeders. Boys or girls have produced a number of show grand champions in the past years, and last year the grand champion steer and grand champion barrow were won by an Oklahoma farm boys and an Illinois farm girl, respectively.

Clair's father, shown in the accompanying picture with 'Nosey,' will enter two polled shorthorn heifers and a bull. P. G. Ross, of the Max Walton farm, will take four head to Chicago. The cattle will be taken in a truck Wednesday so they'll have time to adjust to their surroundings before the show opens Saturday.

Young Clair is a fifth grade pupil in Buena Vista school.

Dead Leader Still Guides Boys Town

New Director Retains System

BOYS TOWN, NEB., — (AP) — The new director of boys town is following the Father Flanagan line.

Two months under new leadership have brought no changes or shakeup to the city of little men.

In small things as in big things, Msgr. Nicholas H. Wegner sticks to the pattern established by Msgr. Edward J. Flanagan, who died May 15 in Berlin.

Like his famed predecessor, Father Wegner holds "there is no such thing as a bad boy." Like Father Flanagan, he intends to travel and "spread the Boys Town idea."

Like Father Flanagan, Father Wegner makes trips with the football team. Like Father Flanagan, he makes a pre-game dressing room visit, watches games from the players' bench and delivers a half-time pep talk.

Father Wegner has pledged himself "to do everything in my humble way to help the youth of the world, regardless of races, creed or color."

The two churchmen were close friends for more than 20 years and Msgr. Wegner became well-acquainted with Father Flanagan's long-range plans for his famous little city.

Father Wegner says he plans only to make sch minor changes in those plans from time to time as the changing times dictate.

American Reigns as Cyprus Copper King

Late Date Brought Fortune to Engineer

XEROS, Cyprus—(AP)—A nameless copper miner and Aphrodite discovered Cyprus at almost the same time.

Born of the foam of the sea—a bit of imagination still beyond the ken of Hollywood—Aphrodite floated ashore in a shell, as frivolously as a film starlet posing for her picture.

Aphrodite made Cyprus famous as the island of love.

But an uncouth, glamorless male, seeking to improve his weapons in stone age warfare, did his stuff for Cyprus, too. Grubbing up pretty blue rock and boiling it over pine log fires, he began extracting the metal which ushered in the copper and bronze age 4,900 years ago.

This may appear irrelevant to Americans no closer to Cyprus than Sandy Hook. But one American took such information and re-discovered a fortune in the earth valued at more than $100,000,000.

At the rich Cyprus Mines corporation, American owned and operated in the midst of a British colony, they tell you about Godfrey Gunther, who in 20th century history figures as a Columbus of copper.

One day in New York (Circa 1910) Gunther had a date with a young lady, but, so the story goes, she kept him waiting and waiting. To while away the dragging minutes, he browsed through a book in the city library and came across references to Cyprus as the center of copper for the ancient world. He checked later in trade journals and noted that Cyprus, although under British lease from the dormant Turkish empire, wasn't producing a penny's worth of metal.

WENT PROSPECTING

Subsequently, he went prospecting on the island itself. Copper? The smelters erected by Phoenicians and Romans had long since vanished. But their old slag heaps still tumbled, in frozen riot, down the hills overlooking the Bay of Morphou. Some were red. Others gleaming black. To a mining engineer, the area was as easy to spot as if it had been lighted up by a neon sign.

By now it was 1914, the British had the excuse of a world war to put through the annexation of Cyprus, and Gunther obtained a large concession for an American syndicate. It was nothing new in history. The Roman senate had annexed Cyprus in 58 b.c. when its mineral deposits were even better known and envied.

Gunther, as re-discoverer, reportedly received a ten per cent share of all future profits of the enterpirse. And the young lady who had kept him waiting? The story-tellers say he married another girl, English instead of American, and possibly more punctual in temperament.

Now Robert J. Hendricks of Portland, Ore., and Grass Valley, Calif., manages the big mining concern, which has grossed as much as $6,000,000 in a year and has reserves of ore estimated at over 9,000,000 tons, or sufficent for 20 more years at the present rate of digging.

Building out of profits, a multi-million dollar treatment plant handles 2,000 tons of ore daily on the outskirts of this tiny port of Xeros, from which cupreous concentrates and by-product pyrites are shipped overseas.

The Minnesota-born chief engineer, Arthur D. Moir, has 2,000 Greek and Turkish Cypriots working for him. His only worry, he says, is communist agitation. He blames that for a strike which lasted from January to April this year. But production has recovered, and the corporation wage scale is reputed to be the highest on the island.

Moir's abiding interest is mining. He has found ancient tunnels in the copper hills and recovered fragments of wicker baskets, pit behind by contemoraries of Julius Caesar.

He says the Roman smelters extract as high a percentage of copper from the rock as those of modern times, although their exact process is a matter for speculation.

But Moir admits he has never bothered to visit the Roman amphitheater at Soli, only three historical and architectural significance.

"If it were a Roman slag heap," he remarks with a slow smile, "I'd be interested."

Car Business Became Giant In 55 Years

DETROIT—(AP)—Some 55 years ago the Duryea brothers—Charles E and E. and J. Frank—built America's first gasoline powered automobile.

In the five and one-half decades since then, an industry that changed the habits of the world has turned out more than 100,000,000 vehicles. Completion of the 100,000,000th unit several months ago was noted in a 40-page booklet issued today by the Automobile Manufacturers' association

The booklet lauded motor vehicles as "a symbol of American ability to create more wealth and to spread it more widely among the people than any other nation on earth."

"An industry that began only 55 years ago," the association brochure said, "now employs, directly and indirectly, more people than any other business in the world. More than 9,000,000 persons in the United States are employed in making, selling, servicing or in the commercial use of motor vehicles."

Motor vehicles, the report asserts, were born in Europe nearly 100 years before any were built in the United States Yet, it continues, "lacking freedom to compete for profits, most other nations have failed to develop mass production.

So, while 100 million vehicles have been built in the United States, only 24 million have been built in all other nations combined."

The report noted that United States car makers last year averaged "considerably less" than $75 profit per car.

Of car prices, it said the retail price of the average new car in 1909 was $1,791; in 1939 a typical car sold for $800 and in July, 1948, it had risen to $1,460 The 1939 model could be had for 33½ weeks of factory wages while the 1948 vehicle, the report asserted, equaled only 27½ weeks of factory wages.

Today's automobiles are described as lasting more than twice as long as those built in 1925, possessing five times as much horsepower, considerably larger yet giving better gasoline mileage.

AIDED WAR EFFORT

The report says that between 1939 and 1945 the automotive industry produced more than $29,000,000,000 worth of materiel for World War II. Since then, it continues, "the United States automotive industry has added 34 new plants and thousands of new machines and tools to its facilities

"The United States automotive industry began as a cluster of alley shops at the turn of the century. Today it produces nearly five of ever six motor vehicles made in the world

"Today more than 40 million motor vehicles, including some seven million motor trucks, are rolling the streets of the nation."

It required more than 25 years for the industry to build its first million vehicles In this connection the report says:

"With the automotive industry at present turning out about 30 new cars and 10 new trucks and buses every minute of every working day, it is entirely possible the second 100,000,000 motor vehicles will be produced in the United States in less than half the time required for the first 100,000,000."

"In the 55 years it took the United States to build 100 million motor vehicles, the average family's standard of living has more than doubled. By the time another 100 million vehicles are made our standard of living can double again.

"That is the promise of mass production machinery and scientific research, operating in a land where men are free to compete for profits, and where that competition and those profits have spread the benefits of mass production to every family, at every income level."

Steel Aids Defense

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The steel industry has agreed to set aside some of its scarce product for transporting an undisclosed "strategic material" to this country. Plans for the new program, under the industry's voluntary priority system, were announced yesterday by Secretary of Commerce Sawyer after a meeting with th steel men.

FREIGHTER GROUNDED

DULUTH, Minn —(AP)— The 11-900 ton Great Lakes ore carrier Robert Hobson was reported to have been blown aground Friday night in the entry to the Duluth-Superior harbor. She carried 33 men.

TROUBLES GROW — Recently released on a $15,000 bond while awaiting appeal of a prison sentence, former screen star Madge Meredith is shown as she appeared in a Los Angeles courtroom. Given a five-year to life turn for alleged participation in the kidnaping and beating of Verne B. Davis and Nick Gianaclis, her one-time manager, she now faces an additional $65,000 damage action brought by Davis.

2-Day Vacation Set In Iberia

IBERIA—The Iberia school will observe Thursday and Friday as Thanksgiving holidays, according to Supt. Preston Burggraf.

In athletics, Iberia will meet Caledonia's quintet in a double bill Tuesday night, Nov. 23. The school pep band will play during the games. Cheer leaders are Betty Rinehart, Elaine Sherman, Rose McClarren, Barbara Sautter, Barbara Wilcox. Janet Wilcox.

Miss Lois Hunter and Fred Wilson are conducting minstrel rehearsals every Thursday. The show will be given in December.

The school paper, "Flashes and Dashes" will be published next week under the direction of Marie Owens, commercial teacher, and Editor Vivian Freeman

Looking Ahead

Swiss Debate Gun Trade; Truman Gets Last Laugh

(By WORLD AP STAFF)

GENEVA — Powerful forces in Switzerland are demanding that the nation lift its ban on exporting munitions.

Since its early history Switzerland has foresworn war as a means of settling disputes. It put its first embargo on arms exports in 1859.

It exported arms during World War II, mostly to axis countries since it was virtually surrounded by them. It clamped the embargo on again when the war was drawing to a close in 1944, lifted it at the end of the war, imposed it again in June, 1946.

The ban is due to expire Dec. 31 unless renewed and will be considered at the December session of parliament.

Max Petitpierre, chief of the Swiss political department (foreign office) is a spokesman for those who favor keeping the embargo

He says it would be ridiculous for this country to talk neutrality and pacifism, to support such organizations as the International Red Cross, and at the same time to supply other nations with the means of making war.

Opponents of the embargo say Switzerland must have a strong armed force to back up its neutrality and that the country's arms makers must be allowed to sell abroad so that profits can be used to supply more and better equipment at home.

Backers of the embargo agree Switzerland must have a strong defense but say the arms industry should be supported by the government. They say it's bad for Swiss morals to supply munitions to other countries.

Opponents say arms trade is justified morally if it improves Switzerlands' position. Said one recent speaker: "One should not emphasize the moral question too strongly. We are no better than other people."

BUDGET MAKERS SLIP

WASHINGTON— President Truman gets the last laugh—and an easier budget trimming job—at the wrong guesses of many agency officials on the election outcome.

Fearful of being accused by Republicans of being free spenders, these officials slashed budgets to the bone.

Now some officials want the budget bureau to let them put some "meat" on those bones. They've been getting a firm turndown — plus directions to see whether they can't cut requests still further.

DIVORCE DROP SEEN

LONDON—Social workers look for Britain's divorce rate to drop sharply in 1949.

There were 50,000 divorces last year, contrasted to 7,800 in 1938. A drop is held likely next year because the courts will catch up with a backlog of wartime cases.

★

STASSEN'S CHANCES

WASHINGTON — One of the winners in the election may have been Harold E. Stassen, who wasn't on anybody's ballot.

Beaten for the Republican nomination by Thomas E. Dewey, Stassen has resigned himself to an eight-year wait for a new try. He thought Dewey would be elected and re-elected Stassen's friends are already beginning quiet organization moves. They think the main strength of the former Minnesota governor lies with youthful members of the party.

They also point out that Stassen is strong in the farming middle west, where Dewey's failure to take key states cost him the election.

'Ike' Reveals He Overruled Churchill on Berlin Capture

MILITARY LEADER—This wartime picture shows Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in a patriotic pose during the period he was leading Allied forces to victory over Germany. His new book discloses that sharp differences of opinion often developed between military and civil officials.

Called Drive Unwise Move Strategically

Book Answers Disputed Point

(EDITOR'S NOTE: As an AP war correspondent, Wes Gallagher covered campaigns which Gen. Eisenhower led in World War II, beginning with the invasion of North Africa and continuing through D-day and the victorious campaigns in western Europe. Gallagher is now chief of the AP bureau in Berlin.)

By WES GALLAGHER

BERLIN —(AP)— Anglo-American armies did not drive to take Berlin in the last stages of the war because Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower believed it strategically unwise and stupid to do so.

In his decision Eisenhower overruled Winston Churchill and was supported in doing so by the combined chiefs of staff.

This is revealed for the first time in Eisenhower's own book of the war, "Crusade in Europe," to be published Monday, Nov. 22, in the United States by Doubleday.

This decision which has become such a publicized postwar question was the climax of many wartime arguments between the American commander and the British prime minister on how the battles in Europe should be fought.

The book is an answer to some observers who have said Eisenhower favored the British.

On the contrary, from the day combined headquarters was set up until the day it disbanded, Eisenhower, strongly supported by Gen. George Marshall, fought a constant battle against British attempts to sway strategy away from what they considered the main objective — smashing Germany militarily as quickly as possible

Much of Churchill's constant dabbling in allied stragedy undoubtedly was motivated by the wartime prime minister's tremendous interest and drive to take part in everything

VIEWPOINTS DIFFERED

Fundamentally, however, the book reveals the basic differences grew out of two viewpoints. One, that of the military represented by Eisenhower and Marshall, who viewed the war as strictly a military problem to be ended as quickly and expeditiously as possible by any means at hand. Two, that of Churchill, who viewed the war not only as a military problem, but also a means of obtaining political advantage.

These viewpoints clashed many times: In Churchill's desire to invade the Balkans, not western Europe; in his opposition to the invasion of southern France; in his opposition to bombing communications in France prior to the invasion; in his constant preoccupation with making the Mediterranean the main theater of the war; in his demands for an all-out drive on Berlin, abandoning prepared plans first to wipe out German military strength.

During an argument with Churchill, who was proposing the western allies should invade the Balkans instead of southern France, Eisenhower said he told Churchill:

"I well understood that strategy can be affected by political considerations, and if the President and the prime minister should decide that it was worthwhile to prolong the war, thereby increasing its cost in men and money, in order to secure political objectives they deemed necessary, then I would instantly and loyally adjust the matter. On military grounds alone, I could not concede the validity to his arguments."

Churchill, while he could and did constantly suggest and argue with Eisenhower, had no authority to issue orders directly. These had to go through the combined chiefs of staff in Washington. Here Gen. Marshall almost invariably backed Eisenhower. "Crusade in Europe" gives a good picture for the first time of the tremendous influence Marshall had on the war and its strategy.

Eisenhower explains that while Churchill would pursue his arguments up to the last, that once he saw he could not influence a decision he threw his whole support behind it.

Churchill's political arguments have gained postwar validity in the light of events, but his proposals show that the British prime minister, despite his many talents, left much to be desired as a military strategist or prognosticator.

He prevailed on the British Mediterranean Commander Sir Maitland Wilson to undertake the costly Anzio operation in Italy against the advice of Eisenhower and his staff. The operation was expected to be over in two weeks. It lasted many months and cost greatly in lives and equipment.

Churchill was always pessimistic about the western invasion of Europe and several times tried to sidetrack it in favor of a Balkan operation.

Churchill is quoted as predicting just before D-day. "General, if by the coming winter (1944-45) you have established yourself with 36 allied divisions on the continent and have Cherbourg and Brittany peninsulas in your grasp, I will proclaim the operation to the world as one of the most successful of war, and in addition to this, if you have secured the port of Le Havre and freed beautiful Paris from the hands of the enemy, I will assert the victory to be the greatest of modern times."

Paris fell in the summer of '44 (August). At that time 37 allied divisions were in France.

The last big argument between Churchill and Eisenhower came over Churchill's desire to send British forces on the north dashing for Berlin.

Eisenhower, in opposition to this, supported the original SHAEF plan from D-day onward to destroy German military strength by enveloping the Ruhr, driving on Leipzig (where another center of German industrial strength was located).

Truman Offered Gen. Eisenhower Anything—Even '48 Presidency

While virtually all of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's book, "Crusade In Europe," deals with the war and its problems, an account of an Eisenhower conversation with President Truman is of great current interest.

Eisenhower relates how the President during a ride with Gen. Bradley and himself at the Potsdam conference suddenly turned and said:

"General, there is nothing that you may want that I won't try to help you get. That definitely and specifically includes the presidency in 1948."

Eisenhower continues:

"I doubt that any soldier of our country was ever so suddenly struck in his emotional vitals by a President with such an apparently sincere and astounding proposition as this. . . . My reaction was always instant repudiation, but to have the President suddenly throw this broadside into me, left me no recourse except to treat it as a very splendid joke which I hoped it was. I laughed heartily and said 'Mr. President, I don't know who will be your opponent for the presidency, but it will not be I.' There was no doubt about my seriousness."

In the last sentence Eisenhower has put "my" in italics.

Teacher Hunts Rattlesnakes Because It's Fun (He Says)

DENVER — (AP) — Sam Hill, by profession the principal of West Denver high school, hunts rattlesnakes for the fun of it.

He says he finds it relaxing. He must be right because he's been doing it for 36 years. He has caught close to 20,000 rattlersand has never benn bitten.

But Hill insists hunting rattlers is more than what most people would regard as an extremely dangerous, not to say unpleasant way of spending leisure hours.

During the war, Hill and two hunting companions shipped hundreds of rattlesnakes to the zoo at Philadelphia. There the venom was extracted for use in making antivenin, a snakebite remedy. Hill suspects, too, that the venom went into the making of some semi-secret drugs, at least one of which was used to reduce shock among wounded soldiers.

Hill began hunting rattlesnakes in 1912 when he was a young teacher in Wyoming.

To capture them alive he uses a snare made of a straight metal rod three feet long, with a wire noose at one end. The noose is slipped over the head of the snake, which then can be handled in perfect safety, Hill says, if it is held directly behind the jaw.

There are 22 rattlesnake dens that Hill and his companions, George Heywood and Dr. Everett G. Peterson, both of Denver, visit regularly.

"The biggest one used to be in Fortification Rocks near Craig, Colo." Hill said. "Between 3,000 and 5,000 snakes used to spend the winter there and it was not unusual for us to collect 600 in a single day's hunting in the spring or fall.

"Once I saw a cave the size of two living rooms, with its floor covered with a solid mass of snakes. It looked as if it were carpeted with an oriental rug."

Hill and Heywood insist rattlesnake venom is not poisonous to drink. Heywood "miled" the fangs of a big rattler he held in one hand. The venom, which looked like lemon juice, squirted into a cup. Heywood dipped a forefinger into the cup and licked it to prove his point. Onlookers just shuddered.

Sees Trend To Low-Cost Home Design

Lumber Secretary Anticipates Change

The building industry is heading into a low-cost housing market, believes Findley M. Torrence, secretary of the Ohio Association of Retail Lumber Dealers.

"The talk everywhere is on the building of small homes," Torrence declared in a recent interview. "Homes selling for $12,000 to $20,000 have been overdone, and builders are now shifting to small low-cost homes that can be erected quickly, to sell for $6,000 to $8,000.

"Spiralling prices of building materials and labor have discouraged further investment in 'luxury' bracket homes, owing to the inability of contractors to project binding contracts in a rapidly rising market."

According to Torrence, one of the outstanding features of the 68th annual convention of Ohio retailers of lumber and building materials at Cleveland on Jan. 18, 19 and 20, will be the announcement of the results of a survey of low-cost housing projects.

Improved architectural designing and housing research jointly endowed by the industry and the amazing economies in construction techniques.

There will be on display at the Lumbermens convention photographs of low-cost homes, including plans and cost data.

Retail lumber and building materials dealers, along with their local builders, will participate in the prize awards to be given for the year's most outstanding record of "home value for the money."

The gigantic Cleveland public auditorium has been reserved for the exposition, where all lines of building materials, including the newest and most modern home conveniences, will be on display.

Favors Aid For Chinese

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A special senate consultant, just back from China, recommended last night an immediate, all-out program of American aid as the only possible means of saving China from communism.

"Piecemeal aid will no longer save failing China from communism," declared former Senator D. Worth Clark of Idaho. "It is now an all-out program or none; a fish or cut bait proposition."

Clark said this conclusion was confirmed by American Ambassador J. Leighton Stuart and top American army officers in China.

He further reported a plea by Chinese President Chiang Kai-Shek in these words: "China, said the president, must either have help or fall."

Clark, a Democratic senator in 1939-45, is now a Washington attorney. He went to China last month for Chairman Bridges (R-N.H.) of the Senate appropriations committee.

He published last night his 6,000-word report to the committee, including a five-point program for action, which he said would cost the United States more than $1,000,000,000 the first year and $600,000,000 annually thereafter.

His action coincided with rapidly sharpening interest in the China crisis because of the foreign policy conference which President Truman will hold with Secretary of State Marshall next Monday.

New Belgian Cabinet Seen

BRUSSELS — (AP) — Paul-Henri Spaak, bowing to the request of regent Prince Charles, agreed yesterday to try to form a new Belgian government.

Spaak was premier and foreign minister in the government which resigned Friday. He will begin talks with Socialist and Catholic party leaders in an attempt to form a cabinet. He is a Socialist.

Spaak's resignation followed that of the minister of justice, Paul Struye, in a parliamentary debate over Struye's policy of clemency toward former collaborators with the Germans. The fall of the government has been laid to support among other Catholic party members for Struye's policy.

Artists Flock To U. S. At Pre-War Pace

NEW YORK—(AP)—Not since before the war has this open-hearted city been host to so many foreign artists, writers, dancers, singers, violinists, pianists, conductors and musicians of all flavors.

The usual French art shows, sometimes with the artist in person, have filled 57th street galleries. From India came Ram Gopal and from Paris the Opera Ballet for the International Dance festival; Harold Kreutzberg has danced here, and there will be two Spaniards, Mariemma and Jose Torres.

★

From Iceland this fall we have Pianist Rognvaldur Sigurjonsson; from Denmark and Sweden, singers Aksel Schiotz and Lorri Lail; from Ethiopia, Russian-born violinist Alexander Kontorowicz; from Italy, singer Ebe Stignani, pianist Arturo Michelangeli and the Italian opera ensemble; from France, pianist Yvonne Lefebure, violinist Ginette Neveu, disveur-actor Fernandel, diseur-singer Pierre Bernac, conductor Charles Munch, the Orchestre National, composers Henri Barraud and Francis Poulenc, the Lowenguth quartet; from England, the London string quartet, pianist Moura Lympany, Dr. Edith Sitwell and her brother Sir Osbert.

With more celebrities than you can shake a stick at. There are more than you can interview, too, but here are first hand reports on the Sitwells:

No such individual and curious pair as the Sitwells has been seen in this country since the visit of Gertrude Stein in 1934 . . . and she and they were friends. And not in our time has one family so firmly established its literary supremacy as have the Sitwells with [illegible] when four books by them or their younger brother Sacheverell, or about them, have been published.

Dr. Edith is a sort of high priestess of poetry, wearing one egg-sized finger ring, or two amounting to the same bulk, keeping on a heavy winter coat in a hot room on a hot day, her hair pulled back tight from her broad, pale forehead, her eyes opening narrowly, almost threateningly.

She accounts for two of the four books. One is her own. "The Song of the Cold" and 30 other poems (Vanguard); and whether you hear her read them in impassioned tones, or read them by yourself, you realize she belongs among the most distinguished poets of our time. New Directions press has just issued "Celebration for Edith Sitwell," edited by Jose Garcia Villa; in it, Sir Osbert recalls that his sister said, as a child, that she wanted to be a genius, and numerous other contributors agree that she got her wish.

'Use Your Hands,' Advises Advertising Man

Calls Home Workshop Best Nerve Tonic

A home workshop, thinks Louis A. Them, 20 West Arch street, outdoes psychiatric treatment in keeping a man on even keel.

"When I enter my shop and start working, troubles just fade out of my mind," Them declared. "A fellow's mind just can't roam back to the tensions of business when he's concentrating on an intricate job of carving, or turning out some article of wood or metal.

"This isn't just a quirk of my own." Them maintained. "Other men who have home workshops will tell you the same thing. It's not natural for for human beings to expend all their energies in mental work. They need to use their hands."

Them's handiwork demonstrates that he makes use of his own hands most competently. He recently completed a carving from a solid block of wood which was approximately 6 by 6 by 12 inches at the beginning. The completed carving is a mounted man in armor. (It is pictured in the illustrations which accompany this article.)

A decoration on a clock provided Them the inspiration to start the carving. The original was pieced together. Them felt it a challenge to make the carving in a single piece, he explained. He purchased a block of 30-year-old air dried mahogany, and set to work.

TOOK THREE YEARS

Nearly three years went by before he met the challenge with a finished product. He worked at the task intermittently. On the basis of his own estimate, the job took 300 hours. He worked with knives, carving chisels and some special knives which he made himself, but used no power tools.

Them's use of hand methods on the carving did not stem from any lack of power tools in his shop. His basement is lined with an array of equipment which would make the average workshop fan blink with envy.

In addition to the usual hand and power tools for woodworking, there is a metal lathe and the various cutting tools which go with it. Another convenient device which Them recently constructed is a cutting wheel which will slice through a one-half inch metal bar in 15 seconds.

HOBBY — For Louis Them, advertising man, a home workshop is a hobby that brings accomplishment and relaxation. Photos show Them in the neatly-arranged shop in the basement of his home, and examining a figure which he carved from a solid block of mahogany.

Despite his skill with tools, Them has never used this ability as an occupation. In business life he is advertising man at the News-Journal, where he has been employed over 20 years. His hobby has developed over a period of years, through his own interest and the encouragement of his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Them reside in a neat home with finishing touches which demonstrate the value of having a "built-in" handyman available.

Sometimes It All Becomes Very Confusing

John Doe's Name Causes Complications

BAD AXE, Mich.—(AP)—A young man scanning his evening newspaper came across the name "Ignatius Szyzulzibruski."

"Good name," he mused, "lucky fellow. Might like it for myself."

John Doe's simple name has complicated his life and produced an endless series of frustrating arguments with mailmen, telephone operators, bank clerks, army officers and chance acquaintances.

Yet it's of his own choosing. He was christened John William Doe 30 years ago and ever since has spurned suggestions that he call himself "J. William."

"John Doe is a good name," he has said, "even if it's a bit confusing. No one doubts that I come from a town called Bad Axe, Michigan., but no one will believe a good, simple name like John Doe."

Life with such a name has been interesting at that. There was the time in the army, for instance, when the first sergeant asked recruit Doe his name.

"John Doe," he replied, shoulders back.

The sergeant grew pale, muttered "wise guy" and put Doe on KP.

Later, fearful that a spy was in their midst, army intelligence officers questioned Doe. The Michigan soldier produced his birth certificate, a document he long since had grown used to carrying. An officer studied it, shook his head in bewilderment and complained:

"But we just don't have any John Doe's in the army."

EXPERIENCE TYPICAL

The experience was typical. Once a company commander told some recruits how their correspondents should address letters to soldiers. When he used "John Doe" as a sample name, the real Doe prepared for the worst.

Within a week scores of literal-minded correspondents, following instructions exactly, sent him prompt and often endearing letters. The missives followed him all over the nation and overseas, where he spent 18 months. Some still arrive, somewhat to the annoyance of his wife, Roberta.

Doe found no peace when the war ended. Bank clerks still scoffed and policemen eyed him suspiciously. He had to get a special letter from the Detroit factory that hired him in order to cash his pay check.

Now he has a job as a driver-salesman for a service station chain with headquarters in Bad Axe. In this capacity he has to make frequent long distance calls to the home office, collect. Each call is preceded by a long argument with the operator.

The young man with the universal name isn't sorry for himself, however.

"Not many people have as much fun with a name as I've had," he said. "Smith may be more common, but mine's more exciting."

As a gesture of how he feels, he and Roberta have named their son John Thomas Doe. Little John Doe, as the boy is known, is only five now.

"Maybe he'll call himself J. Thomas," said his father.

Brazil Plans Grain Crop

TUCUMAN, Argentina —(AP—Brazilian cattlemen are turning to wheat growing to fill their country's need for bread. A California scientist, Dr. R. Merton Love, of the University of California, is helping the program. He is on loan to the experiment station at Porto Alegre.

Dr. Love, here for the South American Botanical Congress, explained that meat is cheap all through the state of Rio Grande do Sul, where Porto Alegre is located. Wheat, on the other hand, is expensive because Brazil has to import part of her needs. The government has a guaranteed price for Brazilian-grown wheat which makes it a profitable crop. Dr. Love said at least five of the large cattle growers have planted a few hundred acres of wheat experimentally this year.

Wheat in this area is harvested in October, which is the equivalent of April in the nothern hemisphere.

Give Backing To American Way of Life

Advantages Told By Defenders

NEW YORK, —(AP)— Defenders of "The American economic system" are raising their voices in a swelling chorus to shout down their enemies.

In newspaper advertisements, radio programs, magazines, speeches, movies, pamphlets, books and dozens of different ways, big business and associations of labor and industry are telling the people their side of the economic story.

These are individually selling the American way of life, their campaign being widespread but unorganized.

The General Electric company's campaign is regarded as the most ambitious of any attempted by a single company. But that of the American Association of Advertising Agencies and the Association of National Advertisers gets top honors for size and scope as a unified effort.

Effectiveness of General Electric's plan won first prize in its class in a competition sponsored by Printers' Ink magazine and the American Heritage Foundation.

As part of the advertising men's campaign, 127 magazines with circulation of some 73,000,000 ran this month without charge an advertisement "to explain the American economic system." Ten more such ads are to follow.

OBJECTIVES LISTED

General Electric sets forth these objectives of its campaign which started Oct. 15, 1947:

1. To help our employes understand the fundamentals of the free enterprise system and its operation and benefits, as a means of inspiring an open-minded attitude toward conditions affecting their political, social and economic welfare.

2. To create a better relationship between our employes and the company through job improvement, thereby providing convincing evidence of the practical working of the free enterprise system.

3. To encourage employes to fulfill their obligations to their employer and their city, state and nation.

That message is being driven home to 200,000 General Electric employes in 125 plants and to 6,500,000 of their neighbors in 90 plant-cities in 22 states. It is a one-company job. Scores of smaller companies have adopted as their own some part of the G. E. message. G. E. would like to see more big companies put their shoulder to the wheel.

The advertising men's campaign, directed by Ken Wells, began after two years' planning. First they displayed a motion picture and a seven volume "plan for action," seen so far 70,000 persons "with leadership responsibility." This has inspired more than 270 companies to start drives of their own.

Wells gives this capsule description:

"The program is based on principles, not partisanship. It is based on the American way of life, a belief in God, and a government to serve the people."

These things are stressed—the right to own private property, a free market, the profit and wage incentive, competition and government regulation but not government control.

808 DP'S ARRIVE

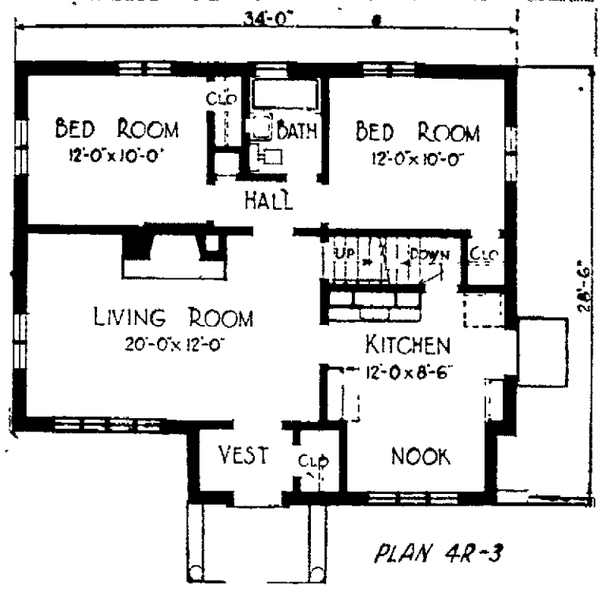
HOMES FOR AMERICANS



FOR GROWING FAMILY—A stone house that is practical for a small growing family, this plan 4R-3 by Elmer Gylleck, architect, 126½ South Grove avenue, Elgin, Ill., provides ample attic space under its high roof to accommodate two extra bedrooms. With a complete basement the house contains 21,000 cubic feet. The kitchen, 12x8½, without the dining nook, affords space for a good sized group. The architect suggests stone veneer with a roof of wood or asphalt shingles.

Baby Doctors Furnish Poor Students With Swell Alibi

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—(AP)— Allergy to eggs or other foods sometimes explains junior's poor school marks, pediatricians were told yesterday.

This and some other strange effects of food allergies in children were described during a round table discussion at the annual meeting of the American Academy of Pediatrics.

The allergies can cause behavior problems, like obstinacy or poor school performance, said Dr. Susan Dees of Durham, N. C. Finding the guilty food, and taking the child off it, often cures the trouble, she said.

Some children get asthma or hives simply from smelling foods they are sensitive to, Dr. Arthur Hoersch of Cleveland reported. One child gets asthma simply by being in the kitchen when his mother scrambles eggs, he said, another four year old gets asthma from smelling potatoes.

This smell reaction shows how exquisitely sensitive an allergic reaction can be. The allergy is started simply by the tiny amount of molecules of egg or potato which emanate from the food and can be detected as an odor.

Ask Plants Aid In Water Fight

CINCINNATI —(AP)— Industries in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Kentucky were asked yesterday to "do what you can" to help improve the odorous and bad-tasting condition of water in the Ohio river. Hudson Biety, chairman of the Ohio River Valley Water Sanitation commission, said he had mailed letters to steel mills, chemical plants, coke ovens and other industries which might be contributing to the condition. Similar appeals will be sent Monday to industries in Ohio and Indiana.

Medical Specialists Reduce Sterility

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE, AP Science Reporter

BOSTON—Childless couples who want children have twice as good a chance of having them today as 20 years ago.

Sterility now can be overcome in about 40 per cent of such marriages, a group of medical specialists here reports. Only 20 per cent could be treated successfully in 1927.

In that year, four faculty members of the Boston University School of Medicine formed the first organized group for a systematic study of human sterility. They were a gynecologist, a urologist, a specialist on endocrine glands and an internist.

This group has studied some 500 childless couples, with each specialist making complete examinations and tests of both husband and wife in each case.

One main finding is that infertility usually is due to more than one single trouble. There are 40 to 50 different conditions that can lower fertility, and generally four to five were found in each couple.

"In over 80 per cent of cases, these conditions depressing fertility were divided between husband and wife," a report of the group's work said. "In other words, the common situation is not that of a sterile wife and a fertile husband, or of a fertile wife and sterile husband, but of two infertile partners who together make a sterile mating.

"In many of such cases, either one could have children by another, more fertile mate. They are both low in fertility. In many marriages that do produce children, the man or woman may have low fertility. If she or he had married someone else, that marriage might have been childless."

MANY CAUSES

The 40 to 50 conditions that lower fertility range from disorders of the reproductive organs to glandular defects and the effects of numerous diseases. Diseased tonsils even may be a factor. The study finds that "constitutional states of many sorts, particularly those envolving the emdrocrine glands, are as important in causing infertility as are disorders of the reproductive organs."

It is estimated that one marriage in every eight or nine among modern civilized people is involuntarily childless. In the United States, that means there are more than 3,000,000 couples who would like to have a baby, but who cannot without medical help.

The Boston group pioneered a new approach to study of infertility. The same general methods now are followed in other medical centers here and abroad. The complete series of tests may take several weeks, but sometimes can be compressed within five days for couples who have come long distances.

Two of the original four members of the group still are active. Their work includes research on special phases of the problem of fertility and they have published more than 30 research reports.

New Type Parachute Uses Rotor Principle

SCHENECTADY — (AP) — A new kind of parachute slows down falling objects from supersonic speeds to only 27 miles per hour. Known as a rotochute, it was developed by General Electric company. Engineers to bring down safely research instruments carried aloft by rockets.

This chute looks like a giant dart with a whirling propellor on its tip. It can carry a load of 20 to 30 pounds of instruments. Expelled from the rocket at the peak of its flight, it begins to fall at terrific speed. As the air becomes denser, the blades begin to revolve, then are forced out into a horizontal position, acting as a brake. Ordinary parachutes are torn to shreds when they enter dense air during their fall. I. B. Benson invented the rotochute.

Girl's Comb Generates High Electric Voltage

PITTSFIELD, MASS. — The electricity generated when a girl combs her hair has a potential of 8,000 to 10,000 volts. As a stunt, a general electric photographer utilized it to set off flash bulbs, and the girl thus took a picture of herself combing her hair.

Each stroke of the comb supplied the 8,000 volts needed to flash to lamps. The metallic collector rod was attached to the comb, and in turn was connected to the trigger electrodes of the photo-flash lamps.

New Wrapping Paper Guards Against Rust

NEW YORK — (AP) — A new chemically - treated wrapping paper prevents metal objects, like gun parts, from rusting, the journal Chemical and Engineering News reports. The chemical is applied in the form of a paste. It vaporizes slowly, like a mothball, and gives off a rust-repellent gas.

The manufacturer says iron or aluminum alloys can be protected for years if packed in a confined space.

Cause of Hunger's Scientific Mystery

PITTSBURGH — (AP) —Hunger drives you to eat, but exactly what causes hunger is probably unknown, says Dr. Edward M. Scott, an assistant research professor at the University of Pittsburgh.

"It has been proposed," he said, that hunger "results from emptiness of the stomach or as a result of the low level of blood sugar, but neither of these explanations is entirely satisfactory. We known only that the hunger state is relieved when a food or combination of foods which gives adequate satisfaction is given."

Hunger seems not to lead directly to eating, but rather to a desire to suppress its distressing symtoms, he told an American Chemical society meeting.

British Get Production Skill Free

Working Parties Study In U. S.

LONDON — (AP) — Britain's most important import from America in 1949 won't cost her a dollar.

It will be the secret of United States high-geared production.

To get it, probably a thousand Britons, from the overalled mechanic in the shop to the morning coated executive in the front office, will journey to the States in small working parties.

They will meet their opposite numbers in American plants and seek to absorb through personal experience and observation knowledge and ideas techniques of manufacturing on this side of the Atlantic.

Arrangements are being made by the Anglo-American council on productivity, formed at the request of Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Stafford Cripps.

First, the council made a series of quick inspections of plants giving a cross-section of British industry—best to worst. It concluded Britain's best is equal to America's best, but that on the other end of the scale, standards are very poor, so that, overall, British production compares unfavorably.

Sending British envoys to America to learn its "secret" is just one of several steps recommended. Almost as much stress is laid on the need for Britons to exchange information among themselves. Some low-production plants need only to look next door to learn how to improve.

It was agreed the two principal causes of low production here are run-down plants, due largely to the war and to postwar shortages, and the psychological attitude of both labor and management.

Not only is the actual manufacturing plant in bad shape but there is such a power shortage as to cause doubt whether completely retooled plants could be supplied.

The council discovered twice as much power is available per employe in the United States as in Britain. So, even if the British put forth twice as much muscular effort as Americans they cannot get as much done.

On the psychological side, the council decided both labor and management are at fault.

Management here has gone too strong for cartels and monopolies. These have built up price fixing and production control arrangements. The Americans stress—but have not yet won British acceptance of—their view that "vigorous competition exerts an important and beneficial effect upon national productivity."

Labor's restrictive practices largely are born of a fear of unemployment. Most British workmen feel that if they agree to increase production to any material extent, it will mean fewer jobs for themselves and therefore a general lowering of working class income.

The council, like the British government itself, is trying to sell the idea that increased productivity leads to a rising standard of living.

Truant Officer Kept Busy In Old Days

OLD TIMER—Louis Wolf at 93 recalls the 24 years he spent as truant officer in Mansfield's public school system.—(N-J photo)

Louis Wolf, who at 93 has the distinction of being the oldest Mansfielder to appear in this column, looks back today on the "hardest job" of his life—those 24 years of keeping the city's school children in the classroom.

With a bit of kindly amusement he recalls how he spent most every evening with "foreigners"—persuading them to keep their children in school—or chasing through back doors after underage working girls.

Being a native of Bavaria, himself, and at home with the German language, Wolf was a wise choice for truant officer in Mansfield during the early part of the century. He was appointed in 1900.

"Immigration was pretty heavy at the time," he recalls. "Most of them were Hungarian of German who didn't send their children to school because, they said, 'back in the homeland children could drop school after they became 14.'

"I had a hard time convincing them that children would have to stay in school until they were 16 and get an education—that things were different in America."

Wolf blamed the disinterest in education on the parents. "They were all poor. They had big families and they wanted the children to work as soon as they could so that the family could get the 'big wages' paid in America."

GIRLS CAUSED TROUBLE

Wolf found that the girls gave him the most trouble. Very few opportunities for female employment were offered in those days, and the one "big opening" was the American Cigar company where only women were hired to make cigars. Since child-labor laws were unheard of at that time, 14 and 15-year-old girls were employed by the company—much to the consternation of Wolf.

"I found out that the underage girls were being rushed to the basement as soon as I appeared on the scene, so I had to sneak around the back way to catch them and take them back to school," he smiled.

In addition to "educating the foreigners to education", Wolf found himself a one-man relief agency for the poor. If children needed shoes or other clothing so that they could stay in school, Wolf saw to it that they had what they needed.

Probably no truant officer ever better understood the problems of the foreign child plunged amidst the English-speaking "natives." Wolf was 16 when he came to this country. His father had established his citizenship, but young Louis was one of the "foreigners."

"My father wanted me to go to school so I could learn English and clerk in a store. People who could speak both English and German were in demand because of the big German population.

GAVE UP SCHOOL

"I went to school," his blue eyes twinkled, "about two weeks. Nobody there could talk to me. All I could do was work figures on the blackboard."

So, Wolf followed the tailor trade which he had learned in the old country.

He was pretty "homesick," he recalls, after a few weeks of the United States. But a certain pretty young lady named Katherine Arting changed his mind. Miss Arting and Wolf were wedded "the night before Thanksgiving" in 1877. To them were born four sons, two of whom, Harry Wolf of the Wolf Insurance agency of Mansfield, and Carl W. Wolf of the Wolf Machinery company of Cleveland, are still living.

Two years ago Wolf resigned as treasurer of the Mohican encampment of Odd Fellows after serving in the post for 40 years. He still retains his life membership in the organization, with which he has been associated for the past 69 years.

Outside of his garden and his daily papers, Wolf puts baseball just about at the top of his hobby list. Last season he saw the Cleveland Indians' opening game and returned for another squint at his "favorite" players who he says, are pitchers Bob Lemon and Gene Beardon.

Wolf resides at 382 South Main street.

French Train Expected to Visit City

The "Thank You Train," a gesture of gratitude from the French people for the Friendship train, may travel through Mansfield.

In a letter from Columnist Drew Pearson, sponsor of the Friendship train, Mayor Roy W. Vaughn has been informed that the "Thank You Train" is scheduled to leave France Dec. 2, arriving in New York on Dec. 14 or 15, providing that the dock strike is settled.

Pearson said the train would consist of 49 box cars, one for each of the 48 states and one for Hawaii, and a car would be sent to each state capital.

He said the French train would follow, as nearly as possible, the route followed by the Friendship train which stopped in Mansfield one year ago this month.

Each boxcar will contain vases of Sevres porcelain, a gift of the French president, Vincent Auriol; collections of French medals; an original flag flown at the battle of Verdun and inscribed "on ne passe pas" — they shall not pass — 49 school bells contributed by the city of Caen, and 49 trees.

Child Beaten to Death; Neighbor Woman Held

DERBY, Conn. — (AP) — A two-and-a-half year old girl, Kathleen Romano, was beaten to death in the basement of a neighbor's home here yesterday and police, summoned by other neighbors, took into custody Mrs. Michael Sadlon.

Little Kathleen, her skull crushed, was found by her frantic parents in the basement of the Sadlon home and died shortly afterward in Griffin hospital.

The first inkling Kathleen's parents had that anything was amiss was, they later told police, when Mrs. Sadlon's son, Michael Jr., came running to the adjoining Romano home crying:

"Mommy is doing something to Kathy."

John Fogerty, a neighbor from across the street, heard her and entered the Sadlon home with the Romanos.

He told police and newsmen he found Mrs. Sadlon in the basement beside the unconscious child and she told him over and over:

"They hurt my kids around here and no one does anything about it".

Mrs. Sadlon, 30-year-old wife of a factory lunch vendor and mother of two children, recently lost a child and had since been under physician's care.

WHEN the President proclaims to us, as he does every year, that Thanksgiving is at hand and that it behooves us to observe it, we seldom take time to think of the real significance of the day.

Of the religious festivals of the year Thanksgiving day is the only one that is for all the people.

Each religion has its own day, but there is one Thanksgiving for all, when all of whatever faith, can in their own way give thanks.

How well we recall our Thanksgiving days of the past and the preparation which went with it.

Father at one end of the table, mother at the other, and the children in between, wondering if father would ever get done carving the turkey.

That proud strutting hero of the barnyard, upside down, his plumes gone and minus his gobble! Stuffed with that which he can never digest. What a day!

It is an occasion when the typical American family sits down together to enjoy a feast, well prepared. To us, individually, Thanksgiving signifies a reunion of kinsfolk and a day of good cheer.

Shown above is a typical Mansfield family, Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Wittmer, Marion avenue road, and twin daughters, Susan and Nancy, 4 years old, who are coming home with that regal old bird for the festive day.

The first Thanksgiving was a long, long time ago, but the theme is one which even a flippant writer would be compelled to approach with a feeling of reverence.

The exact date of this first Thanksgiving, which is considered to be an evolution from harvest festivals in England, is not certain.

From a history sketch it is known that a George Morton wrote in 1621 that the Pilgrim settlement had made plans for a day of rejoicing together after they had gathered the fruits of their labors.

"And, although it is not always so plentiful as it was at this time with us," Morton said, "yet by the goodness of God, we are so far from want, that we wish you partakers of our plenty."

In "A Thanksgiving Crescendo"—Carlyle had sometime said that a man should put himself at zero, and then reckon every degree ascending from that point as an occasion for thanks.

Vivian Bader Becomes Bride On Saturday

A DRESS of slipper satin with a brocaded nylon yoke and tight fitting bodice was chosen for the wedding of Miss Vivian Marie Bader to James Franklin Rabold. The long tight sleeves came to points over the hands. The skirt was finished with a peplum which cascaded into a long train in the back. A finger tip nylon veil was held in place by a pearl beaded Dutch style crown. The bride wore a double strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom.

Miss Bader and Mr. Rabold exchanged nuptial vows before the altar of the First Christian church Saturday at 7:30 p. m. The Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger officiated for the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with beauty baskets of assorted mums and pompons and a background of palms. Two seven branch candelabra were placed at the altar.

Miss Bader is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Bader, 47 Florence avenue, and Mr. Rabold is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vern L. Scott, 23 Boulevard, Shelby, Ohio.

The bride walked down the candlelit aisle at the side of her father. Twin candelabra were placed at the end of every other pew with white satin ribbons tied in a bow.

A shower bouquet of white pompons and white roses with a corsage of white roses in the center was carried by the bride.

Mrs. Dale D. Hammett, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore a fall green iridescent colonial style gown with short sleeves and matching gauntlets. Two panels of brown iridescent fell from a large bow. Mrs. Thomas E. Schwartzkopf, Mrs. Dana F. Cavin and Mrs. Russell McManis, all friends of the bride, were the attendants. Mrs. Schwartzkopf was attired in brown iridescent. The neckline had two gathers on each side and folds across the front, back and shoulders. It was made with a colonial skirt. The other two bridesmaids wore peach iridescent gowns made like Mrs. Schwartzkopf's gown. Vernagene Scott, sister of the bridegroom, was the flower girl. She wore a white colonial dress made like the other attendants.

The matron of honor carried a bouquet of bronze pompons tied with a matching ribbon. The bridesmaids carried similar arrangements of orchid and yellow pompons to harmonize with the colors of their gowns. The flower girl carried a small basket of assorted baby mums.

Mrs. Bader chose a blue crepe dress with black accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Scott wore a brown moire dress with brown accessories. Both mothers had Talisman rosebud corsages.

MRS. JAMES F. RABOLD

William C. Rabold, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man.

Dana Cavin, Thomas Schwartzkopf and Dale D. Hammet, all friends of the couple, escorted the guests to their pews.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception for 75 was held in the Leland hotel clubrooms. A four tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, centered the table. A candelabra was placed at each end of the table. The bridesmaids and matron of honor placed their bouquets of pompons on the table for decorations. Mrs. Lester Martin, aunt of the bride, presided at the table.

For a honeymoon through the southern states the new Mrs. Rabold wore a grey dress with black accessories and a wine top-per with a muskrat yoke. She had a corsage of white roses.

After Dec. 1 the couple will be at home at 24½ Boulevard, Shelby.

Drum Majorettes Don't Just Happen

It Takes Weeks, Kids, To Learn To Twirl Baton

By ANN SCHOENMAN

THOSE high-stepping girls who lead the band, twirl the baton and do cartwheels before the cheering section at the football games don't just happen.

They go to special schools to learn the tricks of a Grade A drum majorette!

Two well known dance instructors in Mansfield have started classes for some of the city's aspiring young citizens who wish to learn the art of baton twirling and high-stepping.

The Ethyl Battin Dance Academy has designed a twelve week program, at the end of which the members will be able to qualify as a majorette.

A few of the baton twirls the girls will learn during this period of time read like something taken from a story book. The figure eight, flying dutchman, one hand throw, airplane leg pass and side to side finger twirl.

The maneuvers Miss Shirley Lay, instructor, has slated for the girls are one hand swing, swing pass, high vertical, low vertical and vertical tilt.

Miss Lay is the head majorette for the Senior high Tyger marching band. There are sixteen girls who lead the band across the field during the half time show.

Ethyl Battin is in charge of the girls and the routines they have worked up for the fans who follow the team in their games.

The other dance school which has a class for future baton twirlers is Marty Hogan Studios.

Miss Nancy Eversole has come from Columbus to teach these girls the tricks of the trade. Miss Eversole, who has studied under Richard Smith, one time state baton twirling champion, and the John Murphy studios in Columbus, feels that the art takes more than meets the eye.

It's easy for a girl to learn to twirl the baton, but she also has to learn to march, walk, do maneuvers and other difficult things while keeping that baton going.

"It takes so much longer now to become a majorette," Miss Eversole said, adding, "It should be studied at least two years before a girl can really qualify as a drum majorette. There's more to this now than one thinks."

Miss Eversole led the South high school band in Columbus all during her years as a drum majorette.

The classes given by the Hogan studio are for a half an hour each. These courses are to be studied all winter.

Ethyl Battin has an hour class scheduled for twelve weeks out of the winter months for her students.

Pictured left to right are Jean Anne Esbenshade, 12 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Esbenshade, 908 Benedict avenue; Carol Brinkman, 11 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Brinkman, 648 Highland avenue; Barbara Odson, 12 years old, daughter of Mrs. Clarence Ritzhold, 113 West Second street, and Miss Shirley Lay, instructor for the Ethyl Battin Dance Academy baton classes. The girls are being shown the way to cross the baton under their leg.

Four girls from the Senior high majorettes practice a baton maneuver in the Battin studio. They are left to right, Miss Shirley Lay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Lay, 478 Park avenue west; Miss Joan Hallabrin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Hallabrin, 354 West Sixth street; Carolee Hunter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Hunter, 500 Daisy street, and Miss Betty Bauman, daughter of Mrs. Gladys Bauman, 260 South Main street.

Miss Nancy Eversole, instructor at the Marty Hogan studio, is pictured with three of the students during a practice period. Miss Carol Jean Williams, 13 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Preston Williams, R. D. 5, Cook road; Sally Smith, 17 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Smith, 38 Fourth street, Shelby, and Yvonne Beck, 14 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Beck, Loudonville, Ohio.

Joan Ford, 12 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Ford, Route 42, Virginia Anderko, 9 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Anderko, 540 Burns street, and Jean Bargahiser, 7 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. A. Bargahiser, 137 South Franklin avenue, are shown performing a difficult back bend while twirling their batons.

Culinary Art a Specialty

Susie Janis Suggests Thanksgiving Menu

By MARIAN WEST

"Thanksgiving morning is a time of glee,
When the kitchen is busy as busy can be.
The pudding is baking—the turkey is making,
Thanksgiving morning is the time for me."

AS A CHILD I can remember mother and me singing lyrics to that effect, as she busily worked in the kitchen preparing the mid-day feast. I would attempt to assist her in my own bungling manner, but she would never complain or admonish me—just eye my movements warily, and insure her presence at all major undertakings.

Yours truly wasn't much for kitchen chores, but somehow Thanksgiving was different. The savory aromas of mother's early preparations would awaken me, and I would dash in—eager, if not able.

Talking to Miss Susan Janis, 193 Carpenter road, awakened these memories of excellent food and pleasure in cooking. Here in Mansfield, her name is synonymous with gastronomical delights—or just plain good eating.

Approximately 25 years ago Miss Janis was the proprietress of the Susie Janis cafeteria, 58 West Fourth street, opposite the post-office. Four years later she opened the Susie Janis Tea Room, on Park avenue west. Here she served mainly social gatherings including weddings, a variety of parties and meetings. At present, she and Trent Barney have leased the dining room of the Greenlawn, near Crestline.

"In order to be a good cook," Miss Janis said, "you must love to eat." And after biting into the flaky crust and succulent filling of her apple pie, I'm convinced that she is an epicure of the highest degree.

Several years ago Miss Janis entered an apple pie contest in Buffalo, N. Y., and won first prize. She showed this interest in cooking in the early years of her childhood, when she begged her mother for pieces of dough to play with and roll. At the age of six, under the guidance of her mother, Miss Janis attempted her first culinary dish—French potato soup. "And I can still make that soup better than any other," she said.

For Thanksgiving dinner Miss Janis suggested the following menu:

APPETIZER

Shrimp cocktail, fruit cup or mushroom and corn bisque (which is a real holiday soup).

ENTRE

Roast turkey with chestnut stuffing and cranberry mold, mashed potatoes with giblet gravy or sweet potato croquets with orange sauce, (the croquets are shaped like little chickens with almonds for a beak, cloves for eyes and potato chips for wings).

DESSERT

Pumpkin or mince pie.

According to Miss Janis the preparation of food should be thought of as a creative art and not merely a necessity for existence. She enjoys making attractive and different dishes. She always uses butter and disdains deep grease frying.

MEET TUESDAY

Ruth chapter circle, O. E. S., will meet Tuesday at 1 p. m. for a dessert luncheon and card party at the Masonic temple. Mrs. Charles Finfgeld and her committee will be in charge.

Kathryn Knackstedt Becomes Bride of Ted H. Coleman

THE Rev. Samuel J. Feard officiated for the single ring ceremony of Miss Kathryn Bernice Knackstedt and Ted Herbert Coleman Saturday at 7:30 p. m. in the Grace Episcopal church. The vows were spoken before an altar decorated with two vases of white snapdragons, palms and two seven branch candelabra.

Miss Knackstedt is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Knackstedt, 144 Willow street, and Mr Coleman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Coleman, 506 Daisy street.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of white satin with a sweetheart neckline and long tight sleeves which came to points over the hands. A long train fell from the full skirt. The finger tip veil was held in place with a Juliet cap.

Miss Knackstedt carried a white orchid tied with white streamers on a white Bible.

Miss Dolores Knackstedt, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. She wore a lime green brocaded satin gown with a net skirt. Miss Carolee Hunter, cousin of the bridegroom, was attired in a powder blue taffeta dress with a net skirt. Mrs. Dick Coleman, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, wore a pink satin gown with a net skirt. The attendants carried small bouquets of white, yellow and lavendar mums tied with ribbons to match their dresses.

The bride's mother wore a blue dress with a corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Coleman chose a black dress, trimmed in aqua and yellow for her son's wedding.

Dick F. Coleman, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Kenneth Knackstedt, Glennon Knackstedt, both brothers of the bride, and Earl E. Turner, friend of the bridegroom, escorted the guests to their pews.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony at John Todd park. One hundred guests were served from a table centered with a tiered wedding cake topped with a miniatur bride and bridegroom. The colors used at the reception were pink and white.

For her honeymoon through Ohio the new Mrs. Coleman wore a dark brown dress with long sleeves, trimmed in brown taffeta.

After November 28 the couple will be at home at 457 Park avenue west.

The bride attended Mansfield Senior high school and graduated from the school of cosmotology. Mr. Coleman attended Mansfield Senior high school and served three years in the U. S. Marine corps.

Guests from out-of-town were from St. Louis, Missouri, Indiana and Toledo, Ohio.

LEGION HOME IS SCENE OF WEDDING RECEPTION

Miss Ann Kathryn Brewer Wed to Crestline Man Yesterday at Impressive Double Ring Ceremony.

GALION—More than 100 guests were present for the reception at the American Legion home which followed the quiet wedding ceremony of Miss Ann Kathryn Brewer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Brewer of Galion, and Robert H. Glauer, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Glauer of Crestline.

The impressive double ring service was read in the parsonage of St. Joseph's Catholic church by the Rev. Father F. X. Hermiller, at 2:30 p. m., Saturday, Nov. 20.

Turquoise taffeta fashioned the ballerina length gown of the bride. It had a full skirt, long sleeves, and the new large collar with a low neckline. She wore rhinestone earrings and necklace, and a pink feather hat. A corsage in harmonizing color completed her outfit.

Mrs. Joseph Henry of Galion was the bride's only attendant, wearing a rose taffeta dress, ballerina length, with full skirt and tight bodice. Her hat matched, and she had a rhinestone necklace.

Joseph Henry, cousin of the bride, was best man.

At the American Legion home, where the guests were received, the bride's mother was in the receiving line and was attired in royal blue. She had black accessories. Mrs. Glauer, mother of the bridegroom, wore navy blue with black accessories. Both mothers had corsages of white flowers.

The buffet lunch was in charge of Mrs. Fred Essex, who was assisted by Mrs. Glen Quay. Friends of the bride who assisted in serving were Mrs. William Muntean of Wilmington, Ohio; Jeanette Caldwell, of Marion; Mrs. Maynard Knapp, of Galion; Mrs. Donald Lash, Mrs. Donald BeVier, both of Tiro.

When the couple left on a wedding trip through the southern states, the new Mrs. Glauer was smartly clad in a two-piece green faille dress and brown accessories.

When the couple return, they will live at 110½ South Market street, Galion.

The former Miss Brewer was graduated from Galion high school, and Mansfield Business school. She has been employed as secretary at the North Electric Manufacturing company.

Industrial Output Breaks All Records

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The nation's economic machine got record-smashing results in the third quarter of this year.

It produced goods and services at an unprecedented annual rate of $256,000,000,000, the commerce department estimated last night. The turnout for that quarter, covering the July-August-September period, was $6,000,000,000 above the rate of the preceding quarter, and $11,000,000,000 above the rate in 1948's first three months.

Spending, of course, kept pace as an over-all matter. But officials found significance in the fact that outlays for personal consumption rose less than did personal income.

"Personal spending is more dependent on income now," one told a reporter. "In the early part of the postwar boom, people increased spending even if they didn't get an increase in income. Now it looks like they wouldn't spend as much if they didn't get more."

Personal income, after deducting tax payments amounting to more than $20,000,000,000 on an annual basis, moved to a record high rate of $193,700,000,000 a year in the third quarter, up $5,500,000,000 from the second quarter.

Yet personal consumption expenditures, although reaching a record rate of $178,500,000,000 a year, advanced only $2,000,000,000 over the second quarter pace.

The difference was reflected in personal saving. That rose $3,500,000,000 on an annual basis to a $15,200,000,000 yearly rate.

Government spending on goods and services, on the other hand, took a $4,200,000,000 jump to an annual rate of $37,700,000,000 during the July-September period.

State and local government payroll rises and increases construction outlays contributed to the gain in government spending, but the federal government was chiefly responsible.

Its payroll and construction expenditures also increased, but even more important were the jumps in spending for foreign aid and in outlays to help hold up prices of farm products.

As government grants took on a bigger role in the financing of exports, net foreign investment—the net export of goods and services that are financed commercially, plunged to an annual rate of $700,000, less than one-fourth the rate in the previous quarter.

Business investment continued at the high rate characteristic of recent quarters, moving up to an annual rate of $39,000,000,000 on the strength of new construction, accumulation of business inventories, and outlays on production equipment.

The reason that personal incomes rose only $5,000,000,000 on an annual basis was that "small declines in the net incomes of business and farm proprietors" partly offset a $6,000,000,000 increase in wage and salary payments.

The department said it could not yet figure corporate profits for the third quarter because of incomplete data, and without that figure it cannot estimate national income, which measures incomes resulting from production.

Sheriff Finds Missing Girl Taking Walk

YORKVILLE, Ill. —(AP)— A 17-year-old girl honor student, missing since Nov. 1 from the Greeley State Teachers college, Greeley, Colo., was located here yesterday.

Sheriff William E. Hayden of Kendall county said he found the coed, Lillian De Bell of Arvada, Colo., walking along a highway nine miles southwest of Yorkville at 12:30 a. m.

He said the girl refused to give any details regarding her disappearance, where she had been or her destination.

Hayden said he and his son, Duane, a deputy sheriff, went looking for the girl after several motorists reported passing a young woman walking along Highway 76 in a snowstorm. The motorists reported the girl refused their offers of transportation.

Bishops Ask Reversal of Court Ruling

Favor Religious School Training

WASHINGTON— (AP) —Catholic bishops of the United States called Saturday for a change in the Supreme court ruling that religious sects may not teach their beliefs in public schools.

The decision was based on a "novel interpretation" of the first amendment to the constitution, the bishops said in a sharply critical statement at the close of their annual meeting here.

They referred to a March 7 ruling in the McCollum case.

Champaign, Ill. schools had presented weekly religious education classes under Protestant, Catholic and Jewish leaders.

Mrs. Vashti McCollum, an atheist, protested that her son was "embarrassed" because he was the only one in the class who did not take such instruction. She brought suit against the school to halt such teachings.

The court's decision was in favor of Mrs. McCollum on the grounds that the school violated the constitutional requirements for separation of church and state.

"Reluctant as we are to criticize our supreme judicial tribunal," the bishops said Saturday, "we cannot but observe that when the members of that tribunal write long and varying opinions in handing down a decision, they must expect that intelligent citizens of a democracy will study and appraise these opinions. . . .

"Lawyers trained in the American tradition of law will be amazed that in the McCollum case the majority opinions pay scant attention to logic, history or accepted norms of interpretation....

"We, therefore, hope and pray that the novel interpretation of the first amendment recently adopted by the Supreme court will in due process be revised. To that end we shall peacefully, patiently and perseveringly work.....

"We stand ready to cooperate in fairness and charity with all who believe in God and are devoted to freedom under God to avert the impending danger of a judicial 'establishment of secularism' that would ban God from public life.

"For secularism is threatening the religious foundations of our national life and preparing the way for the advent of the omnipotent state."

The statement said if a "wall of separation" be erected between church and state "it would be an utter distortion of American history and law."

The bishops urged that "Christian principles should be put into action in economic life" with better organized cooperation between labor, management and government."

"Cooperation must be organized —organized for the common good.

.....

The statement was signed in the name of the Catholic bishops by the administrative board of the National Catholic Welfare conference.

They Like Their New 'Home'

Firemen Take Pride In New Fire Station

There's no place like home—but Mansfield's new Fire Station No. 5 on Marion avenue, near Woodland road, runs it a close second, think the fire crews that man it.

The station, from the outside, has the appearance of a large, attractive brick residence. The inside is tidy and well arranged. In addition to the garage where the fire engine stands in readiness behind automatic doors, there are a recreation room, kitchen, dormitory, hose tower and basement.

"We like it here," declared John Fleming. His companion, Wilson (Mac) McLean nodded in acquiescence. Both were formerly at Station No. 1, where action tends to be fast and furious.

They are not idle at No. 5—there have already been nearly 10 calls—but the gait is a bit more leisurely, and the accommodations are definitely superior.

No. 5 protects an area from Park avenue west, Wood, Glessner, Sturges to Greenwood, and South Main to the west city boundary and into a portion of Madison township. This includes all of Woodland and South Boulevards.

The station represents a goal for the city, the goal being the fire department's hope that eventually all others will be on par with No. 5.

FITS SURROUNDINGS

The building which houses No. 5 is a new structure which fits in nicely with the surroundings. There is a one-truck garage in the building. Automatic doors which open upward when a button is pushed make a quisk exit by the firemen easy and convenient.

At the front is a recreation room fitted with easy chairs and reading material. Adjoining is a fully-equipped kitchen. The garage can be entered from the recreation room, or from a hallway leading by the kitchen.

The hose tower leads upward through the building from the garage. A hoist lifts the 50-foot lengths of hose to the positions where they remain until dried.

Upstairs is the dormitory, equipped with neat single beds. A pole leading to the fire truck is the new type which goes through an opening that remains closed until weight is put on the pole. Pressure of 10 pounds on the pole causes the entrance to open in orange peel fashion.

At present, there is something wrong with the device, and it requires considerable more than 10 pounds to open the hole.

"I got caught in the blamed thing the other day," confessed Fleming "My suspenders caught, and I had to hang on the pole until Mac got me loose."

They are awaiting a representative of the maker to make necessary adjustments on the device.

Members of the two crews at No. 5 ade: Virgil Norris, captain, 396 Wood street; Fleming, 696 Millsboro road; McLean, 250 Sheridan avenue, and Leo Jones, captain, 204 Atcheson avenue; Leonard Boebel, 156 Glessner avenue, and Don Rose, 376 South Linden road. All except Boebel, who was formerly at Station No. 2, came from No. 1.

Ohio Voting Leaves Question

Errors Nullified Over 100,000 Ballots

By H. H. DAUGHERTY

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Did 100,000 voters lose their presidential vote through ignorance of the correct way to mark their ballots, or did they deliberately throw their presidential vote away?

This question never can be answered correctly without confession of the voters, but there is a growing feeling among some close election observers that many of the invalid ballots were deliberately marked by the voter in a manner that would nullify their vote.

Such a deliberate action might act as a face-saver for the voter who did not like either President Truman or Governor Dewey.

They could tell their friends they voted for President Truman or Governor Dewey without telling a falshood. The fact they voted for one or more of the Progressive party's independent elector candidates need not be confessed.

The theory many presidential ballots were deliberately invalidated by voters is strengthened by the fact so few state ballots were lost by voters through scratching.

"Ohio voters know how to scratch their ballots and very few are invalidated in the process," one state official commented.

All of the invalidated presidential ballots resulted from the voter placing a cross in the circle below the Democratic rooster or the Republican eagle, and then going over to the list of Wallace elector candidates and voting for one or more of them.

Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel directed election officials to hold such marked ballots invalid. Attorney Gen. Hugh S. Jenkins ruled such ballot-marking should be counted only for the Wallace electors.

Though election boards are not required to list the number of invalid ballots with their official returns to the secretary of state, Assistant Secretary Leland S. Dougan said he will ask all boards to send in reports of the number of invalid ballots.

Estimates and actual count by the election boards of the eight largest counties, and Trumbull, one of the smaller counties, of the number of invalid presidential ballots cast in their counties totaled more than 76,000. Figures from the 79 other counties were expected to boost the total to around 100,000.

"Service to the Community" during 1949 was selected as the slogan for Girl Scouts when members of the council held their regular business meeting. Mrs. Joy Herbert, commissioner, presided.

It was announced that wing scouting would be started for senior scouts with Miss Virginia Casperson and Miss Rebecca Frampton as leaders. This scouting project will be carried out in cooperation with the Civil Air Patrol.

It also was decided council members would start visiting the various troops of the city after the first of the year Mrs. Clarence Hien was appointed as chairman in charge of the annual cookie sale, which opens in December.

A total of 64 clothing kits were sent to Europe in the recent clothing drive by Girl Scouts, it was reported.

Dill, in January, will leave the county board to begin his term as one of three Richland county commissioners. He won election on Nov. 2 to his first term as commissioner.

County Supt. of schools, Boyd Robinson, said the board expects to take up the matter of appointing someone to serve with them in place of Dill, at the next meeting, Dec. 18.

State Asks Road Bids

Bids on the new section of State Route 95 between Newville and Perrysville will be opened Dec. 7, the State Highway department announced yesterday.

The new 20-foot macadam-surface section will be constructed about one-half mile north of the present temporary road.

The road will extend for 3.162 miles in Monroe township, Richland county, and Green township, Ashland county.

The present temporary Route 95 between Perrysville and Newville has been in use for 11 years. It replaced the old Route 95 in 1937 when water from the Pleasant Hill dam inundated the road.

County Seal Sale Begins On Monday

Funds Combat Tuberculosis

The 1948 Christmas seal sale opens officially tomorrow in Richland county, with the delivery of seals in the morning mail to county residents. Richland's seal sale is held in conjunction with the nationwide appeal for funds to support a battle against tuberculosis being waged throughout the country by the 3,000 associations affiliated with the National Tuberculosis association.

The annual seal sale, which will continue until Christmas, represents the only appeal during the year for funds to carry on the year-round tuberculosis control work of the Richland County Tuberculosis association. Quota for Richland county, the minimum needed to carry out the association's 1948 program, is set at $14,500.

"The nationwide fight against tuberculosis today is just as important as it was in 1907, the year of the first seal sale in the United States," Mrs. H. C. Brokaw, drive chairman said yesterday. "Although tuberculosis has dropped from first to seventh place as the cause of deaths in America since 1907, the disease still kills nearly 50,000 Americans annually. While no age is safe from tuberculosis, the disease today is taking the lives of more Americans between 15 and 44 than any other disease.

"In Richland county alone, 18 have died from tuberculosis during the past year. We consider every one of these deaths unnecessary as well as tragic, because we know that tuberculosis can be prevented. We also know that our tuberculosis control program is as strong and no stronger than the interest, cooperation and support of every county resident."

Mrs. Brokaw explained that of the money raised in this county, 87 per cent remains in the county to fight tuberculosis here and the remainder is forwarded to the Ohio Tuberculosis and Health association. The state sends five per cent to the National Tuberculosis association to finance its work on a national level. Of the total raised in the county's seal sale, therefore, 95 per cent will be used within the state.

Seal sale money finances such services in the county as a case finding program, mass X-rays and a rehabilitation program.

Boy Scouts, under leadership of Floyd Dent will distribute posters carrying the message "Protect Your Home from Tuberculosis."

Girl Scouts are donating their time at the Christmas Seal office, 608 Walpark building, getting letters ready for mailing.

Vets Swell College Rolls

WASHINGTON — (AP) — More than 30 per cent of the enrollment in Ohio universities and colleges still represents veterans attending under the GI bill of rights, but there are 7,068 fewer vets this year than last.

The federal office of education said in a new report that there are 62,491 veterans in Ohio's institutions of higher learning, with a total enrollment of 140,252. There were 69,559 vets last year of a total of 142,279.

The picture for the nation shows 100,000 fewer GI's in school, but a net increase of 72,000 in overall attendance.

Ohio State university, listed as the seventh largest school in the country and the third in the Big 10, now has 23,929 students, of whom 12,146 are veterans.

Only Minnesota, with 27,243 students, and Illinois, with 25,920 outrank OSU in size in the Big 10. The other larger schools, in order, are New York university, University of California, City College of New York and Columbia university. NYU and the University of California both exceed 40,000.

The OSU enrollment is the fifth largest of any state.

Leaders of the Ohio State Grange and the Ohio Farm Bureau federation say that food prices are starting to come down and that government support of farm product prices has a "negligible" effect on the housewife's food budget.

They are Joseph W. Fichter, master of the State Grange, and H. W. Culbreth, organization director of the federation. Fichter is vice chairman and Culbreth a member of the National Planning association agriculture committee which issued a report on the current price situation. Both are from Columbus.

Ohio farmers are going to feed more sheep and lambs through the winter and fewer cattle.

The agriculture department reports that although shipments of sheep and lamb into corn belt states were the smallest in 10 years — down 21 per cent from last year — Ohio showed an increase of nine per cent in the July-October period.

All other corn belt states showed a drop: Wisconsin and Minnesota were down 38 per cent, Michigan down 37 per cent, Illinois, 34, and Iowa, 20.

Shipments of cattle to the corn belt area in the same period were about the same as last year, but Ohio showed a big drop of 20 per cent.

Nebraska and Illinois, on the other hand, showed increases, and decreases in other states did not approach the drop in Ohio.

Guard Attempts To Get Car But Breaks An Ankle

ATLANTA —(AP)— A joking attempt by Georgia Tech coaches to allow Guard Hayes McKinney to score a touchdown and win delivery of a new Buick convertible backfired yesterday when McKinney broke his ankle in the Citadel game. Georgia Tech won, 54-0.

McKinney, a 190-pound switch guard, was sent into the game twice when the Yellow Jackets were within 10 yards of the Citadel goal.

He ran three times and lost seven yards. Later he came in as a halfback and on his first run he was hit by five Citadel players. A stretcher was called to carry McKinney off the field.

At Atlanta Buick dealer, a Tech fan, had promised to deliver the guard a convertible if he scord this season. Earlier in the year McKinney was given another chance to score but failed. He gained 13 yards in two tries.

SMU Gets Bid To Bowl Tilt

DALLAS, Tex. — (AP) — Southern Methodist university beat Baylor with an ace yesterday and won a Cotton Bowl bid on a 13-6 decision before 58,000 fans.

Kyle Rote was the ace in the hole that licked the Bears, scoring once on a 24-yard run to bring the Mustangs even and again on a 19-yard jaunt that wrapped up the $105,000 jackpot that goes with the coveted New Year's Day invitation.

The victory clinched a share of the Southwest conference championship. Even if the Mustangs lose their final game they would finish in a tie with Texas.

About Half-Time Grid Shows, Open Letter, Cage Deal

By Fred Tharp
(News-Journal Sports Editor)

EXCEPT FOR A FEW scattered instances, half-time football band shows have been to us just something to fill in while the grid teams are taking a rest. . . . Besides a newsman always has plenty of work to do during the half and seldom has time to watch the extra-curricular activities on the playing field. . . . But that didn't hold water at the Senior high games in Arlin field this past season. . . . For once, half-time pageantry rivaled the grid games themselves in spectator appeal. . . . Out-of-town newspaper and radio men were also lavish in their praise. . . . Without an exception the press box denizens labeled the Tyger half-time performances as the greatest in the state. . . . The shows were put together with all of the care which goes into a Broadway production. . . . This didn't just happen. . . . It was brought about by the citizens of Mansfield, 8,000 of them, who backed the Tyger booster club's membership drive. . . . The monies donated to the booster group enabled the entertainment specialists of the outfit to plan the fine shows with the cooperation of the Marching Tygers. . . . And not too much of the booster money went into the shows. . . . It had to be pro-rated to the many Mansfield school activities. . . . Tomorrow night, boosters will have a chance to thank the half-time performers and directors in person. . . . For a review of all of the shows will be presented at the weekly Tyger club meeting at the high school. . . . The band, majorettes and several individual performers will join to make the meeting a fine entertainment production.

FROM THE MAIL BAG:

Dear Fred:

I would like to say something regarding the Mansfield - Hamilton game. I think that game should always be remembered by everyone in this vicinity. Why? Because it proved to everyone what complete backing of the team could do.

Hamilton was highly favored to win, and probably would have, but a huge bonfire, snake dance and a great roaring crowd produced the spark that set fire to our team. It gave them the will and determination to win against big odds, Win they did, and how.

I believe that at last the people of Mansfield have learned that it takes more than a good coach and eleven men on the field to win a football game. Let us all remember this next year and all of the years to follow, and really make with the loud cheers for the boys —even when they make a mistake.

Thank you.

John B. Hawbaker.

MANSFIELD MAY be the site of one of the district Class A basketball tournaments. . . . A new district setup for Northwestern Ohio high schools has been approved by the district board and will be presented to the state group for approval this week. . . . The change was necessitated when Cleveland schools decided to participate in state play starting this season. . . . Now only three schools will come from northwestern Ohio. . . . The proposed "deal" would have one-week district meets at Mansfield, Sandusky, Toledo, Findlay, Bowling Green and Defiance. . . . From six to ten schools would be in each tourney. . . . These would be eliminated to two teams and then regionals would be staged at Sandusky, Findlay and Toledo. . . . Winner of each of these meets would combine with the central district champ in the opening of the 16-team state meet at Toledo. . . . Four teams would again appear in the finals in Columbus. . . . Winner and runner-up at each of the original six sites would go to a different regional. . . . The Mansfield winner would go to Sandusky with the second place club going to Findlay. . . . Schools proposed in the Mansfield tourney are: Senior high, Madison, Ashland, Galion, Bucyrus, Crestline and Shelby. . . . Madison is defending champ. . . . At the district board meeting this week, Jimmy Lymper was again selected as manager of the district baseball tournament. . . . He will stage the affair at the Blue Goose and Liberty park diamonds in Mansfield.

Big Minnesota Gridders Rap Badgers, 16-0

By JACK BURKE

MADISON, Wis. — (AP) — Minnesota's massive Gophers crushed Wisconsin, 16-0, yesterday on a wet, slippery field in the Western Conference football finale for both teams before 45,000 fans.

The Gophers, rambling as they pleased, scored twice in the second quarter and added a field goal in the third. They lost two other touchdowns both on long runs, when the plays were recalled by penalties.

The victory left Minnesota a half-game out of the running for the Rose Bowl bid as Northwestern whipped Illinois, 20-7, and wound up the campaign with a 5-1 record. Minnesota lost twice in seven games.

Wisconsin, winding up a dismal year with only one Big Nine victory in six starts, never had a chance. The Badgers spent the first 57 minutes of the game in their own territory — and then got only two yards over the midfield stripe with three minutes to play.

SLICK PASS PLAY

A slick forward-lateral pass counted the first Gopher marker. The play, starting on Wisconsin's 35 yard line following a punt, opened with a short pass from Billy Bye to Harry Grant and closed with a lateral to Stan Thiele who went the last 10 yards.

Four plays later Minnesota was back again, Ken Beirsdorf crashing over tackle for 37 yards and the score. Gordon Soltau, who missed the conversion after the first touchdown, booted successfully for a 13-0 halftime lead.

A third Gopher scoring drive went 56 yards before stalling on the Wisconsin seven, but Soltau cashed three points with a placekick from the 17.

The Minnesota attack which rolled up 425 yards, all but 140 on the ground. Wisconsin showed a net gain of 61 yards on the ground and 27 by passing.

Basketball Group To Discuss Rules

Jimmy Lymper and Joe Atton will lead the discussion and Lymper also will give a report on recommendations made to the district high school board of control A motion picture "West Point Highlights" will be shown. Area cage coaches are invited to attend the session.

Dave Templeton Is Added To N-J Grid Fete Roster

Capt. Dave Templeton, the defensive star of Ohio State's losing effort to Michigan yesterday, is the latest addition to the speaking roster for the 13th annual News-Journal football banquet.

A former Senior high school halfback and guard, Templeton yesterday was the big reason the mighty Michigan Wolverines were unable to gain through the Ohio State line. The rugged 220-pounder, always a great defensive man, seems to play his best against Michigan.

Last year, he won the AP "lineman of the week" award for his work against the Wolverines and played even better yesterday. Once he knifed through to toss a Michigan leather lugger for a long loss.

JOBS AROUND

Templeton played every position except center and tackle before winding up at guard last year. He was a quarterback on the undefeated Ohio State frosh squad of 1942. Dave was chosen Ohio's "most valuable player" by his mates in 1947.

While at Senior high school in 1939 Templeton was a halfback and signal caller on offense and played defensive guard.

Yesterday, he was named to the all-Big Nine second team. In a poll of Indiana footballers earlier in the week, the Hoosiers picked Templeton as the outstanding guard they have played against this year. Indiana has played such teams as Michigan, Notre Dame, Texas Christian, Minnesota and Pittsburgh.

Templeton will present the News-Journal "most valuable player" award to a member of the Senior high squad. He performed the same duty at the 1947 banquet, giving the award to Dick Logan, All-American tackle. The player will be selected by a vote of his Tyger mates and managers.

JEFF GIVES OTHER

Jeff DeHaven, former Madison coach, will present another of the N-J trophies to the winning Ram gridder. DeHaven is now coaching at Sandusky high school.

Tug Wilson, the Big Nine's athletic commissioner, is scheduled to make the spotlight speech. The banquet will be staged at the Richland Recreation center at 6:45 p. m. Monday, Nov. 29.

Tickets are on sale at the N-J and at both high schools. They will also be sold at tomorrow night's Tyger booster meeting at Senior high school.

BOWIE, Md. — (AP) — A baby-faced apprentice jockey, Clarence Picou, stole the show from the horses at Bowie race track yesterday by riding four winners, including Inseparable in the Prince George Autumn handicap.

Cleveland Browns Battle New York Yankee 11 Today

NEW YORK—Steps will be taken today to resolve the three-way tie for the eastern division lead in which Baltimore, Buffalo, and New York find themselves, with three weeks of the All-America football conference season remaining.

The mighty Cleveland Browns, only undefeated team in the majors, will launch the most rugged week of play any All-America Conference club has been asked to face against the Yankees at New York. The Browns move into Los Angeles Thanksgiving Day: and into San Francisco next Sunday

Los Angeles, scourge of the east on its current swing, will try to make it three out of four for the trip by downing the Colts at Baltimore. San Francisco, a previous 36-20 victor over the improved Dodgers, will be at Brooklyn the same day.

Buffalo and Chicago, both idle today, will clash at Chicago Thanksgiving morning.

Victory for both clubs in their games and a win for the 49ers over Cleveland at San Francisco the 28th would throw the western division race into a tie, necessitating a play-off Dec. 12 in Cleveland.

Purdue Goes On Rampage To Win, 34-0

By BILL TOBIN

LAFAYETTE, Ind.—(AP)—Purdue rose to its early season power yesterday and smashed through Indiana for a 39 to 0 victory to bring the old oaken bucket back to Lafayette.

It was a breat climax for Purdue, the third victory of a season which opened with a thrilling one-point loss to Notre Dame.

For Coach Stu Holcomb it was a sweet victory, too, because it is the first time in five years that the traditional old oaken bucket has come back to Lafayette.

Against their traditional state rival the Boilermakers started strong with two quick touchdowns and never let up.

Indiana fought back hard, but the Hoosier line couldn't open the holes for the runners and the passes just wouldn't find their way home.

TOUGH ON GROUND

Hard-charging halfback Harry Szulborski paced Purdue's slashing ground game as he bucked over for the first Boilermaker score after three and a half minutes of play and then raced 30 yards just one minute later for the second six-pointer.

Quarterback Bob Demoss accounted for two other Boilermaker touchdowns, and Norb Adams and reserve fullback Jack Milito banged over for the others. As a gesture to retiring Captain Phil O'Reilly, the last extra point was added on a plunge, O'Reilly, normally a tackle, plunged over for that one point.

The Boilermakers collected 29 first downs while Indiana strained to get four. Purdue backs picked up 454 yards with their rushing game but the Hoosiers could buck for only 47.

A record crowd of 47,161 saw the worst beating a team has taken in the series since 1902, when Indiana lost by the same score.

Fan Gets Irked At Grid Official

EASTON, Pa — (AP) — A fan's apparent disapproval of two decisions by the head linesman led to a free-for-all following Lafayette's 23-13 victory over Lehigh yesterday in the 84th renewal of the nation's longest continuous football rivalry.

After the game an unidentified fan ran onto the field and attempted to start a fight with Lewis N. Tripican, he head linesman. Tripican called two pass interference plays leading to two Lafayette touchdowns.

OSU Tops In All But Scoring

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Michigan's mighty Wolverines, their ground attack stymied by a stalwart Ohio State team, took to the airways yesterday and came from behind to win a 13-3 victory.

The second largest crowd ever to throng the Ohio stadium—82,754—saw the Ohioans rise to their greatest heights of the season, take the lead with a first-period field goal, and win everything but the ball game.

The victory, the Wolves' ninth straight of the season and 23rd in a row, wrapped up their second consecutive western conference championship and gave them an outstanding claim on the national title. It was their fourth straight conquest over the Bucks, who went into the fray 14-point underdogs.

LOOK LIKE CHAMP

The Bucks, not the Wolves, looked like the champions in the early going as they allowed the invaders only three first downs in the first half, one on a pass, one by rushing and one on a penalty. Overall, the Ohioans had a 14-9 edge in first downs. The Wolves got two on pass interference penalties, four through the air and only three by rushing.

Ohio ripped the Michigan line apart for nine first downs and passed for five others.

Ohio scores first — A field goal from the 16-yard line by End Jimmy Hague. Ohio had picked up the ball on the Wolverine seven as Halfback Chuck Ortmann's lateral went awry, Center Jack Lininger recovering. An offside penalty and two cracks at the line lost nine, setting the stage for Hague's kick.

The Wolves, who failed to gain a yard on the ground the first half, never got beyond their own 40 in the opening quarter, but scored with a flash in the second.

After Fullback Joe Whisler punted out on the Michigan eight, Ortmann flipped a pass to End Dick Rifenburg who bumped the umpire and dropped the ball. Jimmy Clark recovered for Ohio on the Michigan 23, but after three plays the Bucks were back to the 30.

BOOTS CUT ON 8

Again Whisler booted out on the eight, but this time Ortmann's pass to Rifenburg was ruled complete on the 44 because of interference. Then Quarterback Pete Elliott passed 13 to Ortmann. Two Ortmann passes failed, and then he smacked one to End Harry Allis who took it on the 20 and raced over for the touchdown. The play covered 44 yards, and the scoring surge went 92 yards in five plays—all passes, of which three were completed.

Early in the third session the Bucks roared from their own 21 to Michigan's 30, a Pandel Savic to Tonny Gandee pass for 22 yards featuring the drive, but Elliott intercepted Dick Slager's pass to halt the threat.

The Wolves surged 62 yards in eight plays for their fourth-period touchdown which clinched the verdict. Once again the airlanes were used for the distance-eating maneuvers, Walt Teninga passing 21 to Leo Koceski, and Elliott repeating to the same receiver for 13 and to Allis for 12 to reach the Ohio 11.

Koceski hit center for one, Teninga faked a pass and skirted end for eight, and then fullback Tom Peterson rolled over center for the score. Allis, who booted the first extra point, missed the second.

Ohio rolled up 130 yards on the ground to 54 for Michigan, but the Wolves were out front, 116 yards to 73, through the air. Each side completed seven passes, Michigan in 16 attempts and Ohio in 20.

KRALL IS LEADER

Teninga, with 24 yards in six tries, led Michigan's rushers, but Ortmann lost 24 in seven attempts. Jerry Krall, Whisler and Alex Verdova were the big guns for Ohio, Krall going 55 in 21 tries, Whisler 50 in 13, and Verdova 45 in 10. Ortmann completed two of eight passes for 53 yards and one touchdown, while Savic of Ohio connected on five of 11 for 50 yards.

The loss erased Ohio's last lingering Rose Bowl hopes, and despite its unblemished record the Wolverines can't get into the big New Year's day classic either—the pact between the big nine and the coast conference prevents any team from appearing there two years in a row.

Ohio's six-three record was far and above anything the fans expected. A year ago, in their first campaign under Coach Wesley Fesler, the Bucks won only two of nine games. Practically the same personnel was in there for Ohio this year, but

Proud Penn State Kayoed By Underdog Pitt, 7 to 0

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— It is difficult to believe, but Pitt beat proud Penn State 7-0 yesterday.

It was one of the most stunning upsets in a wild college football year. It also was the personal triumph of a big Youngstown, O., kid who shunned glittering offers from gridiron big wheels to comes to deflated Pitt. Nick Bolkovac was sure he could play football here. He did yesterday. He rumbled 23 yards with an intercepted pass and then place-kicked the extra point which sent State spinning into defeat for the first time since 1946. It made 51,075 fans hoarse from yelling.

That run, the last great act by Bolkovac in a day of splendid line play, spelled finish to an unbeaten string of 17 games for State—18 games if you count the 13-13 Cotton Bowl deadlock with Southern Methodist last New Year's.

GETS AN ASSIST

Tackle Ralph Coleman of Ambridge, Pa., Bolkovac's running mate, deserved credit for an assist on the touchdown play. He rushed halfback Elwood Petchel's attempts to pass and his desperate leap deflected the ball enough to make possible Bolkovac's loving seizure.

It was fitting that linemen were the heroes for Pitt. It was these forwards, backed by ole debbil jinx, who shattered Lion hopes. State often has been hexed by the Pitt stadium aura. That last defeat in 1946 was inflicted by Pitt here. Other great State teams have entered the grim concrete saucer sure of victory and walked out defeated.

Although first downs favored State 15 to 4, the Pitt line was marvelous when the chips were down. A previously weak pass defense also functioned brilliantly for the Panthers, resulting in four interceptions.

NEVER THREATENS

State never threatened seriously in its own until the third period when Fannie Rogel personally carried the Lions from their own 17 to the Pitt 15 where the weary ball carrier missed another first down by inches. On this thrust, Rogel carried the ball 13 out of 16 times.

In the first period a misdirected pass from center resulted in a Lion recovery on the Pitt 34 but the Lions lost yardage and Pitt took over near mid-field.

Coaches of Michigan and Ohio State Praise Two 'Great' Teams

By KEN DAVIS

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Ohio State won the statistics and a slight edge in the battle of the bands yesterday—but Michigan won the football game.

That's the story.

A bald-headed and smiling gentleman with the Michigan training staff put it best:

"Thank heavens. They don't pay off on statistics."

Michigan's coach Bennie Oosterbaan and his win-heavy Wolverines trooped into their dressing room after copping their 23rd straight, half shaking their heads.

"My hat is off to Wes Fesler," said Bennie. "I think Ohio State has a great team."

Over on the Ohio State side of this gridiron post-mortem, Fesler saluted his own Buckeyes and the visitors impartially. He said:

"We played it right up to the hilt. That's all you can ask. Nobody will argue with that, will they?

"Michigan is a great ball club. They have terrific confidence and poise out there."

Scouting of opponents being what it is these days, both Oosterbaan and Fesler agreed the teams played about as they expected. Oosterbaan, after another minute of thought, said:

"If anything, I thought Ohio State played better than we expected. They had marvelous precision."

Oosterbaan, occupied with throwing his arms around Michigan's players, couldn't pick a turning point in the skin-tight struggle, but Fesler quickly put his finger on the point he thought spelled the difference:

It was a pass interference ruling in the second quarter, the one just preceding Michigan's first touchdown pass, Chuck Ortmann to Harry Allis.

"There was no question about it being interference," said Fesler, "but if it hadn't been called I don't think Michigan would have gotten out of the doghouse all afternoon.

They couldn't have. They couldn't gain through our line."

Of that first touchdown pass, Fesler said: "It passed right through two of our men. It was just a case of misjudging their speed."

Ortmann, Michigan's big blond ball-tosser, received a side injury in the first half. He didn't enter the game after the intermission.

"We still don't know how bad it is," said Oosterbaan.

Ortmann walked unaided, if a big cautiously, into the dressing room.

The two coaches admitted it wasn't a new thing to say about the traditional rivalry between Ohio State and Michigan, but they thought the game terrific in its body contact.

"Sitting on those sidelines," ssaid Fesler, "you could hear those tackles. They were vicious."

With it all, a minimum of penalties were called.

In as jovial a mood as the coach of the losing team could be, Fesler told newsmen that he not only was bothered by wolves, Michigan variety, but also by dogs.

Ohio State was rolling in the first half. Up ahead two dogs broke into the clear and set up housekeeping on the lawn. The game was delayed until they were put back into the doghouse some place. It may not have done Ohio State morale any good.

"If I'd had a gun, I'd have shot those dogs, so help me," Fesler grinned.

Industrial Output Breaks All Records

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The nation's economic machine got record-smashing results in the third quarter of this year.

It produced goods and services at an unprecedented annual rate of $256,000,000,000, the commerce department estimated last night. The turnout for that quarter, covering the July-August-September period, was $6,000,000,000 above the rate of the preceding quarter, and $11,000,000,000 above the rate in 1948's first three months.

Spending, of course, kept pace as an over-all matter. But officials found significance in the fact that outlays for personal consumption rose less than did personal income.

"Personal spending is more dependent on income now," one told a reporter. "In the early part of the postwar boom, people increased spending even if they didn't get an increase in income. Now it looks like they wouldn't spend as much if they didn't get more."

Personal income, after deducting tax payments amounting to more than $20,000,000,000 on an annual basis, moved to a record high rate of $193,700,000,000 a year in the third quarter, up $5,500,000,000 from the second quarter.

Yet personal consumption expenditures, although reaching a record rate of $178,500,000,000 a year, advanced only $2,000,000,000 over the second quarter pace.

The difference was reflected in personal saving. That rose $3,500,000,000 on an annual basis to a $15,200,000,000 yearly rate.

Government spending on goods and services, on the other hand, took a $4,200,000,000 jump to an annual rate of $37,700,000,000 during the July-September period.

State and local government payroll rises and increases construction outlays contributed to the gain in government spending, but the federal government was chiefly responsible.

Its payroll and construction expenditures also increased, but even more important were the jumps in spending for foreign aid and in outlays to help hold up prices of farm products.

As government grants took on a bigger role in the financing of exports, net foreign investment—the net export of goods and services that are financed commercially, plunged to an annual rate of $700,000, less than one-fourth the rate in the previous quarter.

Business investment continued at the high rate characteristic of recent quarters, moving up to an annual rate of $39,000,000,000 on the strength of new construction, accumulation of business inventories, and outlays on production equipment.

The reason that personal incomes rose only $5,000,000,000 on an annual basis was that "small declines in the net incomes of business and farm proprietors" partly offset a $6,000,000,000 increase in wage and salary payments.

The department said it could not yet figure corporate profits for the third quarter because of incomplete data, and without that figure it cannot estimate national income, which measures incomes resulting from production.

Sheriff Finds Missing Girl Taking Walk

YORKVILLE, Ill. —(AP)— A 17-year-old girl honor student, missing since Nov. 1 from the Greeley State Teachers college, Greeley, Colo., was located here yesterday.

Sheriff William E. Hayden of Kendall county said he found the coed, Lillian De Bell of Arvada, Colo., walking along a highway nine miles southwest of Yorkville at 12:30 a. m.

He said the girl refused to give any details regarding her disappearance, where she had been or her destination.

Hayden said he and his son, Duane, a deputy sheriff, went looking for the girl after several motorists reported passing a young woman walking along Highway 76 in a snowstorm. The motorists reported the girl refused their offers of transportation.

Bishops Ask Reversal of Court Ruling

Favor Religious School Training

WASHINGTON— (AP) —Catholic bishops of the United States called Saturday for a change in the Supreme court ruling that religious sects may not teach their beliefs in public schools.

The decision was based on a "novel interpretation" of the first amendment to the constitution, the bishops said in a sharply critical statement at the close of their annual meeting here.

They referred to a March 7 ruling in the McCollum case.

Champaign, Ill. schools had presented weekly religious education classes under Protestant, Catholic and Jewish leaders.

Mrs. Vashti McCollum, an atheist, protested that her son was "embarrassed" because he was the only one in the class who did not take such instruction. She brought suit against the school to halt such teachings.

The court's decision was in favor of Mrs. McCollum on the grounds that the school violated the constitutional requirements for separation of church and state.

"Reluctant as we are to criticize our supreme judicial tribunal," the bishops said Saturday, "we cannot but observe that when the members of that tribunal write long and varying opinions in handing down a decision, they must expect that intelligent citizens of a democracy will study and appraise these opinions. . . .

"Lawyers trained in the American tradition of law will be amazed that in the McCollum case the majority opinions pay scant attention to logic, history or accepted norms of interpretation....

"We, therefore, hope and pray that the novel interpretation of the first amendment recently adopted by the Supreme court will in due process be revised. To that end we shall peacefully, patiently and perseveringly work.....

"We stand ready to cooperate in fairness and charity with all who believe in God and are devoted to freedom under God to avert the impending danger of a judicial 'establishment of secularism' that would ban God from public life.

"For secularism is threatening the religious foundations of our national life and preparing the way for the advent of the omnipotent state."

The statement said if a "wall of separation" be erected between church and state "it would be an utter distortion of American history and law."

The bishops urged that "Christian principles should be put into action in economic life" with better organized cooperation between labor, management and government."

"Cooperation must be organized —organized for the common good. ....."

The statement was signed in the name of the Catholic bishops by the administrative board of the National Catholic Welfare conference.

They Like Their New 'Home'

Firemen Take Pride In New Fire Station

There's no place like home—but Mansfield's new Fire Station No. 5 on Marion avenue, near Woodland road, runs it a close second, think the fire crews that man it.

The station, from the outside, has the appearance of a large, attractive brick residence. The inside is tidy and well arranged. In addition to the garage where the fire engine stands in readiness behind automatic doors, there are a recreation room, kitchen, dormitory, hose tower and basement.

"We like it here," declared John Fleming. His companion, Wilson (Mac) McLean nodded in acquiescence. Both were formerly at Station No. 1, where action tends to be fast and furious.

They are not idle at No. 5—there have already been nearly 10 calls—but the gait is a bit more leisurely, and the accommodations are definitely superior.

No. 5 protects an area from Park avenue west, Wood, Glessner, Sturges to Greenwood, and South Main to the west city boundary and into a portion of Madison township. This includes all of Woodland and South Boulevards.

The station represents a goal for the city, the goal being the fire department's hope that eventually all others will be on par with No. 5.

FITS SURROUNDINGS

The building which houses No. 5 is a new structure which fits in nicely with the surroundings. There is a one-truck garage in the building. Automatic doors which open upward when a button is pushed make a quisk exit by the firemen easy and convenient.

At the front is a recreation room fitted with easy chairs and reading material. Adjoining is a fully-equipped kitchen. The garage can be entered from the recreation room, or from a hallway leading by the kitchen.

The hose tower leads upward through the building from the garage. A hoist lifts the 50-foot lengths of hose to the positions where they remain until dried.

Upstairs is the dormitory, equipped with neat single beds. A pole leading to the fire truck is the new type which goes through an opening that remains closed until weight is put on the pole. Pressure of 10 pounds on the pole causes the entrance to open in orange peel fashion.

At present, there is something wrong with the device, and it requires considerable more than 10 pounds to open the hole.

"I got caught in the blamed thing the other day," confessed Fleming "My suspenders caught, and I had to hang on the pole until Mac got me loose."

They are awaiting a representative of the maker to make necessary adjustments on the device.

Members of the two crews at No. 5 are: Virgil Norris, captain, 396 Wood street; Fleming, 696 Millsboro road; McLean, 250 Sheridan avenue, and Leo Jones, captain, 204 Atcheson avenue; Leonard Boebel, 156 Glessner avenue, and Don Rose, 376 South Linden road. All except Boebel, who was formerly at Station No. 2, came from No. 1.

Ohio Voting Leaves Question

Errors Nullified Over 100,000 Ballots

By H. H. DAUGHERTY

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Did 100,000 voters lose their presidential vote through ignorance of the correct way to mark their ballots, or did they deliberately throw their presidential vote away?

This question never can be answered correctly without confession of the voters, but there is a growing feeling among some close election observers that many of the invalid ballots were deliberately marked by the voter in a manner that would nullify their vote.

Such a deliberate action might act as a face-saver for the voter who did not like either President Truman or Governor Dewey.

They could tell their friends they voted for President Truman or Governor Dewey without telling a falshood. The fact they voted for one or more of the Progressive party's independent elector candidates need not be confessed.

The theory many presidential ballots were deliberately invalidated by voters is strengthened by the fact so few state ballots were lost by voters through scratching.

"Ohio voters know how to scratch their ballots and very few are invalidated in the process," one state official commented.

All of the invalidated presidential ballots resulted from the voter placing a cross in the circle below the Democratic rooster or the Republican eagle, and then going over to the list of Wallace elector candidates and voting for one or more of them.

Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel directed election officials to hold such marked ballots invalid. Attorney Gen. Hugh S. Jenkins ruled such ballot-marking should be counted only for the Wallace electors.

Though election boards are not required to list the number of invalid ballots with their official returns to the secretary of state, Assistant Secretary Leland S. Dougan said he will ask all boards to send in reports of the number of invalid ballots.

Estimates and actual count by the election boards of the eight largest counties, and Trumbull, one of the smaller counties, of the number of invalid presidential ballots cast in their counties totaled more than 76,000. Figures from the 79 other counties were expected to boost the total to around 100,000.

County Seal Sale Begins On Monday

Funds Combat Tuberculosis

The 1948 Christmas seal sale opens officially tomorrow in Richland county, with the delivery of seals in the morning mail to county residents. Richland's seal sale is held in conjunction with the nationwide appeal for funds to support a battle against tuberculosis being waged throughout the country by the 3,000 associations affiliated with the National Tuberculosis association.

The annual seal sale, which will continue until Christmas, represents the only appeal during the year for funds to carry on the year-round tuberculosis control work of the Richland County Tuberculosis association. Quota for Richland county, the minimum needed to carry out the association's 1948 program, is set at $14,500.

"The nationwide fight against tuberculosis today is just as important as it was in 1907, the year of the first seal sale in the United States," Mrs. H. C. Brokaw, drive chairman said yesterday. "Although tuberculosis has dropped from first to seventh place as the cause of deaths in America since 1907, the disease still kills nearly 50,000 Americans annually. While no age is safe from tuberculosis, the disease today is taking the lives of more Americans between 15 and 44 than any other disease.

"In Richland county alone, 18 have died from tuberculosis during the past year. We consider every one of these deaths unnecessary as well as tragic, because we know that tuberculosis can be prevented. We also know that our tuberculosis control program is as strong and no stronger than the interest, cooperation and support of every county resident."

Mrs. Brokaw explained that of the money raised in this county, 87 per cent remains in the county to fight tuberculosis here and the remainder is forwarded to the Ohio Tuberculosis and Health association. The state sends five per cent to the National Tuberculosis association to finance its work on a national level. Of the total raised in the county's seal sale, therefore, 95 per cent will be used within the state.

Seal sale money finances such services in the county as a case finding program, mass X-rays and a rehabilitation program.

Boy Scouts, under leadership of Floyd Dent will distribute posters carrying the message "Protect Your Home from Tuberculosis."

Girl Scouts are donating their time at the Christmas Seal office, 608 Walpark building, getting letters ready for mailing.

Vets Swell College Rolls

WASHINGTON — (AP) — More than 30 per cent of the enrollment in Ohio universities and colleges still represents veterans attending under the GI bill of rights, but there are 7,068 fewer vets this year than last.

The federal office of education said in a new report that there are 62,491 veterans in Ohio's institutions of higher learning, with a total enrollment of 140,252. There were 69,559 vets last year of a total of 142,279.

The picture for the nation shows 100,000 fewer GI's in school, but a net increase of 72,000 in overall attendance.

Ohio State university, listed as the seventh largest school in the country and the third in the Big 10, now has 23,929 students, of whom 12,146 are veterans.

Only Minnesota, with 27,243 students, and Illinois, with 25,920 outrank OSU in size in the Big 10. The other larger schools, in order, are New York university, University of California, City College of New York and Columbia university. NYU and the University of California both exceed 40,000.

The OSU enrollment is the fifth largest of any state.

Leaders of the Ohio State Grange and the Ohio Farm Bureau federation say that food prices are starting to come down and that government support of farm product prices has a "negligible" effect on the housewife's food budget.

They are Joseph W. Fichter, master of the State Grange, and H. W. Culbreth, organization director of the federation. Fichter is vice chairman and Culbreth a member of the National Planning association agriculture committee which issued a report on the current price situation. Both are from Columbus.

Ohio farmers are going to feed more sheep and lambs through the winter and fewer cattle.

The agriculture department reports that although shipments of sheep and lamb into corn belt states were the smallest in 10 years — down 21 per cent from last year — Ohio showed an increase of nine per cent in the July-October period.

All other corn belt states showed a drop: Wisconsin and Minnesota were down 38 per cent, Michigan down 37 per cent, Illinois, 34, and Iowa, 20.

Shipments of cattle to the corn belt area in the same period were about the same as last year, but Ohio showed a big drop of 20 per cent.

Nebraska and Illinois, on the other hand, showed increases, and decreases in other states did not approach the drop in Ohio.

Guard Attempts To Get Car But Breaks An Ankle

ATLANTA —(AP)— A joking attempt by Georgia Tech coaches to allow Guard Hayes McKinney to score a touchdown and win delivery of a new Buick convertible backfired yesterday when McKinney broke his ankle in the Citadel game. Georgia Tech won, 54-0.

McKinney, a 190-pound switch guard, was sent into the game twice when the Yellow Jackets were within 10 yards of the Citadel goal.

He ran three times and lost seven yards. Later he came in as a halfback and on his first run he was hit by five Citadel players. A stretcher was called to carry McKinney off the field.

At Atlanta Buick dealer, a Tech fan, had promised to deliver the guard a convertible if he scord this season. Earlier in the year McKinney was given another chance to score but failed. He gained 13 yards in two tries.

SMU Gets Bid To Bowl Tilt

DALLAS, Tex. — (AP) — Southern Methodist university beat Baylor with an ace yesterday and won a Cotton Bowl bid on a 13-6 decision before 58,000 fans.

Kyle Rote was the ace in the hole that licked the Bears, scoring once on a 24-yard run to bring the Mustangs even and again on a 19-yard jaunt that wrapped up the $105,000 jackpot that goes with the coveted New Year's Day invitation.

The victory clinched a share of the Southwest conference championship. Even if the Mustangs lose their final game they would finish in a tie with Texas.

About Half-Time Grid Shows, Open Letter, Cage Deal

By Fred Tharp
(News-Journal Sports Editor)

EXCEPT FOR A FEW scattered instances, half-time football band shows have been to us just something to fill in while the grid teams are taking a rest. . . . Besides a newsman always has plenty of work to do during the half and seldom has time to watch the extra-curricular activities on the playing field. . . . But that didn't hold water at the Senior high games in Arlin field this past season. . . . For once, half-time pageantry rivaled the grid games themselves in spectator appeal. . . . Out-of-town newspaper and radio men were also lavish in their praise. . . . Without an exception the press box denizens labeled the Tyger half-time performances as the greatest in the state. . . . The shows were put together with all of the care which goes into a Broadway production. . . . This didn't just happen. . . . It was brought about by the citizens of Mansfield, 8,000 of them, who backed the Tyger booster club's membership drive. . . . The monies donated to the booster group enabled the entertainment specialists of the outfit to plan the fine shows with the cooperation of the Marching Tygers. . . . And not too much of the booster money went into the shows. . . . It had to be pro-rated to the many Mansfield school activities. . . . Tomorrow night, boosters will have a chance to thank the half-time performers and directors in person. . . . For a review of all of the shows will be presented at the weekly Tyger club meeting at the high school. . . . The band, majorettes and several individual performers will join to make the meeting a fine entertainment production.

FROM THE MAIL BAG:

Dear Fred:

I would like to say something regarding the Mansfield - Hamilton game. I think that game should always be remembered by everyone in this vicinity. Why? Because it proved to everyone what complete backing of the team could do.

Hamilton was highly favored to win, and probably would have, but a huge bonfire, snake dance and a great roaring crowd produced the spark that set fire to our team. It gave them the will and determination to win against big odds, Win they did, and how.

I believe that at last the people of Mansfield have learned that it takes more than a good coach and eleven men on the field to win a football game. Let us all remember this next year and all of the years to follow, and really make with the loud cheers for the boys —even when they make a mistake.

Thank you.

John B. Hawbaker.

MANSFIELD MAY be the site of one of the district Class A basketball tournaments. . . . A new district setup for Northwestern Ohio high schools has been approved by the district board and will be presented to the state group for approval this week. . . . The change was necessitated when Cleveland schools decided to participate in state play starting this season. . . . Now only three schools will come from northwestern Ohio. . . . These would be eliminated to two teams and then regionals would be staged at Sandusky, Findlay and Toledo. . . . Winner of each of these meets would combine with the central district champ in the opening of the 16-team state meet at Toledo. . . . Four teams would again appear in the finals in Columbus. . . . Big Minnesota Gridders Rap Badgers, 16-0

By JACK BURKE

MADISON, Wis. — (AP) — Minnesota's massive Gophers crushed Wisconsin, 16-0, yesterday on a wet, slippery field in the Western Conference football finale for both teams before 45,000 fans.

The Gophers, rambling as they pleased, scored twice in the second quarter and added a field goal in the third. They lost two other touchdowns both on long runs, when the plays were recalled by penalties.

The victory left Minnesota a half-game out of the running for the Rose Bowl bid as Northwestern whipped Illinois, 20-7, and wound up the campaign with a 5-1 record. Minnesota lost twice in seven games.

Wisconsin, winding up a dismal year with only one Big Nine victory in six starts, never had a chance. The Badgers spent the first 57 minutes of the game in their own territory — and then got only two yards over the midfield stripe with three minutes to play.

SLICK PASS PLAY

A slick forward-lateral pass counted the first Gopher marker. The play, starting on Wisconsin's 35 yard line following a punt, opened with a short pass from Billy Bye to Harry Grant and closed with a lateral to Stan Thiele who went the last 10 yards.

Four plays later Minnesota was back again, Ken Beirsdorf crashing over tackle for 37 yards and the score. Gordon Soltau, who missed the conversion after the first touchdown, booted successfully for a 13-0 halftime lead.

A third Gopher scoring drive went 56 yards before stalling on the Wisconsin seven, but Soltau cashed three points with a placekick from the 17.

The Minnesota attack which rolled up 425 yards, all but 140 on the ground. Wisconsin showed a net gain of 61 yards on the ground and 27 by passing.

Minnesota scoring: Touchdowns—Thiele, Beierndorf. Point after touchdown: Soltau (placekick). Field Goal—Soltau (17 yards placekick).

Basketball Group To Discuss Rules

Dave Templeton Is Added To N-J Grid Fete Roster

Capt. Dave Templeton, the defensive star of Ohio State's losing effort to Michigan yesterday, is the latest addition to the speaking roster for the 13th annual News-Journal football banquet.

A former Senior high school halfback and guard, Templeton yesterday was the big reason the mighty Michigan Wolverines were unable to gain through the Ohio State line. The rugged 220-pounder, always a great defensive man, seems to play his best against Michigan.

Last year, he won the AP "lineman of the week" award for his work against the Wolverines and played even better yesterday. Once he knifed through to toss a Michigan leather lugger for a long loss.

JOBS AROUND

Templeton played every position except center and tackle before winding up at guard last year. He was a quarterback on the undefeated Ohio State frosh squad of 1942. Dave was chosen 'Ohio's "most valuable player" by his mates in 1947.

While at Senior high school in 1939 Templeton was a halfback and signal caller on offense and played defensive guard.

Yesterday, he was named to the all-Big Nine second team. In a poll of Indiana footballers earlier in the week, the Hoosiers picked Templeton as the outstanding guard they have played against this year. Indiana has played such teams as Michigan, Notre Dame, Texas Christian, Minnesota and Pittsburgh.

Templeton will present the News-Journal "most valuable player" award to a member of the Senior high squad. He performed the same duty at the 1947 banquet, giving the award to Dick Logan, All-American tackle. The player will be selected by a vote of his Tyger mates and managers.

JEFF GIVES OTHER

Jeff DeHaven, former Madison coach, will present another of the N-J trophies to the winning Ram gridder. DeHaven is now coaching at Sandusky high school.

Tug Wilson, the Big Nine's athletic commissioner, is scheduled to make the spotlight speech. The banquet will be staged at the Richland Recreation center at 6:45 p. m. Monday, Nov. 29.

Tickets are on sale at the N-J and at both high schools. They will also be sold at tomorrow night's Tyger booster meeting at Senior high school.

Cleveland Browns Battle New York Yankee 11 Today

NEW YORK—Steps will be taken today to resolve the three-way tie for the eastern division lead in which Baltimore, Buffalo, and New York find themselves, with three weeks of the All-America football conference season remaining.

The mighty Cleveland Browns, only undefeated team in the majors, will launch the most rugged week of play any All-America Conference club has been asked to face against the Yankees at New York. The Browns move into Los Angeles Thanksgiving Day; and into San Francisco next Sunday.

Los Angeles, scourge of the east on its current swing, will try to make it three out of four for the trip by downing the Colts at Baltimore. San Francisco, a previous 36-20 victor over the improved Dodgers, will be at Brooklyn the same day.

Buffalo and Chicago, both idle today, will clash at Chicago Thanksgiving morning.

Victory for both clubs in their games and a win for the 49ers over Cleveland at San Francisco the 28th would throw the western division race into a tie, necessitating a play-off Dec 12 in Cleveland.

Proud Penn State Kayoed By Underdog Pitt, 7 to 0

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— It is difficult to believe, but Pitt beat proud Penn State 7-0 yesterday.

It was one of the most stunning upsets in a wild college football year. It also was the personal triumph of a big Youngstown, O., kid who shunned glittering offers from gridiron big wheels to comes to deflated Pitt. Nick Bolkovac was sure he could play football here. He did yesterday. He rumbled 23 yards with an intercepted pass and then place-kicked the extra point which sent State spinning into defeat for the first time since 1946. It made 51,075 fans hoarse from yelling.

That run, the last great act by Bolkovac in a day of splendid line play, spelled finish to an unbeaten string of 17 games for State—18 games if you count the 13-13 Cotton Bowl deadlock with Southern Methodist last New Year's.

GETS AN ASSIST

Tackle Ralph Coleman of Ambridge, Pa., Bolkovac's running mate, deserved credit for an assist on the touchdown play. He rushed halfback Elwood Petchel's attempts to pass and his desperate leap deflected the ball enough to make possible Bolkovac's loving seizure.

It was fitting that linemen were the heroes for Pitt. It was these forwards, backed by ole debbil jinx, who shattered Lion hopes. State often has been hexed by the Pitt stadium aura. That last defeat in 1946 was inflicted by Pitt here. Other great State teams have entered the grim concrete saucer sure of victory and walked out defeated.

Although first downs favored State 15 to 4, the Pitt line was marvelous when the chips were down. A previously weak pass defense also functioned brilliantly for the Panthers, resulting in four interceptions.

NEVER THREATENS

State never threatened seriously in its own until the third period when Fannie Rogel personally carried the Lions from their own 17 to the Pitt 15 where the weary ball carrier missed another first down by inches. On this thrust, Rogel carried the ball 13 out of 16 times.

In the first period a misdirected pass from center resulted in a Lion recovery on the Pitt 34 but the Lions lost yardage and Pitt took over near mid-field.

Purdue Goes On Rampage To Win, 34-0

By BILL TOBIN

LAFAYETTE, Ind.—(AP)—Purdue rose to its early season power yesterday and smashed through Indiana for a 39 to 0 victory to bring the old oaken bucket back to Lafayette.

It was a breat climax for Purdue, the third victory of a season which opened with a thrilling one-point loss to Notre Dame.

For Coach Stu Holcomb it was a sweet victory, too, because it is the first time in five years that the traditional old oaken bucket has come back to Lafayette.

Against their traditional state rival the Boilermakers started strong with two quick touchdowns and never let up.

Indiana fought back hard, but the Hoosier line couldn't open the holes for the runners and the passes just wouldn't find their way home.

TOUGH ON GROUND

Hard-charging halfback Harry Szulborski paced Purdue's slashing ground game as he bucked over for the first Boilermaker score after three and a half minutes of play and then raced 30 yards just one minute later for the second six-pointer.

Quarterback Bob Demoss accounted for two other Boilermaker touchdowns, and Norb Adams and reserve fullback Jack Milito banged over for the others. As a gesture to retiring Captain Phil O'Reilly, the last extra point was added on a plunge, O'Reilly, normally a tackle, plunged over for that one point.

The Boilermakers collected 29 first downs while Indiana strained to get four. Purdue backs picked up 454 yards with their rushing game but the Hoosiers could buck for only 47.

A record crowd of 47,161 saw the worst beating a team has taken in the series since 1902, when Indiana lost by the same score.

Purdue scoring: Touchdowns—Szulborski 2 Demoss 2 Adams Milito. Points after touchdown 5 Trbovich 2 (placement), O'Reilly (plunge)

Fan Gets Irked At Grid Official

EASTON, Pa. — (AP) — A fan's apparent disapproval of two decisions by the head linesman led to a free-for-all following Lafayette's 23-13 victory over Lehigh yesterday in the 84th renewal of the nation's longest continuous football rivalry.

After the game an unidentified fan ran onto the field and attempted to start a fight with Lewis N. Tripican, he head linesman. Tripican called two pass interference plays leading to two Lafayette touchdowns.

OSU Tops In All But Scoring

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Michigan's mighty Wolverines, their ground attack stymied by a stalwart Ohio State team, took to the airways yesterday and came from behind to win a 13-3 victory.

The second largest crowd ever to throng the Ohio stadium—82,754—saw the Ohioans rise to their greatest heights of the season, take the lead with a first-period field goal, and win everything but the ball game.

The victory, the Wolves' ninth straight of the season and 23rd in a row, wrapped up their second consecutive western conference championship and gave them an outstanding claim on the national title. It was their fourth straight conquest over the Bucks, who went into the fray 14-point underdogs.

LOOK LIKE CHAMP

The Bucks, not the Wolves, looked like the champions in the early going as they allowed the invaders only three first downs in the first half, one on a pass, one by rushing and one on a penalty. Overall, the Ohioans had a 14-9 edge in first downs. The Wolves got two on pass interference penalties, four through the air and only three by rushing.

Ohio ripped the Michigan line apart for nine first downs and passed for five others.

Ohio scores first — A field goal from the 16-yard line by End Jimmy Hague. Ohio had picked up the ball on the Wolverine seven as Halfback Chuck Ortmann's lateral went awry, Center Jack Lininger recovering. An offside penalty and two cracks at the line lost nine, setting the stage for Hague's kick.

The Wolves, who failed to gain a yard on the ground the first half, never got beyond their own 40 in the opening quarter, but scored with a flash in the second.

After Fullback Joe Whisler punted out on the Michigan eight, Ortmann flipped a pass to End Dick Rifenburg who bumped the umpire and dropped the ball. Jimmy Clark recovered for Ohio on the Michigan 23, but after three plays the Bucks were back to the 30.

BOOTS OUT ON 8

Again Whisler booted out on the eight, but this time Ortmann's pass to Rifenburg was ruled complete on the 44 because of interference. Then Quarterback Pete Elliott passed 13 to Ortmann. Two Ortmann passes failed, and then he smacked one to End Harry Allis who took it on the 20 and raced over for the touchdown. The play covered 44 yards, and the scoring surge went 92 yards in five plays—all passes, of which three were completed.

Early in the third session the Bucks roared from their own 21 to Michigan's 30, a Pandel Savic to Tonny Gandee pass for 22 yards featuring the drive, but Elliott intercepted Dick Slager's pass to halt the threat.

The Wolves surged 62 yards in eight plays for their fourth-period touchdown which clinched the verdict. Once again the airlanes were used for the distance-eating maneuvers, Walt Teninga passing 21 to Leo Koceski, and Elliott repeating to the same receiver for 13 and to Allis for 12 to reach the Ohio 11.

Koceski hit center for one, Teninga faked a pass and skirted end for eight, and then fullback Tom Peterson rolled over center for the score. Allis, who booted the first extra point, missed the second.

Ohio rolled up 130 yards on the ground to 54 for Michigan, but the Wolves were out front, 116 yards to 73, through the air. Each side completed seven passes, Michigan in 16 attempts and Ohio in 20.

KRALL IS LEADER

Teninga, with 24 yards in six tries, led Michigan's rushers, but Ortmann lost 24 in seven attempts. Jerry Krall, Whisler and Alex Verdova were the big guns for Ohio, Krall going 55 in 21 tries, Whisler 50 in 13, and Verdova 45 in 10. Ortmann completed two of eight passes for 53 yards and one touchdown, while Savic of Ohio connected on five of 11 for 50 yards.

The loss erased Ohio's last lingering Rose Bowl hopes, and despite its unblemished record the Wolverines can't get into the big New Year's day classic either—the pact between the big nine and the coast conference prevents any team from appearing there two years in a row.

Ohio's six-three record was far and above anything the fans expected. A year ago, in their first campaign under Coach Wesley Fesler, the Bucks won only two of nine games. Practically the same personnel was in there for Ohio this year, but

Coaches of Michigan and Ohio State Praise Two 'Great' Teams

By KEN DAVIS

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Ohio State won the statistics and a slight edge in the battle of the bands yesterday—but Michigan won the football game.

That's the story.

A bald-headed and smiling gentleman with the Michigan training staff put it best:

"Thank heavens. They don't pay off on statistics."

Michigan's coach Bennie Oosterbaan and his win-heavy Wolverines trooped into their dressing room after copping their 23rd straight, half shaking their heads.

"My hat is off to Wes Fesler," said Bennie. "I think Ohio State has a great team."

Over on the Ohio State side of this gridiron post-mortem, Fesler saluted his own Buckeyes and the visitors impartially. He said:

"We played it right up to the hilt. That's all you can ask. Nobody will argue with that, will they?

"Michigan is a great ball club. They have terrific confidence and poise out there."

Scouting of opponents being what it is these days, both Oosterbaan and Fesler agreed the teams played about as they expected. Oosterbaan, after another minute of thought, said:

"If anything, I thought Ohio State played better than we expected. They had marvelous precision."

Oosterbaan, occupied with throwing his arms around Michigan's players, couldn't pick a turning point in the skin-tight struggle, but Fesler quickly put his finger on the point he thought spelled the difference:

It was a pass interference ruling in the second quarter, the one just preceding Michigan's first touchdown pass, Chuck Ortmann to Harry Allis.

"There was no question about it being interference," said Fesler, "but if it hadn't been called I don't think Michigan would have gotten out of the doghouse all afternoon.

They couldn't have. They couldn't gain through our line."

Of that first touchdown pass, Fesler said: "It passed right through two of our men. It was just a case of misjudging their speed."

Ortmann, Michigan's big blond ball-tosser, received a side injury in the first half. He didn't enter the game after the intermission.

"We still don't know how bad it is," said Oosterbaan.

Ortmann walked unaided, if a big cautiously, into the dressing room.

The two coaches admitted it wasn't a new thing to say about the traditional rivalry between Ohio State and Michigan, but they thought the game terrific in its body contact.

"Sitting on those sidelines," ssaid Fesler, "you could hear those tackles. They were vicious."

With it all, a minimum of penalties were called.

In as jovial a mood as the coach of the losing team could be, Fesler told newsmen that he not only was bothered by wolves, Michigan variety, but also by dogs.

Ohio State was rolling in the first half. Up ahead two dogs broke into the clear and set up housekeeping on the lawn. The game was delayed until they were put back into the doghouse some place. It may not have done Ohio State morale any good.

"If I'd had a gun, I'd have shot those dogs, so help me," Fesler grinned.

For the first time this year, the entire Senior high school football squad will attend one of the Monday night sessions.

Tickets for the 13th annual News-Journal football banquet Nov. 29 at the Richland Recreation will be sold before and after the session.

Michigan State Favored for Big Nine Membership

CHICAGO — (AP) — The Daily News said yesterday it had learned that acceptance of Michigan State college as the tenth member of the big nine is a "virtual certainty."

"At present, members stand 5 to 4 in favor of admittance," the News said. It declared the vote is expected to shift to 6 to 3 in favor of the spartans when the big nine holds its annual meeting here December 10-12.

"The members will consider this as the first order of business along with schedules, rules and the controversial scholorship law," the News' story said.

MICHIGAN AGAINST

It declared that Ohio State, Iowa, Northwestern and "oddly enough" Michigan, are lined up in opposing Michigan State's bid.

"However, the Daily News also learned that political pressure in Michigan will force the Wolverines to change to the affirmative," the story said.

It added that one of the early indications of the trend is the addition of Michigan State to the Minnesota schedule for 1950 and 1951.

The western conference, formerly the big ten, became known as the big nine when Chicago dropped out of the circuit.

State Pigskin Team Defeats Foe, 40 to 0

EAST LANSING, Mich. —(AP)—Michigan State's spirited Spartans, rolling almost at will on the ground, closed their home football season before 36,045 fans yesterday with an impressive 40 to 0 rout of Washington State.

Although three Spartan touchdowns were called back for penalties, Michigan State hit the 40-point mark for the fourth straight time with three scores in the opening period and three more in the last half.

Lynn Chandnois, sparkling Spartan halfback, carried the ball across three times to run his season total to a dozen touchdowns in nine games, with one more contest—against Santa Clara next Saturday—left to play.

GETS THREE TD'S

Chandnois, co-starring as usual with dynamic little George Guerre, scored on a 14-yard gallop in the opening period and a six-yard sweep in the third, as well as on a 33-yard pass from quarterback Gene Glick.

Fullback Bud Crane punched across from the one-yard line to climax an 80-yard Spartan parade the first time they got the ball. Then Guerre passed six yards to Ed Sobczak for the payoff blow on a 93-yard march.

Everett Grandelius, third-string fullback, swept 13 yards for the last Michigan State touchdown to cap an 88-yard drive in the closing minute of play.

Tulane Green Wave Slides Over Cincy 11

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Tulane's mighty Green Wave, hopeful of a post-season bowl bid, was battled almost to a standstill yesterday by an underdog University of Cincinnati team, but managed to eke out a 6-0 victory before a chilled crowd of 12,000.

The UC Bearcats, playing perhaps their best game of the season, stopped the New Orleans boys cold in the first half and then got a goalward march of their own under way in the closing minutes of the contest, but it bogged down on Tulane's 21.

Tulane moved 33 yards for the only counter of the game midway in the third quarter.

TOUCHDOWN DRIVE

Halfback George Kinek returned a Cincinnati punt to the UC 33. Joe Ernst flipped a pass to End Dick Sheffield, who was downed on the UC 22, and then Eddie Price broke through tackle to the Bearcat eight. Kinek plowed through to the five before Price slashed off tackle for six points. A bad pass from center nullified the attempted conversion.

The Green Wave roared back and drove from midfield to Cincinnati 10 in four plays, but Price fumbled. Tulane began moving again in the fourth quarter, but the drive fizzled and Tom O'Malley, UC quarterback, punted 69 yards to the visitors' 25.

The Bearcats took to the air in the waning minutes and traveled to the Tulane 21, where two line plays failed to gain the six inches necessary for a first down.

Play ended with Tulane on the UC 35.

Clear Last Hurdle for Rose Bowl

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

EVANSTON, Ill. —(AP)— Northwestern's Rose Bowl express, gathering steam behind a great running attack, made just a whistle stop out of Illinois yesterday.

The Wildcats of young Coach Bob Voigts rolled to a 2-7 triumph over the Illini, their last hurdle en route to Pasadena and the New Year's day classic.

Northwestern all but cinched the trip, which must be formally approved by the Big Nine conference. It closed the regular campaign with a 5-1 league record for second place and a season mark of 7-2.

ONLY TWO LOSSES

The Cats lost only to undefeated Michigan, which repeated for the Big Nine crown yesterday by downing Ohio State 13-3, and to unbeaten Notre Dame.

Michigan is ineligible to return to the Rose Bowl under the Big Nine-Pacific coast pact after making a victorious appearance last season.

A chilled capacity crowd of 48,000 saw the game. The Wildcats zipped 71 yards in eight plays for a first quarter touchdown and turned in a pair of breaks into two more counters in the second period to lead 20-0 at halftime.

Northwestern's quarterback Don Burson, attempted only two passes in the brisk winds which swept the gridiron. He overshot one receiver then much later speared Joe Zuravleff, whose broken arm is in a cast, for a 23-yard touchdown in the second quarter.

PENALTY HELPS

The scoring play was set up when Illinois was penalized 15 yards for slipping after taking a kickoff, eventually gaining the ball on its own one-yard line. Dike Eddleman's punt against the wind went only 34 yards—he averaged 44.8 for the game—and Peewee Day returned it to the 23. Burson then flipped.

One minute prior to the touchdown pass, Northwestern had punched its second tally on one of those one-in-a-season flukes.

Illinois, behind sizzlin' Sam Piazza's 34-yard run, had rammed to the Northwestern 37. From there, Bernie Krueger's short pass was juggled in midair by Russ Steger. Day jumped up and stole it, churned five yards then lateralled to end Chuck Hagmann. Hagmann, a big bruiser who has been nursing a leg injury, forgot about his troubles long enough to gallop 65 yards to score.

The Wildcats outrushed Illinois 239 yards to 149. Illinois had 12 first downs, Northwestern 11.

Southern Cal Edges UCLA

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Southern California's Trojans and the Bruins of UCLA fought a bitter cross-town rivalry yesterday and the favored Troys ground out a 20-to-13 football triumph before 76,577 persons.

A powerful, relentless Trojan running attack, plus one costly UCLA penalty, spelled the difference.

The loss was UCLA's seventh this season and wound up their 1948 campaign. The Trojans have one more game ahead, with Notre Dame, here Dec. 4. A keen onlooker was the Irish coach, Frank Leahy.

College Football Games In Capsule Form

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK — (AP) — Michigan, Northwestern, Minnesota, Oregon and California all won football games yesterday leaving determination of the Rose Bowl rivals to a vote of faculty representatives Monday.

But no matter how the faculty fathers decide on their $250,000 question, they will not be able to cause any more consternation than was turned in on the playing fields yesterday.

Once mighty Pittsburgh revolted against its recent occupation of football doormat and defeated Penn State, 7 to 0. Nick Bolkovac intercepted a Penn State pass late in the fourth quarter and hiked 23 yards for the touchdown that probably cost the losers a $100,000 bowl bid.

Pitt's neighbor, Carnegie Tech, also won. Tech defeated Grove City, a rival Pennsylvania college, 7 to 0, for its first win since 1942.

FIRST SINCE 1890

George Washington spilled Georgetown, 13 to 7, for the first decision over its cross-town rival in a series that started in 1890.

Louisiana State, battered six times in eight starts, licked its bruises today with a 26-to-6 upset of Alabama.

Those surprises were mixed among the games on a nationwide schedule that also saw a national collegiate record set for punt returns and a guard suffer a broken ankle while trying to score and win quick delivery of an automobile.

The punt return mark was set by Lee Nalley of Vanderbilt, who brought back two kicks for 16 yards. That brought his season's total to 623 yards, seven more than the old mark. Vandy beat Maryland today, 34 to 0.

It was Hays McKinney of Georgia Tech, who suffered the broken ankle. The lineman had been promised delivery of a car if he scored. When Tech was well on its way to its 54 to 0 win over the citadel, McKinney became a ball carrier. After several futile tries he suffered the injury.

Michigan took to the air to bat down Ohio State, 13 to 3, and retain the Big Nine championship. Northwestern ground out its 20-to 7 triumph over Illinois for second place while Minnesota pounded Wisconsin, 16 to 0.

FATHERS MUST VOTE

With Michigan barred from the Rose Bowl by the rules of the midwest-coast conference tie up, the Big Nine fathers now must vote on either Minnesota or Northwestern to carry the banner on Jan. 1. The Evanston Wildcats, however, are clear cut runners up to Michigan and likely nominees for the trip.

But all is not so clear in the Pacific Coast conference where Oregon and California both wound up their schedules yesterday unbeaten in the coast circuit. California squeezed past Stanford, 7 to 6, and Oregon blanked Oregon State, 10 to 0. California, which also is unbeaten outside the circuit, has six loop wins, Oregon has seven. However, Oregon lost to Michigan, 14 to 0.

Oklahoma and Southern Methodist also clinched conference titles although the Texas Mustangs still can be tied for the laurels in the Southwest circuit. Southern Methodist again waited until late in the game to subdue Baylor, 13 to 6, but Oklahoma started from the kickoff to murder Kansas, 60 to 7. That gave the sooners the Big Seven crown and a toe-hold on a bowl invitation.

ACCEPTS BOWL BID

William and Mary was the major school to accept a bowl bid. The Virginians drubbed North Carolina State, 26 to 6, and will appear in the Delta Bowl at Memphis on Jan. 1. Clemson, another Southern conference power, remained unbeaten with a 42-to-0, conquest of Duquesne and North Carolina stopped Duke, 20 to 0. Each of the victors is a bowl possibility.

With only tradition at stake, Harvard marched to a 20-to-7 verdict over Yale in the granddaddy of all football rivalries.

But the Big Three has fallen on evil days. Princeton, the third member, was battered by Dartmouth, 33 to 13, for the big green's sweep of games with the venerable threesome.

Numerous intersectional affairs dotted the program. Iowa moved east to down Boston university, 34 to 14, for the terriers' second setback of the year; Boston college whipped St. Mary's, 19 to 7, in the mud at the Hub City. San Francisco was the 46 to 13 victim of Villanova in Philadelphia's Shibe Park and Michigan State retained its jinx over Washington State, 40 to 0.

Dayton, 33-7

DAYTON — (AP) — A 27-point scoring splurge in the final quarter gave the University of Dayton a 33-7 victory over Iowa State Teachers College yesterday before a cowd of 6,000.

The Flyers now have won seven games, lost one and tied one.

After a scoreless first half, the Dayton Flyers drove 76 yards with the help of a 49 yard run by Halfback Art Bok. Quarterback Joe Zaleski sneaked over from the one for the score.

In the third quarter, the Teachers' Tackle Bob Ogren recovered a Dayton fumble and ran 36 yards for a touchdown. Elvin Goodvin's placement was good.

In the final quarter, the Flyers exploded with a 20-yard run by Bok for a touchdown on the first play. Ed (Chief) Toscani passed from the 38 to Joe Bannister for another. Then he passed to Halfback Bob Schaeffer for still another tally.

That loked like all the scoring with the Flyers leading 27-7. But Bill Cribbs fumbled the kickoff return and Dayton recovered on the Teacher's 23. With time just for one play Dayton unveiled a tricky double pass play from Toscani to Quarterback Zaleski who rifled the ball over the goal line to End Don Weaver for the final score.

Halfback Joe Devine made the first touchdown by slamming center for 19 yards to cap a 78-yard march. A 52-yard drive brought the second score, then an Akron fumble, recovered on the Akron nine, set up the third tally.

Plans to Back Any Decision

BERKELEY, Calif. — (AP) — California Coach Lynn (Pappy) Waldorf said after the game (California vs. Stafford):

"Any decision the conference makes on the Rose Bowl selection will be backed by California.

"If Oregon is chosen (Oregon won from Oregon State, 10-0 today to remain undefeated in the conference), we'll be glad to give it our scout reports on Northwestern (Northwestern probably will represent the Big Nine in the Rose Bowl).

"Stanford really had a battling team. We gave them the ball too many times."

Nevada Demanding 'Clean' Bill

RENO, Nev.—(AP)—The University of Nevada yesterday demanded that the New York publication "Sports Week" retract a statement that Nevada's football team threw the Nevada-Santa Clara game to benefit Nevada gamblers.

The 14-0 loss by Nevada at Sacramento Nov. 7 was Nevada's first defeat of the season.

Through a law firm, the university said the publication made an "infamous" and "deliberately malicious" attack on the Nevada football team.

The letter was signed by William K. Woodburn of the legal firm of Thatcher, Woodburn and Forman, and was addressed to Marty Berg, publisher of Sports Week, Inc

The attorneys told Berg the Nov 22 issue of the paper made "direct and damaging charges against the University of Nevada Athletic department and the Nevada football team and individuals connected with each."

"Specifically," it said, "your article charged that there was a well-laid plot for Nevada to 'throw' the Nevada-Santa Clara game for the specific benefit of Nevada gamblers."

"You further charged," the attorneys' letter continued, "that members of the Nevada football team are employed in Reno gambling establishments, and that these boys were a part of your alleged plot to 'throw' the game to Santa Clara."

School authorities said no member of the team has been employed in any of Nevada's legal gambling halls since school started, although some worked in the places during vacation.

"The University of Nevada Athletics department makes a categorical and complete denial of the charges and insinuations contained in the article in your publication," Woodburn's letter declared.

It continued: "The Nevada team lost to Santa Clara because of a combination of circumstances. First, Nevada is a passing team; its offense built around a passing attack. Without detracting one bit from the splendid play of the Santa Clara team that day, a high wind at Sacramento, approaching a velocity of 35 to 40 miles an hour, served to nullify any effective passing during the game.

"Thousands of Nevada fans from all over the state were in the stands. Nevada had an undefeated record to protect. The squad, its coach, and athletic department had everything to gain by victory over Santa Clara, including the possibility of an invitation to play in one of the major post season bowl games."

Californians Nip Stanford for Tenth Win

Early Score Gives Bears 7-6 Victory

BERKELEY, Calif. — (AP) — California's Bears squeezed by an inspired Stanford football team, 7-6, yesterday to keep their Rose Bowl chances alive.

While more than 80,000 fans gripped their seats in excitement during a thrill-filled game, the big Bears, 6-1 favorites and expected to win by 20 or more points, fought their toughest batile of the season.

California finished its season with an unblemished record, 10 straight victories. The last was the closest call of all.

After yielding a first period touchdown, the Indians came back to fight the Bears to a standstill. They hit so hard, the Bears couldn't hold the ball. In fact, a recovered fumble led to Stanford's third period touchdown.

Unlike California, the Indians had no accurate placekicker. It cost them a tie.

BOOTS BIG POINT

California's Jim Cullom, doubling as a stout tackle as well, as expert kicker from placement, won the tight game for his school. He booted the ball through the uprights after right halfback Jack Swaner had scored with the game only five minutes old. It was Cullom's twenty-first in a row. He holds the coast conference record for successive trys for points.

The game started out as if to run true to predictions that the Bears would run over Stanford. The Bears received the kickoff. They marched 59 yards for the score. Fullback Jack Jensen, making an impressive bid for all-American honors, was the big punch in the touchdown drive. He slashed off the tackles and end for gains of 18 and 15 yards, respectively.

Jensen, incidentally, carried the ball 19 times for a net gain of 170 yards, an average of nine. He stood out over all the other backs in the game.

OLDEST RIVALRY

The 51st meeting between the two schools, oldest college rivals in the Far West, turned out to be a nightmare for the all-conquering Bears.

Sttanford, after an in and out season, came up with its greatest game.

The Indians made good in the third period, when Fullback Bill De Young recovered Jensen's fumble on California's 22-yard line. Three plunges at the line put the oval 11 yards from the goal. Sophomore Quarterback Tom Shaw connected with a jump pass over the line to Right End Ken Rose. The latter pounded five yards, dragging a couple of Bears with him.

The play that cost Stanford a tie followed. Quarterback Aubrey Devine, a left-footed kicker, practiced placements this week in an effort to bolster the Indians in this department. But the ball slithered off his foot, and the team that was supposed to lose by several touchdowns trailed, 7-6.

The Indians actually outplayed the Bears for a goodly part of the contest.

Stanford	0	0	6	0	—6
California	7	0	0	0	—7

John Carroll 11 Gets 13-to-13 Tie At Bowling Green

BOWLING GREEN—(AP)—John Carroll battled the undefeated Bowling Green State University Falcons to a 13-13 tie yesterday. The visitors knotted the score with only four minutes to go in the final period.

The Falcons struck twice in the first period with touchdowns by fullback Jack Woodland. The first score came on a one yard plunge after a 29 yard drive. Later Woodland went over from the two after a 52 yard drive featured by a 33 yard pass, Quarterback Max Minnich to End Bob Schnelker.

In the second period Fullback Arl Taseff of John Carroll plunged over from the one after a 77 yard march. The visitors threatened in the third period after reaching Bowling Green's four but hit a stonewall. Quarterback Rod Lash punted 72 yards out of danger.

The last quarter drive of 66 yards was paced by Taseff and Holfback Jim Moran. Quarterback Bob Kilfoyle went over on a sneak from the one foot line.

Ed Simmons made good one placement for Bowling Green and Kilfoyle for Carroll. Both missed the vital second placements.

Carroll's Streaks had much the better of the yardage.—21 first downs to Bowling Green's 10 and 349 yards to Bowling Green's 193.

Iowa Hawkeye 11 Rallies for 34 to 14 Win

BOSTON — (AP) — With little Al Di Marco pitching and Jack Dittmer catching, Iowa's Hawkeyes came from behind to trounce Boston university's Terriers, 34-14, yesterday before 12,848 chilled fans at muddy Fenway park.

The last 11 minutes of the game were played under the park's field lights.

The Hawkeyes, trailing 7-14 at the halftime, exploded for 27 points in the third and fourth periods to win going away. Two of those last half scores were aerial thrusts from Di Marco to Dittmer that went for 60 and 32 yards, respectively.

It was the final game for both teams. Iowa wound up the season with a 4-5 record, while the Terriers finished with a 6-2 mark.

Once Iowa started rolling in the third period Boston university proved no match for the hard-running backs and hard-charging linemen from the mid-west.

In registering their impressive triumph, the Hawkeyes piled up 116 yards through rushing against 67 for the Terriers and 213 in the air against 169 for the Bostonians.

Fleet Harvards Whip Yale, 20-7

CAMBRIDGE, Mass — (AP) — Harvard's fleet backs ran Yale ragged in the last quarter yesterday as the Cantabs rallied for two touchdowns and a 20-7 victory over Yale. A capacity crowd of 57,495 saw Harvard overcome a 7-6 Yale margin to win the 65th clash of this storied rivalry.

Hal Moffie ran 80 yards for Harvard's first touchdown.

Denison Grid Outfit Tough On Opponents

GRANVILLE — Statistics for Denison university's second straight undefeated and untied football season show clearly how superior the Big Red was to its eight 1948 opponents. In all statistical departments, Denison had a better average than the combined figure which Otterbein, Capital, Beloit, Wooster, Oberlin, Muskingum, Wittenberg and Case were able to average against it.

Denison averaged 34-6 points per game while holding its opponents to an average of less than seven. The Big Red averaged 388 net yards, holding its opponents to a meager 149. Or putting it on a per-play basis, DU averaged 6.8 yards net gain every time it carried the ball, while it held its opponents to 2.8.

500 ON PASSES

The Big Red completed exactly half of 86 passes and had but nine intercepted. Its opponents were able to connect on 30 of 107 thrown and 20 of the remaining 77 were intercepted.

Individually, Bill Fleitz and Jack Boyer, both fullbacks, were the leading scorers with 72 and 49 points respectively. In ground-gaining, Halfback Ed Rupp with 863 net yards and Fleitz with 673 were the leaders. Rupp averaged 9.7 yards per carry and Fleitz 6.9.

Quarterback Bob Phillips was the team's leading passer with 27 completions in 52 attempts for 432 yards and three touchdowns. Rupp was next here with 13 of 19 for 325 yards and four TD's.

Ends Bob Shannon and Bill Hart led the team in pass receiving. Shannon caught 20 passes for 442 yards and five touchdowns, while Hart caught 16 for 256 yards and one score.

Michigan Nips Ohio State In Thriller, 13-3

Fesler fired his team to the limits and won six games.

And for a while it looked as if the Bucks, refusing to give the Wolverines an inch, might turn in the "upset of the year." But the air attack of the Michigans, their most potent weapon all year, finally turned the tide.

DEFENSIVE DAVE

Outstanding on defense for the Wolves were Center Don Dworsky, Guard Quentin Sickels and Fullback Dick Kempthorn.

For Ohio, Capt. Dave Templeton and Ray Dipierro, both guards, were the outstanding defensive stars.

In winding up their unbeaten championship parade, the Wolves scored 252 points to 44 for nine foes, while Ohio scored 184 and allowed 94 in the same number of games.

Over its 23-game winning streak the Michigans scored 808 points and allowed 116. The game was only the third in the 23 in which the Wolves were held to 13 points.

Chute Jumper Comes In Jeep

MANAGUA, Nicaragua —(AP)— Boy!, would they go nuts about this in Brooklyn

Forty thousand fans jammed the stadium yesterday for the opening game of the international amateur baseball series for Caribbean countries.

The promoters figured out a new twist on getting off with a bang.

So what happened?

The ace Mexican parachute jumper who was to jump into the stadium with the first ball overshot his mark.

He arrived in a jeep after the game was well under way.

Southworth Gives Sunbury Big Field

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Manager Bill Southworth of the Boston Braves, who lives in nearby Sunbury, has given a Sunbury sportsmen's club a large field on Big Walnut Creek.

Robert Ross, president of Big Walnut Conservation, Inc., the sportsmen's club announced the gift yesterday. The field and a cabin was purchased recently by Southworth. The cabin will be available to Boy Scouts and the field will be made a recreation spot for Sunbury, Ross said.

Lou Rymkus, giant tackle of the Cleveland Browns of the All-America pro football Conference, worked the summer as an umpire in the All-American girls baseball League. He evicted four girls from games for disputing close decisions.

Army Hopes to Acquire 'New Look'

Pentagon Plans Call For Change

By ROWLAND EVANS JR.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—If ambitious Pentagon plans are carried out, the man who gets drafted is in for a surprise.

He'll find the army treating him not as just another serial number but as an individual, capital "I."

He will find the army taking a new and special personnel-management interest in him and his well-being—"but not,' the army hastens to add, "at the expense of discipline."

The army's new look has been carefully worked out at the Pentagon building. Top army people feel strongly that the time has come to do a real job of selling the army to the country, and this is their attempt to do it.

Success of the idea, of course, will depend on how it is received and acted on at lower command levels, but here is what the Pentagon planners have planned·

The $75-a-month recruit (that's his official title) will hear a lot of "right face," "left face," and "rear march," but he'll also get lessons on things like "character guidance," his responsibility as a citizen, the misson of the armed forces and his place in it, and national and international issues "pertinent to the soldier."

That last could be inflation at home or communism in France.

INDIVIDUAL DIGNITY

Particular stress will be placed on the recruit's "dignity as an individual," which the army acknowledges is something new for it to be worrying about.

He will be told that just because he has been drafted into (or voluntarily joined) the army does not mean he becomes a machine. Army planners hope to show him a well-rounded life not unlike the one he left.

Parts of the army's new look are not entirely new, but this is the first attempt on a large scale to translate the look into action.

In 1946 the army set up a training unit at Fort Knox, Ky., to experiment scientifically with its new ideas. The experiment is generally considered a success, and the plan is now on an army-wide scale.

"Atmospheres and attitudes" at training camps are under study with an eye to making them as much like home as possible. The army believes no young man goes around looking for trouble It thinks, rather, that he stumbles on it when he gets bored at lack or worthwhile things to do.

Freed from the watchful eye of Mama and Papa, the army recruit must meet new constructive influences, says the army.

These will take the obvious form of plenty of good first-run movies (with the film industry's cooperation); well-stocked libraries ample athletic equipment and playing fields; weekend entertainments such as dances with carefully-screened girls from nearby towns, and off-post activity sponsored by civic organization.

But aside from these purely recreational opportunities, every army camp will have a "character guidance council" composed of a doctor, a chaplain, an information and education specialist and a special services officer, coordinated by the commanding officer.

Weekly seminars on current events are to be another part of the regular training programs. These will implement the army's idea that each recruit has an important place on the American scene and responsibilities of citizenship.

Every recruit will fill out an army activities preference blank showing his particular interests This is a psychological device and fits in with the dozen or so other tests he will take during his basic training, all aimed at fitting the man to the right job.

These tests are no guarantee the soldier will get the job he wants. But, says the army, they will almost certainly keep a man out of a job he is not fitted for.
